GEN. M'ARTHUR HOMEWARD BOUND

Reds Retreat Behind Smoke Pall

Congress Will Hear General On Thursday

Address Set For 12:30, Martin Says

WASHINGTON, April 15. (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur will get the opportunity to tell Congress on Thursday his side of the disagreement which led President Truman to dismiss him.

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, said MacArthur would address a joint meeting of the House and Senate at 12:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time that day.

A formal invitation to appear before the two bodies still has to be acted upon.

President Truman removed MacArthur last week from his post as supreme commander of Allied forces in the Pacific as well as commander of United Nations forces in Korea.

Mr. Truman said he had come to the conclusion that MacArthur was "unable to give his wholehearted support" to the policies being followed by the United States and the United Nations in the war in Korea.

General En Route To U. S.

MacArthur, who went to Japan as a conqueror five years ago, is now en route by plane to the United States, accompanied by his wife and son.

The general got a hero's tribute from the Japanese, as he departed. As he headed for this country, a land he hasn't seen in 14 years of Far Eastern military service, MacArthur faced welcoming ceremonies of various degree from the cities he will touch.

Reached by telephone at his home in North Attleboro, Mass., Martin said "the 12:30 appearance before Congress is definite."

Martin is author of a resolution by which Congress, probably Tuesday, formally will invite MacArthur to address it. Martin is among those named in the resolution to make arrangements for the joint meeting. The others are House Democratic Leader MacCormack of Mass., Senate Democratic Leader McFarland (Ariz) and Senate Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska.

Earlier it had been expected that MacArthur would not reach Washington until Friday, after first stopping in New York City.

Split Over Policy

The arrangements so far are all unofficial but there is no real opposition to the idea of hearing from the General in a ceremonial joint meeting of House and Senate which would at once:

(A) Cap the nationwide tributes being planned for a returning war hero; and

(B) Presumably furnish a formally stated issue for the flaming debate already set off by President Truman's dismissal of MacArthur from command.

Basically the split is over the President's policy of confining fighting in Asia to Korea, which he says is the way to head off World War III, and MacArthur's opposing demand for authority to hit the Communist enemy across the Manchurian border and to use Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese Nationalist troops for a second front. There is a longer-range disagreement over MacArthur's contention that the vital theater of the fight against Red aggression now is Asia, and the administration theory that the real settlement hinges on Europe.

50,000 Unfilled Jobs Reported

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — Fifty thousand unfilled jobs clog the rolls of state employment offices as the nation's huge defense program shifts into second gear for potential new showdowns in Korea or elsewhere.

The biggest demand is for engineers of all kinds, the Bureau of Employment Security reported today. The defense program has greatly stepped up the demand for mechanical and electrical engineers and other professional, technical and skilled workers, Bureau Director Robert C. Goodwin noted.

The bureau, part of the Labor Department, has overall administration of the Federal Employment Service and unemployment insurance system, both of which are actually run by the states.

The 50,000 unfilled jobs are for workers in professional, managerial, skilled, service, clerical and sales, semi-skilled and unskilled fields, Goodwin said.

About 36 states reported openings for 1,736 mechanical and 1,317 electrical engineers.

There was an increased demand for stenographers and typists and vocational training teachers.

MacArthur Itinerary

[By The Associated Press]

Gen. MacArthur's schedule of return to the United States has undergone some changes and more may be made. This was his itinerary as of last night:

7:21 a. m. Monday, Tokyo time (5:21 p. m., Sunday, EST)—Plane "Bataan" left Tokyo.

10:30 a. m. Monday, Tokyo time (8:30 p. m., Sunday, EST)—Army reported plane 800 miles on way to Honolulu, flying about 280 miles-an-hour.

11:52 p. m., Sunday, Honolulu time (4:52 a. m., Monday, EST)—Estimated arrival time at Honolulu.

Tuesday (time unstated) — Departure from Honolulu.

Tuesday evening—Arrival in San Francisco. Tuesday parade plans cancelled at the General's request.

Wednesday morning—Formal ceremony in San Francisco; departure for New York or Washington.

His plans after leaving San Francisco have not been announced, but Rep. Martin (R-Mass), House Republican leader, said the General would address a joint session of Congress at 12:30 p. m., EST., Thursday.

In New York, Mayor Vincent Impellitteri said welcoming ceremonies would be held there Friday instead of Thursday afternoon as announced originally; a Broadway parade is planned.

Probers Of RFC Will Again Try To Quiz Dawson

Fight To Abolish Agency To Continue

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) said today his investigating committee will try again to question White House Aide Donald Dawson about "influence" in the granting of RFC loans as soon as Dawson returns to Washington.

Dawson has been named by the Banking subcommittee investigating the RFC (Reconstruction Finance Corporation) as a member of a clique the committee said brought influence to bear on the operations of the multi-billion dollar lending agency.

Dawson Now In Missouri

So far Dawson, President Truman's personnel assistant, has turned down invitations to give the committee his side of the story. He now is in Missouri, where his father is seriously ill.

Fulbright said in a radio interview:

"The committee — I as chairman of the committee—will request again Mr. Dawson's appearance as soon as he returns from Missouri."

Fulbright added: "I think that Mr. Dalson ought to want to appear, in view of what has been alleged and stated before the committee."

Foes To Continue Fight

Sen. Kem (R-Mo) said meanwhile that a fight to abolish the RFC will continue despite Congress' approval of the President's plan to reorganize the agency.

"I am convinced," Kem said, "that there is enough sentiment in the House and Senate to put through an abolition bill."

The Missourian is the author of a bill to put the much-criticized RFC out of business. Similar measures have been introduced by Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) and Bricker (R-Ohio).

No Schuman Plan Accord

PARIS, Monday, April 16 (AP)—Foreign ministers from Schuman Plan nations met last night and early today without reaching final decision on the projected pooling of most of Western Europe's steel and coal industries.

Allies Seize Yanggu, On Tip Of Reservoir

Enemy Burns Brush To Send Up Screen

TOKYO, Monday, April 16 (AP)—Allied forces rammed against Red positions for limited gains today on the Western and Central Korean war fronts. Communist resistance behind a vast covering smoke-screen was spotty.

A delayed field dispatch reported Yanggu, on the eastern tip of the Hwachon reservoir in Central Korea, was captured by an Allied tank-infantry task force Sunday.

The United Nations force rolled through an artillery barrage and Red mortar fire before seizing the town. Yanggu, about six miles north of parallel 38, was a strong-point in Red defenses around Hwachon reservoir.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker reported Yanggu was deserted when the Allied force entered. Tank shells had exploded an ammunition dump among the shattered mud huts.

Red Counterattack Halted

On the western front, Allied patrols punched into Red positions below Chorwon. Chorwon, 17 miles north of parallel 38, is the western anchor of Communist defenses and believed an assembly point for thousands of Red reinforcements.

At U. S. Eighth Army headquarters, AP Correspondent Robert Eunson reported the Reds had started brush fires to obscure their movements from Allied aircraft. The smoke pall may be hiding preparations for a massive Red counter-offensive.

Smoke billowed over the central front in clouds rising to 8,500 feet. It appeared that the Reds were adding to this shield by use of smudge pots.

Smoke Hampers Airmen

South Korean troops beat off a Red counteratiack in craggy ridges northwest of Imje and 10 miles southeast of Tanggu, on a main road leading to the east coast.

The smoke pall apparently was a new stratagem from Red commanders to hamper aerial support for the Allied advance north of the 38th parallel, and to shroud preparations for a massive Communist counterblow.

The Eighth Army reported the heavy smoke haze "resulting from enemy burning activities" rose over the western front at 1 p. m.

Additional reports of a smoke haze came from the eastern front, as Communist resistance turned light.

Fifth Air Force headquarters said pilots were unable to determine the results of their attacks in many cases "due to the heavy maze that spread over most of Communist-held Korea."

Wild Parsnips Fatal To Three Children

COEBURN, Va., April 15. (AP)—Three Coeburn youngsterns died today after they had eaten wild parsnips while at play near their homes.

Three other children who joined them in eating the poisonous herb were hospitalized but are recovering.

The dead included two members of the same family—Kenneth Jordan, 9, and his sister Judy Jordan, 7. The third fatal victim was 11-year-old Mumford Smith.

Grandfather Admits Weird Slaying Of West Va. Child

SUTTON, W. Va., April 15 (AP) — A seven-year-old boy was found clubbed to death under weird circumstances last night a short time after his older sister was found severely beaten at her grandparents' home.

No charges have yet been filed, but Braxton County Sheriff Robert Carr said both grandparents were committed to a mental hospital at a sanity hearing held following discovery of the beaten children.

Carr said the grandfather, Ike Belknap, 61, apparently administered the beatings. The sheriff said he did not think the grandmother, Mrs. Ammie Belknap, 62, took part.

The dead child, Jimmy Gillespie, was found in a hollow near the Belknap farm home, located in a remote section of the county near Holly, about 20 miles east of here. Carr said the child had been beaten over most of his body, apparently with a wooden club.

The body, covered with a sheet, lay on a burlap coffee sack, Carr said. A hot water bottle was beside the body. Mirrors had been placed by the head and feet. The child's hand clutched a bunch of wild flowers.

The boy's sister, Dottie, 8, was found badly beaten in the Belknap home. She was reported in a satisfactory condition at a Sutton hospital.

Minnesota Flood Refugees Camp Out

In a camp pitched on a railroad embankment near their homes, these Minnesota flood refugees spend nights in this temporary shelter while their families stay with friends. Three refugee goats saunter by to see what's cooking as the men prepare breakfast. High water in the Mississippi River caused the flood.

Collegian Draft Will Be Delayed, Hershey Says

Test Scores, Class Standing Come First

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today drafting of college men will be delayed this spring until their test scores and scholastic standings have been calculated.

Hershey also said, in a broadcast and in conversation with reporters, that he believes "the great mass of college freshmen will assemble freely next fall without interference from Selective Service."

Educators here said thousands of queries have been received from college men worried by the fact that their school terms — and their statutory deferment — may end before they can take the forthcoming college qualification test, or before their scholastic grades are out.

Bill Doesn't Impair Plans

Students who score 70 or better in the test, or who are in the upper ranks scholastically, may be granted occupational deferment in order to resume their education next fall. However, many school terms end before the test dates — May 26, June 16 and June 30 — and scholastic standings often are not determined by colleges for weeks after school is out.

Hershey said also that the Kilday amendment to the draft bill which the House passed Friday, setting out that draft boards are not to be bound by the aptitude tests, "in no way impairs our plans for giving the tests or using the scores."

Compromise To Be Worked Out

The final draft law is yet to be worked out through combination of Senate and House versions. The House voted in the Kilday amendment after hearing arguments that the scholastic deferment plans were unfair and undemocratic — something Hershey previously has disputed.

Hershey described the amendment by Rep. Kilday (D-Tex) as an expression of congressional anxiety lest the authority of local boards be infringed upon.

"It merely recognizes a state of affairs that already has existed — that the ultimate decision as to whether a man should or should not be drafted rests with his local board," Hershey said.

Actor Warner Baxter In Serious Condition

SANTA MONICA, Calif., April 15. (AP)—Actor Warner Baxter, 58, underwent cranial surgery last night at St. John's Hospital here. He was still in a serious condition today.

Baxter, the original Cisco Kid of the films, has been in failing health for the past five months with a chronic illness that induces malnutrition.

Dr. John Sharpe, who performed the surgery, said a week ago that Baxter's condition "is steadily becoming more critical," and that he decided then that an operation would be necessary.

Arlene Dahl, Film Tarzan Squabble; Wedding Cancelled

HOLLYWOOD, April 15 (AP) — Beauteous Actress Arlene Dahl arrived back in Hollywood by plane early today and tearfully rang down the curtain on her romance with Lex Barker, the movie Tarzan.

Filmland's most promising new love affair was to have culminated Thursday in a New York wedding. But a pre-nuptial squabble, Miss Dahl said, has ended it all.

Barker had punctuated his farewell at the New York airport by boarding her plane and having words with his former bride-to-be. The airliner took off a short time later. Miss Dahl was weeping.

The flame-haired star was still on the verge of tears when the plane set down in Los Angeles. She and Barker had quarreled before during their courtship she told a reporter, but this one "definitely is the last."

Truman Tells Demos Peace Comes First

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — President Truman told a reception of Democrats today "it doesn't make any difference what happens to me if we can win the peace."

The President did not elaborate in the course of a brief and impromptu talk to Democrats who remained over in Washington from last night's Jefferson-Jackson dinner to attend the reception.

He said that he had outlined the fundamental basis of this country's foreign policy in his speech at the dinner.

He said then that the U. S. "will not engage in appeasement" and was fighting in Korea to prevent a third world war.

"We want peace—in Korea and in the rest of the world. But we will not give into aggression," he told the dinner meeting.

If the U. S. can carry out that policy, he said, "we'll win the peace." It was then he added:

"It doesn't make any difference what happens to me if we win the peace."

Target Of Truman Ire Supports President

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — The music critic whom President Truman once threatened to poke in the nose—in a letter that became famous—has written the President a letter in a kindlier vein.

The critic, Paul Hume of the Washington Post, said tonight he wrote Mr. Truman supporting the President's stand in the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Hume reviewed a concert by Margaret Truman last December. His published report said the President's daughter sang "flat a good deal of the time."

He promptly received a handwritten letter, signed H.S.T., declaring "I never met you but if I do you'll need a new nose and plenty of beefsteak and perhaps a supporter below."

Most Recruits Receiving Good Basic Training

Fort Knox Exception, Senate Probers Say

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — Most of the thousands of raw recruits in the nation's armed service are getting good basic training and fair treatment, Senate investigators reported today.

One exception was noted in "a deplorable situation at the Army processing center, Fort Knox, Ky., where recruits were said to be subjest to "inefficient and disorganized handling."

Fort Knox was the only training center cited as having "low morale." It said that in one 50-recruit company there, 24 recruits were absent without leave, 13 were in confinement and seven were sick.

16 Centers Checked

The report was based on a quick check of 16 recruit training centers of the Army, Navy Air Force and Marines by eight special investigators of the Senate's Armed Preparedness subcommittee.

Johnson's investigation group at that time criticized top Air Force officers for a "greedy grab" for young men anxious to escape being drafted into the Army for infantry duty. It said overcrowding caused a complete collapse of the Air Force training program early this year.

"Trying To Do Good Job"

In today's report Chairman Johnson said the "main purpose in making this investigation was to let the young men of the nation, their parents and all citizens, know how the services are doing this all-important job of transforming civilian youths into trained soldiers.

"We are pleased to report that generally the services are trying to do a good job."

Hull Back In Hospital

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP) — Former Secretary of State Cordell Hull has re-entered Bethesda Naval Hospital for medical observation but is not on the serious list.

Hull, 79, is expected to be in the hospital for a week, undergoing checkups.

Reds Protest U. S. Navy 'Maneuvers' In Formosa Strait

TOKYO, Monday, April 16. (AP)—The Chinese Communist radio at Peiping charged last night that the U. S. Navy held "maneuvers" in the Formosa Straits, and that at the same time American planes bombed Northeast China and raided the coastal areas of Fukien Province in South China.

The broadcast, heard here, said the maneuvers began April 10 and lasted four days.

Other rancorous broadcasts alleged that American raids near the Manchurian-North Korean boundary "proves that the dismissal of MacArthur does not mean any change of policy from aggression but is only a smoke screen for enlarging aggression."

Pace Says U. N. Army Can Take Care Of Itself

Secretary Flying Back To Washington

MANILA, April 15 (AP) — Army Secretary Frank Pace, Jr., headed back across the Pacific by plane today for Honolulu, bound to Washington after private conferences with President Quirino and Philippine defense leaders.

His rapid tour of the Far East took him to Tokyo on the eve of Gen. MacArthur's dismissal, and to Korea as the U. S. Eighth Army changed commanders.

Pace declared the allies' "tough, fighting army with high morale and great leadership" would be able to take care of itself when the Chinese Communists launch their expected spring attack.

At a press conference the Army Secretary said the principal object of his recent visit to Korea was to determine for himself whether more South Koreans could be used as soldiers in the battle against the Communists.

"I found them competent as fighting men, with increasing confidence daily in their ability," said Pace. "I addressed myself particularly to a study of their training program. They have had to learn as they fought, which is difficult. But they are men of real courage. With an efficient training program they will make good soldiers."

Pace praised Filipino soldiers in Korea, saying they are "discharging their responsibilities with great credit to this nation and to the United Nations."

Lie Is 'Neutral' In 'Great Debate'

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, April 15 (AP)—U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie said today the situation in the West — particularly the explosive Balkans—is serious, and in the East there still is no sign of an end to the Korean war.

Thus he took no sides in the "Great Debate" which followed the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur: Shall the big fight against Communism be fought in Europe or Asia.

He made his statement at a news conference here before going on to Athens for another visit on his swing through the continent.

Lie carefully avoided optimistic predictions concerning the world situation, but he emphasized that the best hope of peace in the world was through collective security in a strong United Nations.

$300,000 In Jewels Taken From Hope Hampton's Home

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) — Former Film Actress Hope Hampton was robbed of $300,000 worth of jewelry, $15,000 in cash and a $15,000 mink coat early today, police reported.

The jewels, coat and cash were taken from the ransacked four-story and basement dwelling of Miss Hampton at 1145 Park Avenue.

Police said the burglary took place in the early morning hours while Miss Hampton, her maid and butler were absent from the luxurious home. They said the butler, Charles Murray, told them he found the front door open when he returned at 8 a. m. (EST).

The jewelry and $10,000 of the cash was taken from a small safe in a closet of Miss Hampton's second floor bedroom. The mink coat had been hanging in the same closet. The safe, 15 by 15 by 18 inches, was carted away by the thieves. Police said the other cash was taken from a closet in a fourth-floor guest room.

They said the burglars apparently made their way over roof tops to gain entrance to Miss Hampton's home through an emergency door leading by stairway to the top floor of the house. They left by the front door.

General Given Hero's Sendoff By Japanese

Planes, Guns Join In Farewell Salute

TOKYO, Monday, April 16 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur started the long journey home today with a hero's farewell from the Japanese to whom he came as a conqueror five years and seven months ago.

From the moment he left his home in the American Embassy at 6:28 a. m. until his silvery Constellation, the "Bataan" took off at 7:21 a. m. (5:21 p. m. EST Sunday), the General's departure was a brilliant pageant.

It was replete with military pomp and protocol, with honor guards and blaring bands, swishing jet planes, saluting officers and cheering, bowing and gaping Japanese by the hundreds and hundreds of thousands.

The 71-year-old soldier statesman was relieved from all his command April 11 by President Truman because of a disagreement over how to fight the Korean war and how to contain Communist aggression in the Far East.

Now he is homeward bound, to great public welcomes in Honolulu, San Francisco and New York, and to address a joint session of Congress on his policy views. He expected to reach Honolulu about midnight Sunday, Honolulu time (5 a.m. Monday, EST), but the remainder of his schedule was not definite as to time.

Salutes Honor Guard

Since the dismissal, MacArthur had kept himself secluded from the public until this morning, when he took his place in a waiting black limousine beside his devoted wife, Jean, and 13-year-old son, Arthur.

Stiffly erect and without a flicker, he saluted the 30-man honor guard representing all branches of the U. S. armed forces as his car rolled from the embassy grounds onto the rutted, Tokyo streets where an estimated 500,000 to 1,000,000 Japanese awaited.

His staff members and domestic staff who accompanied him followed in six other cars while 10,000 Japanese police lined the processional route—not for security, they said, but as a goodbye tribute to the man who has been their acting emperor since Sept. 2, 1945.

One braided cap American officer standing in the line along the streets quoted freely from Shakespeare's Othello as the limousine sped by:

"The Moor has done his work, now the Moor must go."

At Haneda airport, the occupation hierarchy was assembled. Wives lined one side of the runway.

Guns Roar In Salute

MacArthur's successor, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway stepped forward and saluted.

As MacArthur's aide had predicted, it was MacArthur's finest hour in a life that has known many fine ones.

The wind was a bit heavy and it was cold. The General's breath was frosty.

An honor guard lined the way inside the airport.

MacArthur, old soldier that he is, inspected it.

Iranian Troops Restore Order

ABADAN, Iran, April 15 (AP) — Iranian army troops, led by tanks and firing into the air, broke up a demonstration of 4,000 striking oil workers and their sympathizers today in a display of official determination to restore order in Abadan.

The troops had seized the headquarters of the strikers who touched off bloody riots here last Thursday. They quickly squashed an apparent effort to recapture it.

The display of force directed by Brig. Gen. Azizollah Kamal, 45-year-old military governor, brought the first real peace to Abadan since three Britains and six Iranians were killed four days ago in a sudden outburst of violence by Communist-influenced strikers.

But most of the workers employed by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company remained away from their jobs and production at the world's largest refinery here was slashed by 75 per cent.

Chinese and Korean Reds battled bitterly to block a three-pronged Allied drive Sunday on the hills below Chorwon. The hills were littered with Communist dead after a heavy Allied artillery barrage.

Smoke Hampers Airmen

South Korean troops beat off a Red counterattack in craggy ridges northwest of Imje and 10 miles southeast of Tanggu, on a main road leading to the east coast.

The smoke pall apparently was a new stratagem from Red commanders to hamper aerial support for the Allied advance north of the 38th parallel, and to shroud preparations for a massive Communist counterblow.

The Eighth Army reported the heavy smoke haze "resulting from enemy burning activities" rose over the western front at 1 p. m.

Additional reports of a smoke haze came from the eastern front, as Communist resistance turned light.

Fifth Air Force headquarters said pilots were unable to determine the results of their attacks in many cases "due to the heavy maze that spread over most of Communist-held Korea."

Wild Parsnips Fatal To Three Children

COEBURN, Va., April 15. (AP)—Three Coeburn youngsterns died today after they had eaten wild parsnips while at play near their homes.

Three other children who joined them in eating the poisonous herb were hospitalized but are recovering.

The dead included two members of the same family—Kenneth Jordan, 9, and his sister Judy Jordan, 7. The third fatal victim was 11-year-old Mumford Smith.

Grandfather Admits Weird Slaying Of West Va. Child

SUTTON, W. Va., April 15 (AP) — A seven-year-old boy was found clubbed to death under weird circumstances last night a short time after his older sister was found severely beaten at her grandparents' home.

No charges have yet been filed, but Braxton County Sheriff Robert Carr said both grandparents were committed to a mental hospital at a sanity hearing held following discovery of the beaten children.

Carr said the grandfather, Ike Belknap, 61, apparently administered the beatings. The sheriff said he did not think the grandmother, Mrs. Ammie Belknap, 62, took part.

The dead child, Jimmy Gillespie, was found in a hollow near the Belknap farm home, located in a remote section of the county near Holly, about 20 miles east of here. Carr said the child had been beaten over most of his body, apparently with a wooden club.

The body, covered with a sheet, lay on a burlap coffee sack, Carr said. A hot water bottle was beside the body. Mirrors had been placed by the head and feet. The child's hand clutched a bunch of wild flowers.

The boy's sister, Dottie, 8, was found badly beaten in the Belknap home. She was reported in a satisfactory condition at a Sutton hospital.

Collegian Draft Will Be Delayed, Hershey Says

Test Scores, Class Standing Come First

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today drafting of college men will be delayed this spring until their test scores and scholastic standings have been calculated.

Hershey also said, in a broadcast and in conversation with reporters, that he believes "the great mass of college freshmen will assemble freely next fall without interference from Selective Service."

Educators here said thousands of queries have been received from college men worried by the fact that their school terms — and their statutory deferment — may end before they can take the forthcoming college qualification test, or before their scholastic grades are out.

Bill Doesn't Impair Plans

Students who score 70 or better in the test, or who are in the upper ranks scholastically, may be granted occupational deferment in order to resume their education next fall. However, many school terms end before the test dates — May 26, June 16 and June 30 — and scholastic standings often are not determined by colleges for weeks after school is out.

Hershey said also that the Kilday amendment to the draft bill which the House passed Friday, setting out that draft boards are not to be bound by the aptitude tests, "in no way impairs our plans for giving the tests or using the scores."

Compromise To Be Worked Out

The final draft law is yet to be worked out through combination of Senate and House versions. The House voted in the Kilday amendment after hearing arguments that the scholastic deferment plans were unfair and undemocratic — something Hershey previously has disputed.

Hershey described the amendment by Rep. Kilday (D-Tex) as an expression of congressional anxiety lest the authority of local boards be infringed upon.

"It merely recognizes a state of affairs that already has existed — that the ultimate decision as to whether a man should or should not be drafted rests with his local board," Hershey said.

Actor Warner Baxter In Serious Condition

SANTA MONICA, Calif., April 15. (AP)—Actor Warner Baxter, 58, underwent cranial surgery last night at St. John's Hospital here. He was still in a serious condition today.

Baxter, the original Cisco Kid of the films, has been in failing health for the past five months with a chronic illness that induces malnutrition.

Dr. John Sharpe, who performed the surgery, said a week ago that Baxter's condition "is steadily becoming more critical," and that he decided then that an operation would be necessary.

Arlene Dahl, Film Tarzan Squabble; Wedding Cancelled

HOLLYWOOD, April 15 (AP) — Beauteous Actress Arlene Dahl arrived back in Hollywood by plane early today and tearfully rang down the curtain on her romance with Lex Barker, the movie Tarzan.

Filmland's most promising new love affair was to have culminated Thursday in a New York wedding. But a pre-nuptial squabble, Miss Dahl said, has ended it all.

Barker had punctuated his farewell at the New York airport by boarding her plane and having words with his former bride-to-be. The airliner took off a short time later. Miss Dahl was weeping.

The flame-haired star was still on the verge of tears when the plane set down in Los Angeles. She and Barker had quarreled before during their courtship she told a reporter, but this one "definitely is the last."

Truman Tells Demos Peace Comes First

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — President Truman told a reception of Democrats today "it doesn't make any difference what happens to me if we can win the peace."

The President did not elaborate in the course of a brief and impromptu talk to Democrats who remained over in Washington from last night's Jefferson-Jackson dinner to attend the reception.

He said that he had outlined the fundamental basis of this country's foreign policy in his speech at the dinner.

He said then that the U. S. "will not engage in appeasement" and was fighting in Korea to prevent a third world war.

"We want peace—in Korea and in the rest of the world. But we will not give into aggression," he told the dinner meeting.

If the U. S. can carry out that policy, he said, "we'll win the peace." It was then he added;

"It doesn't make any difference what happens to me if we win the peace."

Target Of Truman Ire Supports President

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — The music critic whom President Truman once threatened to poke in the nose—in a letter that became famous—has written the President a letter in a kindlier vein.

The critic, Paul Hume of the Washington Post, said tonight he wrote Mr. Truman supporting the President's stand in the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Hume reviewed a concert by Margaret Truman last December. His published report said the President's daughter sang "flat a good deal of the time."

He promptly received a handwritten letter, signed H.S.T., declaring "I never met you but if I do you'll need a new nose and plenty of beefsteak and perhaps a supporter below."

Most Recruits Receiving Good Basic Training

Fort Knox Exception, Senate Probers Say

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — Most of the thousands of raw recruits in the nation's armed service are getting good basic training and fair treatment, Senate investigators reported today.

One exception was noted in "a deplorable situation at the Army processing center, Fort Knox, Ky., where recruits were said to be subjest to "inefficient and disorganized handling."

Fort Knox was the only training center cited as having "low morale." It said that in one 50-recruit company there, 24 recruits were absent without leave, 13 were in confinement and seven were sick.

16 Centers Checked

The report was based on a quick check of 16 recruit training centers of the Army, Navy Air Force and Marines by eight special investigators of the Senate's Armed Preparedness subcommittee.

Johnson's investigation group at that time criticized top Air Force officers for a "greedy grab" for young men anxious to escape being drafted into the Army for infantry duty. It said overcrowding caused a complete collapse of the Air Force training program early this year.

"Trying To Do Good Job"

In today's report Chairman Johnson said the "main purpose in making this investigation was to let the young men of the nation, their parents and all citizens, know how the services are doing this all-important job of transforming civilian youths into trained soldiers.

Hull Back In Hospital

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP) — Former Secretary of State Cordell Hull has re-entered Bethesda Naval Hospital for medical observation but is not on the serious list.

Hull, 79, is expected to be in the hospital for a week, undergoing checkups.

Reds Protest U. S. Navy 'Maneuvers' In Formosa Strait

TOKYO, Monday, April 16. (AP)—The Chinese Communist radio at Peiping charged last night that the U. S. Navy held "maneuvers" in the Formosa Straits, and that at the same time American planes bombed Northeast China and raided the coastal areas of Fukien Province in South China.

The broadcast, heard here, said the maneuvers began April 10 and lasted four days.

Other rancorous broadcasts alleged that American raids near the Manchurian-North Korean boundary "proves that the dismissal of MacArthur does not mean any change of policy from aggression but is only a smoke screen for enlarging aggression."

Pace Says U. N. Army Can Take Care Of Itself

Secretary Flying Back To Washington

MANILA, April 16 (AP) — Army Secretary Frank Pace, Jr., headed back across the Pacific by plane today for Honolulu, bound to Washington after private conferences with President Quirino and Philippine defense leaders.

His rapid tour of the Far East took him to Tokyo on the eve of Gen. MacArthur's dismissal, and to Korea as the U. S. Eighth Army changed commanders.

Pace declared the allies' "tough, fighting army with high morale and great leadership" would be able to take care of itself when the Chinese Communists launch their expected spring attack.

At a press conference the Army Secretary said the principal object of his recent visit to Korea was to determine for himself whether more South Koreans could be used as soldiers in the battle against the Communists.

"I found them competent as fighting men, with increasing confidence daily in their ability," said Pace. "I addressed myself particularly to a study of their training program. They have had to learn as they fought, which is difficult. But they are men of real courage. With an efficient training program they will make good soldiers."

Pace praised Filipino soldiers in Korea, saying they are "discharging their responsibilities with great credit to this nation and to the United Nations."

Lie Is 'Neutral' In 'Great Debate'

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, April 15 (AP)—U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie said today the situation in the West — particularly the explosive Balkans—is serious, and in the East there still is no sign of an end to the Korean war.

Thus he took no sides in the "Great Debate" which followed the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur: Shall the big fight against Communism be fought in Europe or Asia.

He made his statement at a news conference here before going on to Athens for another visit on his swing through the continent.

Lie carefully avoided optimistic predictions concerning the world situation, but he emphasized that the best hope of peace in the world was through collective security in a strong United Nations.

$300,000 In Jewels Taken From Hope Hampton's Home

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) — Former Film Actress Hope Hampton was robbed of $300,000 worth of jewelry, $15,000 in cash and a $15,000 mink coat early today, police reported.

The jewels, coat and cash were taken from the ransacked four-story and basement dwelling of Miss Hampton at 1145 Park Avenue.

Police said the burglary took place in the early morning hours while Miss Hampton, her maid and butler were absent from the luxurious home. They said the butler, Charles Murray, told them he found the front door open when he returned at 8 a. m. (EST).

The jewelry and $10,000 of the cash was taken from a small safe in a closet of Miss Hampton's second floor bedroom. The mink coat had been hanging in the same closet. The safe, 15 by 15 by 18 inches, was carted away by the thieves. Police said the other cash was taken from a closet in a fourth-floor guest room.

They said the burglars apparently made their way over roof tops to gain entrance to Miss Hampton's home through an emergency door leading by stairway to the top floor of the house. They left by the front door.

General Given Hero's Sendoff By Japanese

Planes, Guns Join In Farewell Salute

TOKYO, Monday, April 16 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur started the long journey home today with a hero's farewell from the Japanese to whom he came as a conqueror five years and seven months ago.

From the moment he left his home in the American Embassy at 6:28 a. m. until his silvery Constellation, the "Bataan" took off at 7:21 a. m. (5:21 p. m. EST Sunday), the General's departure was a brilliant pageant.

It was replete with military pomp and protocol, with honor guards and blaring bands, swishing jet planes, saluting officers and cheering, bowing and gaping Japanese by the hundreds and hundreds of thousands.

The 71-year-old soldier statesman was relieved from all his command April 11 by President Truman because of a disagreement over how to fight the Korean war and how to contain Communist aggression in the Far East.

Now he is homeward bound, to great public welcomes in Honolulu, San Francisco and New York, and to address a joint session of Congress on his policy views. He expected to reach Honolulu about midnight Sunday, Honolulu time (5 a.m. Monday, EST), but the remainder of his schedule was not definite as to time.

Salutes Honor Guard

Since the dismissal, MacArthur had kept himself secluded from the public until this morning, when he took his place in a waiting black limousine beside his devoted wife, Jean, and 13-year-old son, Arthur.

Stiffly erect and without a flicker, he saluted the 30-man honor guard representing all branches of the U. S. armed forces as his car rolled from the embassy grounds onto the rutted, Tokyo streets where an estimated 500,000 to 1,000,000 Japanese awaited.

His staff members and domestic staff who accompanied him followed in six other cars while 10,000 Japanese police lined the processional route—not for security, they said, but as a goodbye tribute to the man who has been their acting emperor since Sept. 2, 1945.

One braided cap American officer standing in the line along the streets quoted freely from Shakespeare's Othello as the limousine sped by:

"The Moor has done his work, now the Moor must go."

At Haneda airport, the occupation hierarchy was assembled. Wives lined one side of the runway.

The military, the diplomats and Japanese officials were arrayed in strict order of precedence.

Guns Roar In Salute

The solemnly spaced boom of 19-guns roared in salute.

MacArthur's successor, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway stepped forward and saluted.

As MacArthur's aide had predicted, it was MacArthur's finest hour in a life that has known many fine ones.

The wind was a bit heavy and it was cold. The General's breath was frosty.

An honor guard lined the way inside the airport.

MacArthur, old soldier that he is, inspected it.

Iranian Troops Restore Order

ABADAN, Iran, April 15 (AP) — Iranian army troops, led by tanks and firing into the air, broke up a demonstration of 4,000 striking oil workers and their sympathizers today in a display of official determination to restore order in Abadan.

The troops had seized the headquarters of the strikers who touched off bloody riots here last Thursday. They quickly squashed an apparent effort to recapture it.

The display of force directed by Brig. Gen. Azizollah Kamal, 45-year-old military governor, brought the first real peace to Abadan since three Britains and six Iranians were killed four days ago in a sudden outburst of violence by Communist-influenced strikers.

But most of the workers employed by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company remained away from their jobs and production at the world's largest refinery here was slashed by 75 per cent.

Weather Forecast

GEN. M'ARTHUR HOMEWARD BOUND

Reds Retreat Behind Smoke Pall

Congress Will Hear General On Thursday

Address Set For 12:30, Martin Says

WASHINGTON, April 15. (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur will get the opportunity to tell Congress on Thursday his side of the disagreement which led President Truman to dismiss him.

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, said MacArthur would address a joint meeting of the House and Senate at 12:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time that day.

A formal invitation to appear before the two bodies still has to be acted upon.

President Truman removed MacArthur last week from his post as supreme commander of Allied forces in the Pacific as well as commander of United Nations forces in Korea.

Mr. Truman said he had come to the conclusion that MacArthur was "unable to give his wholehearted support" to the policies being followed by the United States and the United Nations in the war in Korea.

General En Route To U. S.

MacArthur, who went to Japan as a conqueror five years ago, is now en route by plane to the United States, accompanied by his wife and son.

The general got a hero's tribute from the Japanese, as he departed. As he headed for this country, a land he hasn't seen in 14 years of Far Eastern military service, MacArthur faced welcoming ceremonies of various degree from the cities he will touch.

Reached by telephone at his home in North Attleboro, Mass., Martin said "the 12:30 appearance before Congress is definite."

Martin is author of a resolution by which Congress, probably Tuesday, formally will invite MacArthur to address it. Martin is among those named in the resolution to make arrangements for the joint meeting. The others are House Democratic Leader MacCormack of Mass., Senate Democratic Leader McFarland (Ariz) and Senate Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska.

Earlier it had been expected that MacArthur would not reach Washington until Friday, after first stopping in New York City.

Split Over Policy

The arrangements so far are all unofficial but there is no real opposition to the idea of hearing from the General in a ceremonial joint meeting of House and Senate which would at once:

(A) Cap the nationwide tributes being planned for a returning war hero; and

(B) Presumably furnish a formally stated issue for the flaming debate already set off by President Truman's dismissal of MacArthur from command.

Basically the split is over the President's policy of confining fighting in Asia to Korea, which he says is the way to head off World War III, and MacArthur's opposing demand for authority to hit the Communist enemy across the Manchurian border and to use Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese Nationalist troops for a second front. There is a longer-range disagreement over MacArthur's contention that the vital theater of the fight against Red aggression now is Asia, and the administration theory that the real settlement hinges on Europe.

50,000 Unfilled Jobs Reported

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — Fifty thousand unfilled jobs clog the rolls of state employment offices as the nation's huge defense program shifts into second gear for potential new showdowns in Korea or elsewhere.

The biggest demand is for engineers of all kinds, the Bureau of Employment Security reported today. The defense program has greatly stepped up the demand for mechanical and electrical engineers and other professional, technical and skilled workers, Bureau Director Robert C. Goodwin noted.

The bureau, part of the Labor Department, has overall administration of the Federal Employment Service and unemployment insurance system, both of which are actually run by the states.

The 50,000 unfilled jobs are for workers in professional, managerial, skilled, service, clerical and sales, semi-skilled and unskilled fields, Goodwin said.

About 36 states reported openings for 1,736 mechanical and 1,317 electrical engineers.

There was an increased demand for stenographers and typists and vocational training teachers.

MacArthur Itinerary

[By The Associated Press]

Gen. MacArthur's schedule of return to the United States has undergone some changes and more may be made. This was his itinerary as of last night:

7:21 a. m. Monday, Tokyo time (5:21 p. m., Sunday, EST)—Plane "Bataan" left Tokyo.

10:30 a. m. Monday, Tokyo time (8:30 p. m., Sunday, EST)—Army reported plane 800 miles on way to Honolulu, flying about 280 miles-an-hour.

11:52 p. m., Sunday, Honolulu time (4:52 a. m., Monday, EST)—Estimated arrival time at Honolulu.

Tuesday (time unstated) — Departure from Honolulu.

Tuesday evening—Arrival in San Francisco. Tuesday parade plans cancelled at the General's request.

Wednesday morning—Formal ceremony in San Francisco; departure for New York or Washington.

His plans after leaving San Francisco have not been announced, but Rep. Martin (R-Mass), House Republican leader, said the General would address a joint session of Congress at 12:30 p. m., EST., Thursday.

In New York, Mayor Vincent Impellitteri said welcoming ceremonies would be held there Friday instead of Thursday afternoon as announced originally; a Broadway parade is planned.

Probers Of RFC Will Again Try To Quiz Dawson

Fight To Abolish Agency To Continue

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) said today his investigating committee will try again to question White House Aide Donald Dawson about "influence" in the granting of RFC loans as soon as Dawson returns to Washington.

Dawson has been named by the Banking subcommittee investigating the RFC (Reconstruction Finance Corporation) as a member of a clique the committee said brought influence to bear on the operations of the multi-billion dollar lending agency.

Dawson Now In Missouri

So far Dawson, President Truman's personnel assistant, has turned down invitations to give the committee his side of the story. He now is in Missouri, where his father is seriously ill.

Fulbright said in a radio interview:

"The committee — I as chairman of the committee—will request again Mr. Dawson's appearance as soon as he returns from Missouri."

Fulbright added: "I think that Mr. Dalson ought to want to appear, in view of what has been alleged and stated before the committee."

Foes To Continue Fight

Sen. Kem (R-Mo) said meanwhile that a fight to abolish the RFC will continue, despite Congress' approval of the President's plan to reorganize the agency.

"I am convinced," Kem said, "that there is enough sentiment in the House and Senate to put through an abolition bill."

The Missourian is the author of a bill to put the much-criticized RFC out of business. Similar measures have been introduced by Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) and Bricker (R-Ohio).

No Schuman Plan Accord

Allies Seize Yanggu, On Tip Of Reservoir

Enemy Burns Brush To Send Up Screen

TOKYO, Monday, April 16 (AP)—Allied forces rammed against Red positions for limited gains today on the Western and Central Korean war fronts. Communist resistance behind a vast covering smokescreen was spotty.

A delayed field dispatch reported Yanggu, on the eastern tip of the Hwachon reservoir in Central Korea, was captured by an Allied tank-infantry task force Sunday.

The United Nations force rolled through an artillery barrage and Red mortar fire before seizing the town. Yanggu, about six miles north of parallel 38, was a strongpoint in Red defenses around Hwachon reservoir.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker reported Yanggu was deserted when the Allied force entered. Tank shells had exploded an ammunition dump among the shattered mud huts.

Red Counterattack Halted

On the western front, Allied patrols punched into Red positions below Chorwon. Chorwon, 17 miles north of parallel 38, is the western anchor of Communist defenses and believed an assembly point for thousands of Red reinforcements.

At U. S. Eighth Army headquarters, AP Correspondent Robert Eunson reported the Reds had started brush fires to obscure their movements from Allied aircraft. The smoke pall may be hiding preparations for a massive Red counter-offensive.

Smoke billowed over the central front in clouds rising to 8,500 feet. It appeared that the Reds were adding to this shield by use of smudge pots.

Chinese and Korean Reds battled bitterly to block a three-pronged Allied drive Sunday on the hills below Chorwon. The hills were littered with Communist dead after a heavy Allied artillery barrage.

Johnson's investigation group at that time criticized top Air Force officers for a "greedy grab" for young men anxious to escape being drafted into the Army for infantry duty. It said overcrowding caused a complete collapse of the Air Force training program early this year.

"Trying To Do Good Job"

In today's report Chairman Johnson said the "main purpose in making this investigation was to let the young men of the nation, their parents and all citizens, know how the services are doing this all-important job of transforming civilian youths into trained soldiers.

"We are pleased to report that generally the services are trying to do a good job."

Hull Back In Hospital

WASHINGTON, April 13 (AP) — Former Secretary of State Cordell Hull has re-entered Bethesda Naval Hospital for medical observation but is not on the serious list.

Hull, 79, is expected to be in the hospital for a week, undergoing checkups.

Reds Protest U. S. Navy 'Maneuvers' In Formosa Strait

TOKYO, Monday, April 16. (AP)—The Chinese Communist radio at Peiping charged last night that the U. S. Navy held "maneuvers" in the Formosa Straits, and that at the same time American planes bombed Northeast China and raided the coastal areas of Fukien Province in South China.

The broadcast, heard here, said the maneuvers began April 10 and lasted four days.

Other rancorous broadcasts alleged that American raids near the Manchurian-North Korean boundary "proves that the dismissal of MacArthur does not mean any change of policy from aggression but is only a smoke screen for enlarging aggression."

Pace Says U. N. Army Can Take Care Of Itself

Secretary Flying Back To Washington

MANILA, April 15 (AP) — Army Secretary Frank Pace, Jr., headed back across the Pacific by plane today for Honolulu, bound to Washington after private conferences with President Quirino and Philippine defense leaders.

His rapid tour of the Far East took him to Tokyo on the eve of Gen. MacArthur's dismissal, and to Korea as the U. S. Eighth Army changed commanders.

Pace declared the allies' "tough, fighting army with high morale and great leadership" would be able to take care of itself when the Chinese Communists launch their expected spring attack.

At a press conference the Army Secretary said the principal object of his recent visit to Korea was to determine for himself whether more South Koreans could be used as soldiers in the battle against the Communists.

"I found them competent as fighting men, with increasing confidence daily in their ability," said Pace. "I addressed myself particularly to a study of their training program. They have had to learn as they fought, which is difficult. But they are men of real courage. With an efficient training program they will make good soldiers."

Pace praised Filipino soldiers in Korea, saying they are "discharging their responsibilities with great credit to this nation and to the United Nations."

Lie Is 'Neutral' In 'Great Debate'

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, April 15 (AP)—U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie said today the situation in the West — particularly the explosive Balkans—is serious, and in the East there still is no sign of an end to the Korean war.

Thus he took no sides in the "Great Debate" which followed the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur: Shall the big fight against Communism be fought in Europe or Asia.

He made his statement at a news conference here before going on to Athens for another visit on his swing through the continent.

Lie carefully avoided optimistic predictions concerning the world situation, but he emphasized that the best hope of peace in the world was through collective security in a strong United Nations.

$300,000 In Jewels Taken From Hope Hampton's Home

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) — Former Film Actress Hope Hampton was robbed of $300,000 worth of jewelry, $15,000 in cash and a $15,000 mink coat early today, police reported.

The jewels, coat and cash were taken from the ransacked four-story and basement dwelling of Miss Hampton at 1145 Park Avenue.

Police said the burglary took place in the early morning hours while Miss Hampton, her maid and butler were absent from the luxurious home. They said the butler, Charles Murray, told them he found the front door open when he returned at 8 a. m. (EST).

The jewelry and $10,000 of the cash was taken from a small safe in a closet of Miss Hampton's second floor bedroom. The mink coat had been hanging in the same closet. The safe, 15 by 15 by 18 inches, was carted away by the thieves. Police said the other cash was taken from a closet in a fourth-floor guest room.

They said the burglars apparently made their way over roof tops to gain entrance to Miss Hampton's home through an emergency door leading by stairway to the top floor of the house. They left by the front door.

General Given Hero's Sendoff By Japanese

Planes, Guns Join In Farewell Salute

TOKYO, Monday, April 16 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur started the long journey home today with a hero's farewell from the Japanese to whom he came as a conqueror five years and seven months ago.

From the moment he left his home in the American Embassy at 6:26 a. m. until his silvery Constellation, the "Bataan" took off at 7:21 a. m. (5:21 p. m. EST Sunday), the General's departure was a brilliant pageant.

It was replete with military pomp and protocol, with honor guards and blaring bands, swishing jet planes, saluting officers and cheering, bowing and gaping Japanese by the hundreds and hundreds of thousands.

The 71-year-old soldier statesman was relieved from all his command April 11 by President Truman because of a disagreement over how to fight the Korean war and how to contain Communist aggression in the Far East.

Now he is homeward bound, to great public welcomes in Honolulu, San Francisco and New York, and to address a joint session of Congress on his policy views. He expected to reach Honolulu about midnight Sunday, Honolulu time (5 a.m. Monday, EST), but the remainder of his schedule was not definite as to time.

Salutes Honor Guard

Since the dismissal, MacArthur had kept himself secluded from the public until this morning, when he took his place in a waiting black limousine beside his devoted wife, Jean, and 13-year-old son, Arthur.

Stiffly erect and without a flicker, he saluted the 30-man honor guard representing all branches of the U. S. armed forces as his car rolled from the embassy grounds onto the rutted, Tokyo streets where an estimated 500,000 to 1,000,000 Japanese awaited.

His staff members and domestic staff who accompanied him followed in six other cars while 10,000 Japanese police lined the processional route—not for security, they said, but as a goodbye tribute to the man who has been their acting emperor since Sept. 2, 1945.

One braided cap American officer standing in the line along the streets quoted freely from Shakespeare's Othello as the limousine sped by:

"The Moor has done his work, now the Moor must go."

At Haneda airport, the occupation hierarchy was assembled. Wives lined one side of the runway.

The military, the diplomats and Japanese officials were arrayed in strict order of precedence.

Guns Roar In Salute

The solemnly spaced boom of 19-guns roared in salute.

MacArthur's successor, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway stepped forward and saluted.

As MacArthur's aide had predicted, it was MacArthur's finest hour in a life that has known many fine ones.

The wind was a bit heavy and it was cold. The General's breath was frosty.

An honor guard lined the way inside the airport.

MacArthur, old soldier that he is, inspected it.

Iranian Troops Restore Order

ABADAN, Iran, April 15 (AP) — Iranian army troops, led by tanks and firing into the air, broke up a demonstration of 4,000 striking oil workers and their sympathizers today in a display of official determination to restore order in Abadan.

The troops had seized the headquarters of the strikers who touched off bloody riots here last Thursday. They quickly squashed an apparent effort to recapture it.

The display of force directed by Brig. Gen. Azizollah Kamal, 45-year-old military governor, brought the first real peace to Abadan since three Britains and six Iranians were killed four days ago in a sudden outburst of violence by Communist-influenced strikers.

But most of the workers employed by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company remained away from their jobs and production at the world's largest refinery here was slashed by 75 per cent.

Jerry Wald wants her to star in "Exclusive Model," a movie to be made in Paris and in shops of the great couturieres (dressmakers to you and me).

Maurice Chevalier has been refused a visa into this country so his picture, "A New Kind, Of Love," which Billy Wilder was to have made with the French actor, is currently up in the air.

This is surprising since Chevalier was cleared of Nazi collaboration and was allowed to put on his one-man show in this country last year. But here's the reason he was not given a visa, and it's doubtful if he ever will be given one.

He signed the infamous Stockholm peace petition which was drawn up by the Communists at a Stockholm conference in order to bring world opinion against the United States action in Korea.

The most serious move Greta Garbo has made toward returning to the screen is the meeting she had with Dore Schary before she left for New York. They discussed a number of properties and she was invited to come back to the studio where she made her great success.

In my opinion if G. G. does make a picture it will be for MGM. "Camille" is one of the great pictures of all time, and certainly there is no more torrid love story than "Flesh And The Devil." These were made by Louis B. Mayer when Garbo was at her height as a great star.

I met Garbo in a doctor's office not long ago and thought she looked unusually well.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

It's easy to overcome a "clop-clop-clop" sound in your walk. A light step and graceful posture can make others want to meet you!

WHAT DOES the sound, clop-clop-clop," suggest to you? When I ask that question of a girl in my town she usually says "a hansom cab driving sightseers around the park."

But that sound brings to my mind a picture that is far less enchanting—that of a heel-walking woman, with head jutting forward and her hips protruding. Both the sound of her heels and her posture suggest determination, purposefulness and forcefulness. And the impression I get is that she is a bossy woman. Whether she is or not, I'd never be inclined to take the trouble to ascertain.

What The World Sees

Others—people who might be very important to her—probably get the same reaction. You can readily see how much bearing your walk and posture can have on your social and business opportunities. What can people judge you by, before they know you well, except the personality you yourself choose to show the world?

Since your general comportment can determine your success or failure to a large extent, make sure it reflects the true you. To find out whether there's any "clop-clop" sound in your walk to mar the impression you make, examine your shoes. They will show hardly any wear at the tips of their soles, if there is. Then you'd better get busy this way to remove any noise or shuffle from your walk:

Inviting To Know

First, put on your snuggest, high-heeled shoes. Find a hard-surfaced floor. Next, check your standing posture. Are your shoulders relaxed? Is your back straight? (Line your back flat up against a wall to make sure.)

Now, walk around the room overdoing your knee motion so that with each step you lift your foot several inches off the floor. As you step on the floor, place the entire surface of the foot flat, balancing your weight on the ball and "gripping" the floor with your toes. When you do it right, you'll scarcely hear a sound!

Ten minutes a day of this for a few weeks and you'll have the muscular control and balance that produce a light step and improved posture. You'll find yourself walking with a graceful combination of good posture and a smooth roll of motion from the heel to the tip of the toe. Lovely to look at . . . and a walk that says you'd be nice to know!

Tomorrow: Matching the sound of your voice to your words.

Smith To Head Station WTBO

The Maryland Radio Corporation officially took over operation of WTBO Saturday from the Cumberland Broadcasting Co. and Charles E. Smith, commercial manager of WMMN, Fairmont, W. Va., for the past five years, succeeded Mrs. Aurelia Becker as general manager of the station.

The new manager of WTBO has purchased the Bedford Road home of Paul E. Myers, recently retired manager of the McCrory store here, and will be joined soon by his wife and three children from Fairmont.

Mr. Smith is a Navy veteran of World War II and among his duties was an assignment as director of the Naval Recreation Center in Downtown Washington, and from there co-ordinated radio broadcasts. He was associated with his father in California and Chicago in the Charlesmith Productions; managed artists for KSPT, Minneapolis, and WLS, Chicago, and was local sales manager for WINX, Washington, at one time. During the period in which he managed artists, he was personal manager for Dr. IQ.

Active in community affairs in Fairmont, Mr. Smith was director of the advertising committee of the Fairmont Business Men's Assn. and participated in drives for the Red Cross, Community Chest, Salvation Army and American Legion.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 15 (INS)—Gloria Swanson may get another crack at the Academy Award. We all hope she does.

Gloria Swanson

Jerry Wald wants her to star in "Exclusive Model," a movie to be made in Paris and in shops of the great couturieres (dressmakers to you and me).

The role of a woman past her first youth who reigns over an exclusive clothes house in Paris couldn't be a better fit for Gloria, who was once known as the best "clothes horse" on the screen. There's also a role for a young girl—the model.

Jerry and Norman are sending a representative to Paris to cover the May collections from behind the scenes. The story is by Ketti Frings and is scheduled for the Wald-Krasna fall slate.

Maurice Chevalier has been refused a visa into this country so his picture, "A New Kind, Of Love," which Billy Wilder was to have made with the French actor, is currently up in the air.

This is surprising since Chevalier was cleared of Nazi collaboration and was allowed to put on his one-man show in this country last year. But here's the reason he was not given a visa, and it's doubtful if he ever will be given one.

He signed the infamous Stockholm peace petition which was drawn up by the Communists at a Stockholm conference in order to bring world opinion against the United States action in Korea.

The most serious move Greta Garbo has made toward returning to the screen is the meeting she had with Dore Schary before she left for New York. They discussed a number of properties and she was invited to come back to the studio where she made her great success.

In my opinion if G. G. does make a picture it will be for MGM. "Camille" is one of the great pictures of all time, and certainly there is no more torrid love story than "Flesh And The Devil." These were made by Louis B. Mayer when Garbo was at her height as a great star.

I met Garbo in a doctor's office not long ago and thought she looked unusually well.

Guess who paramount has in mind to play Jackie Coogan as a three-year-old in "The Jackie Coogan Story"? Nobody else but Jackie's three-year-old daughter, Joan—his child by Ann McCormick.

Joan looks exactly as Jackie did as a child—the straight bangs, same shaped face and just about the same size. She could wear little boy clothes and pass for a deadringer for her old man when he was a toddler.

Ann McCormick, now a disc jockey at the King's, has already given her okay to Joan's being in this film.

It's the story of a child actor who made millions and whose dissipated fortune and legal tangles with his mother led to the California trust fund law for juvenile performers.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Will Ann Dvorak be surprised when she finds out the people she rented her house to used it for a house of ill repute, and was raided last week. Ann, who is in Paris, rented it in all innocence to people whom she thought responsible.

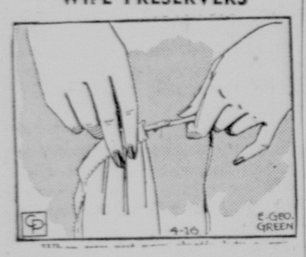

The Elliott Roosevelts shocked the ultra-fashionable diners at an exclusive restaurant in New York by having a big tiff so loud everyone heard.

Jane Powell has written a book titled "And Nine To Grow On," which will go to the publishers before the birth of her baby. It's a diary of humorous incidents about a mother-to-be.

One of our top producers offered MGM a million dollars for Ava Gardner's contract. The answer was "no sale."

Louise Krindler, widow of Jack Krindler of the 21 Club, and Prince D'Alrenberg are thinking in terms of marriage. They are motoring through Europe.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

It's easy to overcome a "clop-clop-clop" sound in your walk. A light step and graceful posture can make others want to meet you!

WHAT DOES the sound, clop-clop-clop," suggest to you? When I ask that question of a girl in my town she usually says "a hansom cab driving sightseers around the park."

But that sound brings to my mind a picture that is far less enchanting—that of a heel-walking woman, with head jutting forward and her hips protruding. Both the sound of her heels and her posture suggest determination, purposefulness and forcefulness. And the impression I get is that she is a bossy woman. Whether she is or not, I'd never be inclined to take the trouble to ascertain.

What The World Sees

Others—people who might be very important to her—probably get the same reaction. You can readily see how much bearing your walk and posture can have on your social and business opportunities. What can people judge you by, before they know you well, except the personality you yourself choose to show the world?

Since your general comportment can determine your success or failure to a large extent, make sure it reflects the true you. To find out whether there's any "clop-clop" sound in your walk to mar the impression you make, examine your shoes. They will show hardly any wear at the tips of their soles, if there is. Then you'd better get busy this way to remove any noise or shuffle from your walk:

Inviting To Know

First, put on your snuggest, high-heeled shoes. Find a hard-surfaced floor. Next, check your standing posture. Are your shoulders relaxed? Is your back straight? (Line your back flat up against a wall to make sure.)

Now, walk around the room overdoing your knee motion so that with each step you lift your foot several inches off the floor. As you step on the floor, place the entire surface of the foot flat, balancing your weight on the ball and "gripping" the floor with your toes. When you do it right, you'll scarcely hear a sound!

Ten minutes a day of this for a few weeks and you'll have the muscular control and balance that produce a light step and improved posture. You'll find yourself walking with a graceful combination of good posture and a smooth roll of motion from the heel to the tip of the toe. Lovely to look at . . . and a walk that says you'd be nice to know!

Tomorrow: Matching the sound of your voice to your words.

Seeds For Home Garden Should Be Top Quality

By R. J. HASKELL
Plant Pathologist and Horticulturist
U. S. Department of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, (INS)—A comparatively small quantity of seeds is required for planting the average home garden, but these should be the highest quality available, and adapted to the particular area. Advice of your county agricultural extension agent, or your seedsman is necessary to aid in your selection.

Early cold-resisting vegetables include broccoli, cabbage, lettuce, onions, peas, potatoes, spinach and turnips. Next in cold-resistant plants are beets, carrots, chard, mustard, parsnips and radishes.

After the last frosty weather plant snap beans, cucumber, okra, New Zealand spinach, squash, sweet corn and tomatoes. Requiring hot weather are lima beans, egg plant, peppers and sweet potatoes.

After the hot weather arrives plant all types of beans, chard, New Zealand spinach, squash and sweet corn. In late summer, six to eight weeks before the first freeze you still can plant beets, collards, kale, lettuce, mustard, spinach and turnips.

This year home gardeners have several new varieties of vegetables which may prove to be much heavier producers than the older familiar vegetables.

Among the new varieties are the 1951 all-American selections—iochief, a new hybrid sweet corn; an icebox watermelon called New Hampshire midget; a short-season canteloupe, granite state; the first hybrid cabbage, called O-S cross; two big-eared sweet corns, golden state and big-mo; the Urbana tomato for rich soils; and prizewinner curled, long-standing mustard. Hybrid onions have been featured in the 1951 seed catalogues. They give larger yields, higher quality and greater uniformity. Try some of the new varieties if you want to but, by all means, grow tomatoes, leafy green and yellow vegetables to eat better and save money.

A garden requires care. Insects or disease attacks, rapid weed growth or overmaturity of crops can go too far with surprising speed. A small garden that is well-tended can yield much more than one that is too large to be cared for properly.

Weeds rob the garden plants of water, nutrients, light and required space. After each rain the garden should be hoed to kill weeds, loosen the soil and prepare for the next moisture. Cultivation should be shallow to avoid damage to plant roots near the surface.

In most localities the garden will require a moisture supply equivalent to about an inch of rain a week during the growing season for the best plant growth. It is better to give the garden a good soaking once a week than to water it sparingly more often.

Seniors Win Play Honors At Fort Hill

The senior class of Fort Hill High School scored a close win over the junior class in the one-act play competition Friday night at the school auditorium. The senior play, "The Finger of God," was rated two points higher than the junior entry, "The Monkey's Paw." Judges were Misses Mary G. Walsh and Loretta McGeady and J. William Hunt.

Pat Durst, of the senior cast, won the title of best actress, and George Tagliaferre, who played Elmer in the comedy of that name, staged by the Sophomores, won the best actor award. The cast of the winning play included Richard Dailey and Jack Rice. It was directed by Frances Hafer and Christine Windish. Kay Avers and Ronald Tipton directed the other class entries.

County Farm Bureau Plans Meeting Today

The Allegany County Farm Bureau has issued 500 invitations to farmers and other interested persons for an open meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. in LaVale Fire Hall.

The main speaker will be Wilson A. Heaps, of Harford County, state president of the Farm Bureau. He will discuss recent and pending legislation affecting farmers.

Four Schools To See Show

"The Tinder Box" will be presented by the Kingsland Marionettes under the sponsorship of the Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers April 23-25 in four county schools.

The schedule follows: April 23, at Fort Hill High, 9:30 a. m., 1 p. m. and 8 p. m.; April 24, Bruce High, Westernport, 9:30 a. m. and Central High, Lonaconing, 1:15 p. m.; April 25, Beall High, Frostburg, 9:30 a. m. and 1 p. m.

Mabel and Cedric Head created the Kingsland Marionettes in 1929. Popularity has grown to such an extent that the organization is booked a year ahead of time.

Programs are presented from October to May and in the summer months new shows are prepared. The repertory extends from fairy tales and children's classics to Shakespeare's plays.

The marionettes are two feet tall. Properties, scenery and stage opening are in proportion, thus creating the illusion of almost human size.

"The Tinder Box" will be offered in two acts and six scenes. The latter include a forest, cave, town and palace.

Scouts To Distribute Defense Bond Posters

The Boy Scouts of Potomac Council will distribute in the six-county region Defense Bond posters during the week of April 23.

Willis V. Smith, council executive, said 1,500 posters have been assigned to this area. The Treasury Department is placing 1,200,000 of them throughout the nation through the Boy Scouts.

Smith said the chairmen in charge of the poster distribution in each of the six districts are:

Cumberland District, Vernon Adams; South Branch District, Earl S. Black, field executive for the council; Tri-Towns District, Rev. G. Stanley Schwind; New Creek District, James Swadley, Keyser, and Deep Creek District, Ralph Fauber, Oakland, and Mountain District, Robert Metger, Frostburg.

Safety Program Planned Here

A safety program to protect children and other pedestrians from traffic accidents during the summer months is being considered by the Cumberland Police Department and state authorities.

Chief R. Emmet Flynn Saturday pointed out that the arrival of spring has brought increased numbers of children outdoors to play on sidewalks and at playgrounds, despite inclement weather.

In some cases, pedestrian fatalities are due to violations of the law by drivers. But in many instances the pedestrian is guilty of breaking some law or safety practice at the time he meets death, Jay-walking was given as a practical example.

State Police have been advised correct the habit of pedestrian walking on the wrong side of the road and wearing dark clothing at night. It has been suggested that the pedestrian carry a flashlight or wear something light that will reflect back to the driver's eyes.

Troopers at the LaVale sub-station began handing out pedestrian safety tags several months ago in conjunction with a campaign to curb highway mishaps duing 1951. The tags are white and may be worn by pedestrians as a badge when walking on roads.

Two Stolen Cars Recovered By Police

A Baltimore car stolen from there early yesterday was abandoned at Eckhart later in the day and another auto of the same model was taken from Eckhart Flat, presumably by the same culprits.

State Police said the car of Harry Ort, Eckhart Flat, a black 1949 Ford coupe, was taken some time after the 1949 Ford was abandoned near there.

The Ort car was recovered late Saturday night at Randallstown. Its occupants were two Baltimore boys.

Seeds For Home Garden Should Be Top Quality

By R. J. HASKELL
Plant Pathologist and Horticulturist
U. S. Department of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, (INS)—A comparatively small quantity of seeds is required for planting the average home garden, but these should be of the highest quality available, and adapted to the particular area. Advice of your county agricultural extension agent, or your seedsman is necessary to aid in your selection.

Early cold-resisting vegetables include broccoli, cabbage, lettuce, onions, peas, potatoes, spinach and turnips. Next in cold-resistant plants are beets, carrots, chard, mustard, parsnips and radishes.

After the last frosty weather plant snap beans, cucumber, okra, New Zealand spinach, squash, sweet corn and tomatoes. Requiring hot weather are lima beans, egg plant, peppers and sweet potatoes.

After the hot weather arrives plant all types of beans, chard, New Zealand spinach, squash and sweet corn. In late summer, six to eight weeks before the first freeze you still can plant beets, collards, kale, lettuce, mustard, spinach and turnips.

This year home gardeners have several new varieties of vegetables which may prove to be much heavier producers than the older familiar vegetables.

Among the new varieties are the 1951 all-American selections—iochief, a new hybrid sweet corn; an icebox watermelon called New Hampshire midget; a short-season canteloupe, granite state; the first hybrid cabbage, called O-S cross; two big-eared sweet corns, golden state and big-mo; the Urbana tomato for rich soils; and prizewinner curled, long-standing mustard. Hybrid onions have been featured in the 1951 seed catalogues. They give larger yields, higher quality and greater uniformity. Try some of the new varieties if you want to but, by all means, grow tomatoes, leafy green and yellow vegetables to eat better and save money.

A garden requires care. Insects or disease attacks, rapid weed growth or overmaturity of crops can go too far with surprising speed. A small garden that is well-tended can yield much more than one that is too large to be cared for properly.

Weeds rob the garden plants of water, nutrients, light and required space. After each rain the garden should be hoed to kill weeds, loosen the soil and prepare for the next moisture. Cultivation should be shallow to avoid damage to plant roots near the surface.

In most localities the garden will require a moisture supply equivalent to about an inch of rain a week during the growing season for the best plant growth. It is better to give the garden a good soaking once a week than to water it sparingly more often.

Seniors Win Play Honors At Fort Hill

The senior class of Fort Hill High School scored a close win over the junior class in the one-act play competition Friday night at the school auditorium. The senior play, "The Fnger of God," was rated two points higher than the junior entry, "The Monkey's Paw." Judges were Misses Mary G. Walsh and Loretta McGeady and J. William Hunt.

Pat Durst, of the senior cast, won the title of best actress, and George Tagliaferre, who played Elmer in the comedy of that name, staged by the Sophomores, won the best actor award. The cast of the winning play included Richard Dailey and Jack Rice. It was directed by Frances Hafer and Christine Windish. Kay Avers and Ronald Tipton directed the other class entries.

County Farm Bureau Plans Meeting Today

The Allegany County Farm Bureau has issued 500 invitations to farmers and other interested persons for an open meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. in LaVale Fire Hall.

The main speaker will be Wilson A. Heaps, of Harford County, state president of the Farm Bureau. He will discuss recent and pending legislation affecting farmers.

Four Schools To See Show

"The Tinder Box" will be presented by the Kingsland Marionettes under the sponsorship of the Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers April 23-25 in four county schools.

The schedule follows: April 23, at Fort Hill High, 9:30 a. m., 1 p. m. and 8 p. m.; April 24, Bruce High, Westernport, 9:30 a. m. and Central High, Lonaconing, 1:15 p. m.; April 25, Beall High, Frostburg, 9:30 a. m. and 1 p. m.

Mabel and Cedric Head created the Kingsland Marionettes in 1929. Popularity has grown to such an extent that the organization is booked a year ahead of time.

Programs are presented from October to May and in the summer months new shows are prepared. The repertory extends from fairy tales and children's classics to Shakespeare's plays.

The marionettes are two feet tall. Properties, scenery and stage opening are in proportion, thus creating the illusion of almost human size.

"The Tinder Box" will be offered in two acts and six scenes. The latter include a forest, cave, town and palace.

Scouts To Distribute Defense Bond Posters

The Boy Scouts of Potomac Council will distribute in the six-county region Defense Bond posters during the week of April 23.

Willis V. Smith, council executive, said 1,500 posters have been assigned to this area. The Treasury Department is placing 1,200,000 of them throughout the nation through the Boy Scouts.

Smith said the chairmen in charge of the poster distribution in each of the six districts are:

Cumberland District, Vernon Adams; South Branch District, Earl S. Black, field executive for the council; Tri-Towns District, Rev. G. Stanley Schwind; New Creek District, James Swadley, Keyser, and Deep Creek District, Ralph Fauber, Oakland, and Mountain District, Robert Metger, Frostburg.

Safety Program Planned Here

A safety program to protect children and other pedestrians from traffic accidents during the summer months is being considered by the Cumberland Police Department and state authorities.

Chief R. Emmet Flynn Saturday pointed out that the arrival of spring has brought increased numbers of children outdoors to play on sidewalks and at playgrounds, despite inclement weather.

In some cases, pedestrian fatalities are due to violations of the law by drivers. But in many instances the pedestrian is guilty of breaking some law or safety practice at the time he meets death. Jay-walking was given as a practical example.

State Police have been advised correct the habit of pedestrian walking on the wrong side of the road and wearing dark clothing at night. It has been suggested that the pedestrian carry a flashlight or wear something light that will reflect back to the driver's eyes.

Troopers at the LaVale sub-station began handing out pedestrian safety tags several months ago in conjunction with a campaign to curb highway mishaps duing 1951. The tags are white and may be worn by pedestrians as a badge when walking on roads.

Two Stolen Cars Recovered By Police

A Baltimore car stolen from there early yesterday was abandoned at Eckhart later in the day and another auto of the same model was taken from Eckhart Flat, presumably by the same culprits.

State Police said the car of Harry Ort, Eckhart Flat, a black 1949 Ford coupe, was taken some time after the 1949 Ford was abandoned near there.

The Ort car was recovered late Saturday night at Randallstown. Its occupants were two Baltimore boys.

Mabel and Cedric Head created the Kingsland Marionettes in 1929. Popularity has grown to such an extent that the organization is booked a year ahead of time.

Programs are presented from October to May and in the summer months new shows are prepared. The repertory extends from fairy tales and children's classics to Shakespeare's plays.

The marionettes are two feet tall. Properties, scenery and stage opening are in proportion, thus creating the illusion of almost human size.

"The Tinder Box" will be offered in two acts and six scenes. The latter include a forest, cave, town and palace.

Scouts To Distribute Defense Bond Posters

The Boy Scouts of Potomac Council will distribute in the six-county region Defense Bond posters during the week of April 23.

Willis V. Smith, council executive, said 1,500 posters have been assigned to this area. The Treasury Department is placing 1,200,000 of them throughout the nation through the Boy Scouts.

Smith said the chairmen in charge of the poster distribution in each of the six districts are:

Cumberland District, Vernon Adams; South Branch District, Earl S. Black, field executive for the council; Tri-Towns District, Rev. G. Stanley Schwind; New Creek District, James Swadley, Keyser, and Deep Creek District, Ralph Fauber, Oakland, and Mountain District, Robert Metger, Frostburg.

Safety Program Planned Here

A safety program to protect children and other pedestrians from traffic accidents during the summer months is being considered by the Cumberland Police Department and state authorities.

Chief R. Emmet Flynn Saturday pointed out that the arrival of spring has brought increased numbers of children outdoors to play on sidewalks and at playgrounds, despite inclement weather.

In some cases, pedestrian fatalities are due to violations of the law by drivers. But in many instances the pedestrian is guilty of breaking some law or safety practice at the time he meets death. Jay-walking was given as a practical example.

State Police have been advised correct the habit of pedestrian walking on the wrong side of the road and wearing dark clothing at night. It has been suggested that the pedestrian carry a flashlight or wear something light that will reflect back to the driver's eyes.

Troopers at the LaVale sub-station began handing out pedestrian safety tags several months ago in conjunction with a campaign to curb highway mishaps duing 1951. The tags are white and may be worn by pedestrians as a badge when walking on roads.

Two Stolen Cars Recovered By Police

A Baltimore car stolen from there early yesterday was abandoned at Eckhart later in the day and another auto of the same model was taken from Eckhart Flat, presumably by the same culprits.

State Police said the car of Harry Ort, Eckhart Flat, a black 1949 Ford coupe, was taken some time after the 1949 Ford was abandoned near there.

The Ort car was recovered late Saturday night at Randallstown. Its occupants were two Baltimore boys.

Fighting For The Marines

Sen. Paul H. Douglas testified on Friday when hearings of the Senate Armed Services Committee began on the Senator's bill about the Marine Corps. The bill would boost the ceiling on its personnel to 400,000 and provide for Marine representation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Meanwhile, Rep. McDonough had filed a petition to force a vote on his similar bill in the House.

A flood of almost 60 identical bills to enlarge the Marine Corps went into the hopper of the House in January. Like the Douglas bill, they would provide the Corps four divisions, four full-strength air wings, "such other combat, aviation and other services as may be organic therein."

Sen. Douglas at 50 entered the Marine Corps as a private in World War II, and emerged a wounded, decorated lieutenant-colonel. Rep. McDonough was the recipient of an angry letter from President Truman last August 29, when the Representative first urged Marine representation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. "The Marine Corps is the Navy's police force, and as long as I am President that is what it will remain," Truman wrote. "They have a propaganda machine that is almost equal to Stalin's." Eight days later the President apologized to the Marines for his "unfortunate choice of language."

Senator Douglas points out that the composition of the nation's top defense group inevitably militates against the Marines. The President is an Army veteran. The Secretary of Defense is a General of the Armies. The chairman of the Joint Chiefs is General Bradley. The Army representative is General Collins and the Air Force Chief of Staff, General Vandenberg, is Army-trained. As for the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Sherman, he "does not have a command responsibility for the Marine Corps," except for those Marines assigned to the operating forces of the Navy.

Douglas has charged that the Joint Chiefs of Staff plan at present "for the Marine Corps to start the fiscal year 1952 with a manpower strength of 203,000 and to end the year with only 175,000." The Senator argues that at this time when military manpower is vitally needed, the Marines make more efficient use of personnel than does the Army. "Out of every three men in the Marine Corps, approximately two are in the operating forces . . . Out of the total manpower of the Army it takes approximately five men to keep one man in their combat organization."

The 400,000-man ceiling proposed by Douglas for the Marine Corps would be higher than needed, he says, for four divisions and four air wings. Thus it would enable the corps to squeeze out a fifth division in a pinch.

Traditional Army opposition to an enlarged Marine Corps stems from the fear, as expressed by General Eisenhower when Army Chief of Staff, that "we would have, in effect, two land armies." But the Marines cite statutes, court decisions, rulings of the Attorney General and Comptroller General to attest their rights as a separate service.

Marine Commandant Clifton B. Cates told the House Armed Services Committee in October, 1949, that the Army had tried to "destroy" the Marines: "The Marine Corps is a service. Congress made it a service in 1798 and has consistently recognized it as such. The National Security Act of 1947 definitely reaffirms this view of Congress."

What Price Honor

The citizen who has listened to President Truman's claim that all about him are honorable men must be slightly confused over the meaning of that term when he reflects that Congressional committees currently are conducting at least eight investigations into the Truman Administration.

For example, there is the Kefauver Committee of the Senate which has exposed widespread gambling and crime in the United States, with its overtones of political-criminal tie-ups. Then there is the Senate Fulbright Committee whose revelations of White House influence peddling, fast deals, and mink coats in the operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are, at the very least, eye-opening.

The House Un-American Activities Committee is continuing the Communist inquiry with the current spotlight on Hollywood. And the investigation into the alleged Communist infiltration of the State Department has been resumed by a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee.

An outgrowth of the Kefauver hearings is an inquiry by a House Ways and Means subcommittee into administration of the Internal Revenue laws. It wants to find out particularly how gamblers, racketeers and others outside the law can successfully evade their taxes.

A Senate committee headed by Senator Clyde R. Hoey (D.-N.C.) is resuming its investigation of five percenters and other influence peddlers. The Joint Congressional "watch dog" Committee on Defense Production is looking into reports of tax concessions to big business in the handling of defense contracts.

A House committee headed by Rep. Porter Hardy, Jr., (D.-Va.) has turned its attention to a venture wherein three men put up $600 in cash to get a $7,800,000 loan on a defense plant. Finally, the Senate Commerce Committee wants to look into a deal by which former Democrat Representative Joseph E. Casey of Massachusetts and others invested $100,000 in five surplus government tankers and made a $2,800,000 profit. Stockholders in Casey's firm included the late Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and Admiral William F. Halsey.

Faced with all these storm signals, can the perturbed citizen be reassured by President Truman's word that his associates are men of honor?

Free Only In Name

To those Americans who support socialized medicine because they think it will give them something for nothing we suggest a reading of the British government's financial estimates for the coming year.

In this bulletin they will discover that the system of free medical care is far from free. The adventure in fact is costing Britain more than a billion dollars annually—an amount which has to be raised by taxing the already sorely pressed citizens.

What a similar system would cost this country is anybody's guess. But of one thing we may be certain: The expense here would be infinitely larger than it is there, not only because of the larger population but because our boys in Washington can be counted upon to think up improvements in the way of bigger grants and more extended services.

Unless, therefore, our people have more money than they know what to do with, we had better not fall into the trap which the reformers would set for us.

Hazards Of The Housewife

HOUSEWORK, like other occupations, carries risks and hazards. Low back pain, flat feet, muscular aching, and disorders of the joints may result from heavy lifting, standing long hours, and fatigue; but the conditions are not hopeless and in the medical sense there are possibilities of treatment and prevention.

We appreciate the fact that "woman's work is never done" and that trying to accomplish something about the house with two or three smallfry underfoot often is difficult. But many women do it, and the secret is organization. This requires planning and, by sitting down daily for a half hour with pencil and paper, it may be possible to outline an easier program.

Efficiency may be improved by re-arranging the kitchen and other working areas. Men think nothing of doing this in the workshop and place of business. Furthermore, various modern labor saving devices such as automatic polishers, mops, dishwashing machines, and food mixers are available. They may be cheaper than the physician's fee should the housewife become ill. Muscle training and coordination are helpful to relieve strain on arms, legs, and back. This means learning how to bend and pick up or carry things the easy way. Native women who carry bundles on the head or hip or on yokes are not straining the back or developing bursitis; they are using what nature gave them to the best advantage. Many American women take a wagon or cart to the grocery store rather than carry heavy loads in their arms.

Wear and tear also is saved by alternating heavy and light work, utilizing tables of correct height, and sitting down periodically. The feet suffer less when proper footgear is worn. Most women save their old shoes to use around the house. They stand for hours on hard floors without any support to the arch and with rundown heels. Yet they wear good shoes when they are not on their feet so much as in visiting or playing bridge.

Some young mothers make the mistake of starting to work too soon after delivery. At this time the abdominal muscles are slack and weakened and unless strengthened, throw unusual strain on the lower back and sacroiliac regions. Once hurt, there parts often remain a potential source of trouble in the future. Varicose veins also are common among housewives perhaps because of an inherent weakness of the vascular system and prolonged standing. Obesity which comes from eating too much, particularly during pregnancy, is a hazard; it invites strain and injury and makes the chubby one more susceptible to high blood pressure, diabetes, arthritis, and other disorders.

Falls, cuts, burns, and infections are the most prevalent types of acidents among domestic workers. This problem is best solved by eliminating hazards. For example, knives should be placed in the drawers with the cutting edge down and roller skates and other objects can be kept off the stairs. Many mishaps have psychologic implications. The monotony of housework is depressing to some women; others become dissatisfied or frustrated because of unnecessary work. Long hours and continual demand end in fatigue. Another woman in the household, such as a mother-in-law, may prove annoying. Unless these factors are ironed out, the housekeeper often develops insomnia, anxiety, irritability, or other emotional disturbances.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Real Issue In Truman-MacArthur Controversy Is Civilian Or Military Rule; Taft's Father, When President, Kept Military In Their Place

(Ed. Note—Today's column takes the form of a letter from Drew Pearson to Sen. Robert A. Taft on the MacArthur-Truman controversy.)

April 15,1951

Honorable Robert A. Taft
U. S. Senate
Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator Taft:

When your father was President of the United Staets, my late father-in-law, a general and a military man all his life, had about the same opinion of him that Douglas MacArthur has of the present occupant of the White House. In fact, your father, whom history records as having done a fine job as secretary of war, incurred the wrath of military men, because he kept within his budget an kept the military in their place.

He fully grasped the fundamental fact around which our Constitution is written—that ours is a civilian government, in which the military takes orders from civilians. He even carried it out so conscientiously that, when your father was seretary of war and used to come to the White House, Teddy Roosevelt would jokingly tell Mrs. Roosevelt to put away the carving knife for fear by father-in-law, a cousin and aide to T. R., might use it against Taft.

I mention this because you, of all Senate leaders, are in a position to grasp and understand the serious issue which faces the country today in the MacArthur-Truman controversy.

I mention it because the easiest thing in the world today is to j oin the wolfpack and kick Harry Truman in the pants. You, however, have not attained your present position by taking the easy way.

And you, inview of your father's record, in view of your own record as ac hampion of the Constitution, can better understand this fundamenal issue than any other man I know.

Take Off The Uniform

That issue is the Constitution of the United States — which provides that, if a general wants to run the government, he must take off his uniform and become a civilian like the rest of us. He cannot have the perquisites and protection of the uniform and give orders to the White House too.

Furthermore, you cannot have a general who has been running for president and who may still have political ambitions overruling the President of the United States. That also is implicit in the constitution.

As far as President Truman is concerned, my personal feelings toward him are about the same as yours. He has castigated me just as much as he has you. But there is a difference between respect for the office of president and respect for the man. The former is something which mst not be soiled or sullied by unfair Senate debate. And the office of president carries with it not only the power but the obligation, under the Constitution, to remove a general who challenges the Constitution.

People are easily confused these days, but you can help to prevent their confusion. And while it might be popular and even healthy to impeach Harry Truman, do it on the grounds of corruption in his administration. There you might be on solid grounds. Don't do it on an issue for which your father and every other president has kept the torch of civilian government burning — the principle that no soldier can overrule a civilian elected by the people.

Or, if you will, impeach the President on the ground that his policy is wrong. Impeach him on the issue of failure in China.

It might be healthy if you or Senator Wherry introduced a resolution embodying the exact terms of the MacArthur letter to Joe Martin, and let the Senate debate it — debate the bombing of Chinese bases, the landing of Chiang Kai-shek's troops on them ainland and the full probabilities and objectives of war with China.

This is an important, vital question upon which we should have full debate, upon which the public should be fully informed. I hope such a resolution will be introduced.

But do not, I urge, confuse the isse by challenging the basic principle of our Constitution in regard to civilian rule.

Europe Watches U. S.

I have just returned from a trip through Europe. And I can report that you cannot travel abroad these days without sensing how vital is the issue now before our country. Many of the European nations have been through the struggle between military and civilian rule. They have seen the people — shaken in their confidence of the democratic system, confused by unfair debate —turn to military dictatorship.

It is out of such confusion, when nations have weak civilion leaders and strong military leaders, that dictatorships spring.

In my opinion our country today faces a most dangerous crisis. Tempers are running high. We do not have a strong man in the White House. We do have a strong military man, who has sought to be in the White House.

Now, it is easy to jump on an unpopular president — as your family well remembers. It is easy to jump on him and muddy up public opinion with confusing issues — such as the so-called Ballinger scandals which led to the overwhelming defeat of your father, and which history later proved not to have been scandals after all.

It is also easy to fool the public with a lot of phony flag-waving on an issue which your father and no other president worth his salt would have stool for—namely, permitting a general to thumb his nose at the civilian branch of the government and get away with it.

But the times today are too dangerous. And it is in days such as these, when we do not have the

The Bond Market

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK CITY, April 15 — New issues of corporate bonds bearing the highest interest rates since the late 1930's have just made the financial headlines. Business is paying more for its money, as well as for its wages and materials.

Government Bond Market

Just as the old belled ram leads the rest of the flock, so does the government bond market point the way for corporate bond, prices. About a month ago it was announced that the feud between the U. S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve had been ended. Both parties to the long disagreement had "reached full accord." Now, the thing upon which they had agreed was that a new issue of long-term government bonds should bear 2¾ per cent interest instead of the 2½ per cent figure that had been the going rate for similar issues.

Immediately a tremor ran through the financial world. As it became clear that the Federal Reserve had really "won the argument" over raising interest rates, government bond prices softened. At the same time, corporation bonds began a price decline that is still in progress. Commercial bankers became frightened and have since been casting an increasingly wary eye at all application for loans. Even the stock market has lost its pep. A glance at the course of the popular stock "averages" will show you that, since early March, stocks have been reactionary. That is why I say: Watch government bond prices; they are the bellweather for finance in general and for the bond market in particular.

Possible Effects On Stocks

Going back through the years, you will find that a persistent and drawn-out decline in bond prices is frequently followed by a good-sized slump in stocks. Studies show that the time lag between the fall in bonds and the later descent in stock prices varies widely.

Sometimes stocks follow bonds down only a few weeks later. At other times, close to two years have passed before stocks have taken a tumble. The reasons for this are not hard to find. As bond prices fall, the yield therefrom rises and narrows the gap between the return on bonds and the income from stocks. If the old relationship between the two is to be re-established, stock prices must decline. Only during periods of feverish speculative activity are buyers willing to overlook the need for getting a considerably bigger income from stocks, as compared to bonds, to "pay them back" for the greater risk that stocks carry.

Different This Time

However, some of my friends tell me that it is going to be "different this time!" They point out that the space between stock and bond yields, even after the recent rise in the latter, is much greater than usually exists. Therefore, they say, the return on bonds could rise quite a bit higher without greatly disturbing stock prices. They also cite the fact that very few stocks are being carried on borrowed money and that higher interest rates will not cause any amount of selling on that score.

These objectors may, of course, be right. But, I should like to leave this thought with you: When storm signals are flying, wise skippers heed them. Likewise, when old-time financial warnings appear, wise investors will diversify their funds carefully among sound well-selected common stock, and hold a sizable reserve in cash and highgrade short-term bonds against an "unexpected" shift in the trend.

Advice On Bonds

My father told me years ago, "Never send a boy on a man's errand!" This advice fits today's bond buyer. Whatever you do, don't build an investment reserve of all long-maturity bonds, no matter how high the quality. A one-per-cent rise in interest rates can wipe out a number of years' income in the shape of a price fall in your long-term bonds. That is a risk you should avoid at all costs. In bond buying, stick to short-term governments, good convertible corporation bonds, and tax exempts that you can hold to maturity.

Matter Of Fact

Truman's Fate Is In Korea

WASHINGTON.

IT may well be that in choosing this particular time to dismiss Gen. Douglas MacArthur, President Truman has chosen the best possible time — for MacArthur. It may even be that Gen. MacArthur had just that in mind when he decided to force the issue. For it is clear that the outcome of the battle between the President and the General will be determined in the end, not in Washington, but in Korea.

In dismissing MacArthur, Truman has of course risked his political life. In the most unlikely event that the attempts to reach an acceptable settlement with the Chinese and their Soviet masters now succeed, and the fighting ends, Truman will enjoy a great, historic triumph. If there is no settlement, but the expected Communist offensive is held, the stalemate on the battlefield will be reflected in a stalemate between Truman and MacArthur.

But if the Communists again break through our lines, if this time the breakthrough is successfully exploited, and if our forces are seriously endangered, then disaster in Korea will be disaster also for Truman. For then the demand for attacking targets in China proper, for using Nationalist troops, and for fighting the war in Asia which MacArthur wants will become irresistible.

Still Serious Danger

MacArthur will seem triumphantly vindicated, while Truman will appear the architect of national disaster. And as both Truman and MacArthur are certainly full aware, the danger of a successful Communist offensive in Korea is now as great as it has ever been. The best way to explain why the danger is now considered so serious is, oddly enough, to quote from a report cabled from Korea by this reporter's partner some months ago:

"The recurrent crises in the fighting here always took the form of a great hole being torn in our lines, and then being stopped by our mobile reserves being moved up before the walking enemy could exploit the breakthrough. But even two enemy intruder fighters, attacking the interminable lines of our transport . . . would have been enough to produce a twenty-four-hour tangle. Then the holes in our line could not have been stopped in time. The breakthroughs would then have been fully exploited. And we should have lost our foothold in Korea."

This pattern has held throughout the Korea fighting. Sheer weight of man power has made possible numerous Communist breakthroughs, the most serious being the near-defeat after the Chinese intervention. But the Communist breakthroughs have never in the end been fully exploited, because the Communists have lacked sufficient heavy weapons and mobility, and above all because they have lacked any offensive air power at all.

This is why reports that the Chinese are for the first time receiving important quantities of heavy weapons and transport from Soviet Siberian stocks are taken with deadly seriousness by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But what is taken even more seriously is the report that an offensive Communist air force is now being organized.

Could Prove Devastating

This force is believed to consist of about 500 Russian fighters and light bombers, manned by intensively trained Chinese and North Koreans. Such a force could not seriously challenge American air superiority. But given cloud cover during the Korean rainy season, and given the interdiction against attacking Manchurian bases, our air force cannot possibly prevent straffings and hit-and-run strikes behind our lines. And as the paragraph quoted above suggests, even a few planes strafing the bumper-to-bumper lines of American transport at the climactic moment of a battle could have an absolutely devastating effect.

Gen. Ridgway, who, rather than MacArthur, has actually been in full command of the United Nations forces in Korea for many weeks, is a brilliant field commander, and his troops are more battle-worthy than ever before. Yet the danger of a successful enemy offensive is real, and it is a danger which might all but destroy President Truman, as Truman himself must know.

Infinitely more is of course at stake than the political fortunes of a Truman or a MacArthur. War, even a small war, has a sullen, imperious logic of its own. If an enemy offensive, supported by air power based in Manchuria, endangered our troops, the logic of war would demand the bombing of the Manchurian bases, however much Truman might wish to localize the conflict. This would logically lead in turn to the bombing of Chinese lines of communications, and cities. Then the Soviets would be forced to intervene openly, or accept the equivalent of an intolerable defeat. Thus the logic of a small war leads to a great war. This logical progression toward world disaster cannot now be halted by Truman or MacArthur. It can be halted only if the men in the Kremlin decide to cut their losses in Korea, or if Ridgway and his men smash at the outset of the offensive which is otherwise in prospect.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Stand We Must Take

MRS. Emily M. Bullitt writes the editor of the "Louisville Courier-Journal" about me as follows:

"The other night Mr. Sokolsky riddled our government with charges of inefficiency, cunning and a program red to the teeth. Not content with attacking the president regime, he encompassed the past 18 years.

"This is a free country. We have chosen our leaders. We have free speech. Just how far one may go in attacking his country in time of danger I do not know. There is such a thing as treason. People have been hanged for it."

Yes, people have been hanged for many things and burned at the stake and tortured. But that never solved anybody's problems. It only meant that one person was hurt, but the question of truth remained.

I did not make World War II nor did I compose the compromises of Teheran and Yalta. At most I can report them and their consequences. But even if I did not report them the consequences would be the same. There are 60,000 casualties in Korea who are witnesses to those consequences.

Someone is to blame for the Korean War. There is a long history of communism in China, at least 30 years of it. I know many of those men, having seen them grow up from schoolboys to fanatical Marxists. The State Department has called them "agrarian reformers," but they were Marxists, their leaders were trained in Russia and whoever says it differently is not telling the truth.

It does no good to try to suppress the truth to save someone's political skin. What we need to save is our country and our civilization.

Our civilization has been developing for some 6,000 years around the hard core of revealed natural law. Really, Mrs. Bullitt, it would matter little if I were hanged; the natural law will survive little folks like us, who may desert the truth to serve our convenience and necessity. No extreme danger faces our country except the danger that our people have departed from our traditions and have deserted their God for a life of ease and softness.

You worry about my speaking of "inefficiency, cunning and a program red to the teeth." This is my business. For instance, I would like to know why we need to have the inflation through which this country is now passing when the government is completely in control of the movement of currency and has the power to control prices and wages.

Look at the slow motion of control. Now, I do not advocate a controlled economy, being a good, old-fashioned 19th Century liberal, but it has been voted that we are to have a controlled economy. Actually what we have is anarchy, an economy controlled neither by the law of supply and demand nor by government fiat, but by compromises which squeeze our people between high cost of living and high taxes.

Would you say, Mrs. Bullitt, that I should not report about these matters or should I revel in all the tantrums of commissions and fixes and deals and trades which give to our era the title of "The Big Fix"?

I hope that partisanship does not blind any of us to the moral nihilism into which we have drifted. This nihilism is marked not only by the acceptance of corruption which would have shamed another generation and stirred anger among our people, but also by a lack of personal dignity and propriety even in high places.

We shall, of course, not live long enough to know whether your judgment is correct, or mine. History has its own curious way of visiting the errors of one generation upon its grandchildren, just as the accumulations of one generation are often enjoyed by another— and are often wasted and destroyed by another.

When a generation shows inadequate respect for natural law, for the laws of God; when adultery becomes a vogue and murder a syndicate, and when children teach their parents, and those who manage the state are not ashamed of corruption —then it is not too courageous to cast aside convenience and to protest and be counted.

You may say that I take myself and my work too seriously. Yet, since I was a boy at college, three generations of youth have been to war. Throughout the world there is a struggle between those who believe in God's natural law and those who believe in Marx's dialectical materialism. In this fight, sides must be chosen.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Walter Lowen, head of a well-known employment agency, expected an important client in his office who was very partial to a special brand of cigars. The one place in the neighborhood that carried this brand was that exclusive habitat of movie stars and social arbiters, "21." Lowen summoned a new office boy and started to explain to him the location of "21" and what he'd have to do to talk his way past Jimmy, the guardian of the entrance gate.

"You don't have to go through all this," said the new boy loftily. "I've had a charge account there for years." (What's happened to that old capitalist system of ours?)

And in the same vein, Jack Smart, who plays "The Fat Man" in radio and pictures, points out one indubitable advantage of weighing three hundred pounds: you always know where your cigar ashes are going to land.

Fighting For The Marines

Sen. Paul H. Douglas testified on Friday when hearings of the Senate Armed Services Committee began on the Senator's bill about the Marine Corps. The bill would boost the ceiling on its personnel to 400,000 and provide for Marine representation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Meanwhile, Rep. McDonough had filed a petition to force a vote on his similar bill in the House.

A flood of almost 60 identical bills to enlarge the Marine Corps went into the hopper of the House in January. Like the Douglas bill, they would provide the Corps four divisions, four full-strength air wings, "such other combat, aviation and other services as may be organic therein."

Sen. Douglas at 50 entered the Marine Corps as a private in World War II, and emerged a wounded, decorated lieutenant-colonel. Rep. McDonough was the recipient of an angry letter from President Truman last August 29, when the Representative first urged Marine representation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. "The Marine Corps is the Navy's police force, and as long as I am President that is what it will remain," Truman wrote. "They have a propaganda machine that is almost equal to Stalin's." Eight days later the President apologized to the Marines for his "unfortunate choice of language."

Senator Douglas points out that the composition of the nation's top defense group inevitably militates against the Marines. The President is an Army veteran. The Secretary of Defense is a General of the Armies. The chairman of the Joint Chiefs is General Bradley. The Army representative is General Collins and the Air Force Chief of Staff, General Vandenberg, is Army-trained. As for the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Sherman, he "does not have a command responsibility for the Marine Corps," except for those Marines assigned to the operating forces of the Navy.

Douglas has charged that the Joint Chiefs of Staff plan at present "for the Marine Corps to start the fiscal year 1952 with a manpower strength of 203,000 and to end the year with only 175,000." The Senator argues that at this time when military manpower is vitally needed, the Marines make more efficient use of personnel than does the Army. "Out of every three men in the Marine Corps, approximately two are in the operating forces . . . Out of the total manpower of the Army it takes approximately five men to keep one man in their combat organization."

The 400,000-man ceiling proposed by Douglas for the Marine Corps would be higher than needed, he says, for four divisions and four air wings. Thus it would enable the corps to squeeze out a fifth division in a pinch.

Traditional Army opposition to an enlarged Marine Corps stems from the fear, as expressed by General Eisenhower when Army Chief of Staff, that "we would have, in effect, two land armies." But the Marines cite statutes, court decisions, rulings of the Attorney General and Comptroller General to attest their rights as a separate service.

Marine Commandant Clifton B. Cates told the House Armed Services Committee in October, 1949, that the Army had tried to "destroy" the Marines: "The Marine Corps is a service. Congress made it a service in 1798 and has consistently recognized it as such. The National Security Act of 1947 definitely reaffirms this view of Congress."

What Price Honor

The citizen who has listened to President Truman's claim that all about him are honorable men must be slightly confused over the meaning of that term when he reflects that Congressional committees currently are conducting at least eight investigations into the Truman Administration.

For example, there is the Kefauver Committee of the Senate which has exposed widespread gambling and crime in the United States, with its overtones of political-criminal tie-ups. Then there is the Senate Fulbright Committee whose revelations of White House influence peddling, fast deals, and mink coats in the operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are, at the very least, eye-opening.

The House Un-American Activities Committee is continuing the Communist inquiry with the current spotlight on Hollywood. And the investigation into the alleged Communist infiltration of the State Department has been resumed by a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee.

An outgrowth of the Kefauver hearings is an inquiry by a House Ways and Means subcommittee into administration of the Internal Revenue laws. It wants to find out particularly how gamblers, racketeers and others outside the law can successfully evade their taxes.

A Senate committee headed by Senator Clyde R. Hoey (D.-N.C.) is resuming its investigation of five percenters and other influence peddlers. The Joint Congressional "watch dog" Committee on Defense Production is looking into reports of tax concessions to big business in the handling of defense contracts.

A House committee headed by Rep. Porter Hardy, Jr., (D.-Va.) has turned its attention to a venture wherein three men put up $600 in cash to get a $7,800,000 loan on a defense plant. Finally, the Senate Commerce Committee wants to look into a deal by which former Democrat Representative Joseph E. Casey of Massachusetts and others invested $100,000 in five surplus government tankers and made a $2,800,000 profit. Stockholders in Casey's firm included the late Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and Admiral William F. Halsey.

Faced with all these storm signals, can the perturbed citizen be reassured by President Truman's word that his associates are men of honor?

Free Only In Name

To those Americans who support socialized medicine because they think it will give them something for nothing we suggest a reading of the British government's financial estimates for the coming year.

In this bulletin they will discover that the system of free medical care is far from free. The adventure in fact is costing Britain more than a billion dollars annually—an amount which has to be raised by taxing the already sorely pressed citizens.

What a similar system would cost this country is anybody's guess. But of one thing we may be certain: The expense here would be infinitely larger than it is there, not only because of the larger population but because our boys in Washington can be counted upon to think up improvements in the way of bigger grants and more extended services.

Unless, therefore, our people have more money than they know what to do with, we had better not fall into the trap which the reformers would set for us.

Hazards Of The Housewife

HOUSEWORK, like other occupations, carries risks and hazards. Low back pain, flat feet, muscular aching, and disorders of the joints may result from heavy lifting, standing long hours, and fatigue; but the conditions are not hopeless and in the medical sense there are possibilities of treatment and prevention.

We appreciate the fact that "woman's work is never done" and that trying to accomplish something about the house with two or three smallfry underfoot often is difficult. But many women do it, and the secret is organization. This requires planning and, by sitting down daily for a half hour with pencil and paper, it may be possible to outline an easier program.

Efficiency may be improved by re-arranging the kitchen and other working areas. Men think nothing of doing this in the workshop and place of business. Furthermore, various modern labor saving devices such as automatic polishers, mops, dishwashing machines, and food mixers are available. They may be cheaper than the physician's fee should the housewife become ill. Muscle training and coordination are helpful to relieve strain on arms, legs, and back. This means learning how to bend and pick up or carry things the easy way. Native women who carry bundles on the head or hip or on yokes are not straining the back or developing bursitis; they are using what nature gave them to the best advantage. Many American women take a wagon or cart to the grocery store rather than carry heavy loads in their arms.

Wear and tear also is saved by alternating heavy and light work, utilizing tables of correct height, and sitting down periodically. The feet suffer less when proper footgear is worn. Most women save their old shoes to use around the house. They stand for hours on hard floors without any support to the arch and with rundown heels. Yet they wear good shoes when they are not on their feet so much as in visiting or playing bridge.

Some young mothers make the mistake of starting to work too soon after delivery. At this time the abdominal muscles are slack and weakened and unless strengthened, throw unusual strain on the lower back and sacroiliac regions. Once hurt, there parts often remain a potential source of trouble in the future. Varicose veins also are common among housewives perhaps because of an inherent weakness of the vascular system and prolonged standing. Obesity which comes from eating too much, particularly during pregnancy, is a hazard; it invites strain and injury and makes the chubby one more susceptible to high blood pressure, diabetes, arthritis, and other disorders.

Falls, cuts, burns, and infections are the most prevalent types of acidents among domestic workers. This problem is best solved by eliminating hazards. For example, knives should be placed in the drawers with the cutting edge down and roller skates and other objects can be kept off the stairs. Many mishaps have psychologic implications. The monotony of housework is depressing to some women; others become dissatisfied or frustrated because of unnecessary work. Long hours and continual demand end in fatigue. Another woman in the household, such as a mother-in-law, may prove annoying. Unless these factors are ironed out, the housekeeper often develops insomnia, anxiety, irritability, or other emotional disturbances.

Real Issue In Truman-MacArthur Controversy Is Civilian Or Military Rule; Taft's Father, When President, Kept Military In Their Place

(Ed. Note—Today's column takes the form of a letter from Drew Pearson to Sen. Robert A. Taft on the MacArthur-Truman controversy.)

April 15,1951

Honorable Robert A. Taft
U. S. Senate
Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator Taft:

When your father was President of the United Staets, my late father-in-law, a general and a military man all his life, had about the same opinion of him that Douglas MacArthur has of the present occupant of the White House. In fact, your father, whom history records as having done a fine job as secretary of war, incurred the wrath of military men, because he kept within his budget an kept the military in their place.

He fully grasped the fundamental fact around which our Constitution is written—that ours is a civilian government, in which the military takes orders from civilians. He even carried it out so conscientiously that, when your father was seretary of war and used to come to the White House, Teddy Roosevelt would jokingly tell Mrs. Roosevelt to put away the carving knife for fear by father-in-law, a cousin and aide to T. R., might use it against Taft.

I mention this because you, of all Senate leaders, are in a position to grasp and understand the serious issue which faces the country today in the MacArthur-Truman controversy.

I mention it because the easiest thing in the world today is to j oin the wolfpack and kick Harry Truman in the pants. You, however, have not attained your present position by taking the easy way.

And you, inview of your father's record, in view of your own record as ac hampion of the Constitution, can better understand this fundamenal issue than any other man I know.

Take Off The Uniform

That issue is the Constitution of the United States — which provides that, if a general wants to run the government, he must take off his uniform and become a civilian like the rest of us. He cannot have the perquisites and protection of the uniform and give orders to the White House too.

Furthermore, you cannot have a general who has been running for president and who may still have political ambitions overruling the President of the United States. That also is implicit in the constitution.

As far as President Truman is concerned, my personal feelings toward him are about the same as yours. He has castigated me just as much as he has you. But there is a difference between respect for the office of president and respect for the man. The former is something which mst not be soiled or sullied by unfair Senate debate. And the office of president carries with it not only the power but the obligation, under the Constitution, to remove a general who challenges tha Constitution.

People are easily confused these days, but you can help to prevent their confusion. And while it might be popular and even healthy to impeach Harry Truman, do it on the grounds of corruption in his administration. There you might be on solid grounds. Don't do it on an issue for which your father and every other president has kept the torch of civilian government burning — the principle that no soldier can overrule a civilian elected by the people.

Or, if you will, impeach the President on the ground that his policy is wrong. Impeach him on the issue of failure in China.

It might be healthy if you or Senator Wherry introduced a resolution embodying the exact terms of the MacArthur letter to Joe Martin, and let the Senate debate it — debate the bombing of Chinese bases, the landing of Chiang Kai-shek's troops on them ainland and the full probabilities and objectives of war with China.

This is an important, vital question upon which we should have full debate, upon which the public should be fully informed. I hope such a resolution will be introduced.

But do not, I urge, confuse the isse by challenging the basic principle of our Constitution in regard to civilian rule.

Europe Watches U. S.

I have just returned from a trip through Europe. And I can report that you cannot travel abroad these days without sensing how vital is the issue now before our country. Many of the European nations have been through the struggle between military and civilian rule. They have seen the people — shaken in their confidence of the democratic system, confused by unfair debate —turn to military dictatorship.

It is out of such confusion, when nations have weak civilion leaders and strong military leaders, that dictatorships spring.

In my opinion our country today faces a most dangerous crisis. Tempers are running high. We do not have a strong man in the White House. We do have a strong military man, who has sought to be in the White House.

Now, it is easy to jump on an unpopular president — as your family well remembers. It is easy to jump on him and muddy up public opinion with confusing issues — such as the so-called Ballinger scandals which led to the overwhelming defeat of your father, and which history later proved not to have been scandals after all.

It is also easy to fool the public with a lot of phony flag-waving on an issue which your father and no other president worth his salt would have stool for—namely, permitting a general to thumb his nose at the civilian branch of the government and get away with it.

But the times today are too dangerous. And it is in days such as these, when we do not have the

The Bond Market

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK CITY, April 15 — New issues of corporate bonds bearing the highest interest rates since the late 1930's have just made the financial headlines. Business is paying more for its money, as well as for its wages and materials.

Government Bond Market

Just as the old belled ram leads the rest of the flock, so does the government bond market point the way for corporate bond, prices. About a month ago it was announced that the feud between the U. S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve had been ended. Both parties to the long disagreement had "reached full accord." Now, the thing upon which they had agreed was that a new issue of long-term government bonds should bear 2¾ per cent interest instead of the 2½ per cent figure that had been the going rate for similar issues.

Immediately a tremor ran through the financial world. As it became clear that the Federal Reserve had really "won the argument" over raising interest rates, government bond prices softened. At the same time, corporation bonds began a price decline that is still in progress. Commercial bankers became frightened and have since been casting an increasingly wary eye at all application for loans. Even the stock market has lost its pep. A glance at the course of the popular stock "averages" will show you that, since early March, stocks have been reactionary. That is why I say: Watch government bond prices; they are the bellweather for finance in general and for the bond market in particular.

Possible Effects On Stocks

Going back through the years, you will find that a persistent and drawn-out decline in bond prices is frequently followed by a good-sized slump in stocks. Studies show that the time lag between the fall in bonds and the later descent in stock prices varies widely.

Sometimes stocks follow bonds down only a few weeks later. At other times, close to two years have passed before stocks have taken a tumble. The reasons for this are not hard to find. As bond prices fall, the yield therefrom rises and narrows the gap between the return on bonds and the income from stocks. If the old relationship between the two is to be re-established, stock prices must decline. Only during periods of feverish speculative activity are buyers willing to overlook the need for getting a considerably bigger income from stocks, as compared to bonds, to "pay them back" for the greater risk that stocks carry.

Different This Time

However, some of my friends tell me that it is going to be "different this time!" They point out that the space between stock and bond yields, even after the recent rise in the latter, is much greater than usually exists. Therefore, they say, the return on bonds could rise quite a bit higher without greatly disturbing stock prices. They also cite the fact that very few stocks are being carried on borrowed money ahd that higher interest rates will not cause any amount of selling on that score.

These objectors may, of course, be right. But, I should like to leave this thought with you: When storm signals are flying, wise skippers heed them. Likewise, when old-time financial warnings appear, wise investors will diversify their funds carefully among sound well-selected common stock, and hold a sizable reserve in cash and highgrade short-term bonds against an "unexpected" shift in the trend.

Advice On Bonds

My father told me years ago, "Never send a boy on a man's errand!" This advice fits today's bond buyer. Whatever you do, don't build an investment reserve of all long-maturity bonds, no matter how high the quality. A one-per-cent rise in interest rates can wipe out a number of years' income in the shape of a price fall in your long-term bonds. That is a risk you should avoid at all costs. In bond buying, stick to short-term governments, good convertible corporation bonds, and tax exempts that you can hold to maturity.

Truman's Fate Is In Korea

WASHINGTON.

IT may well be that in choosing this particular time to dismiss Gen. Douglas MacArthur, President Truman has chosen the best possible time — for MacArthur. It may even be that Gen. MacArthur had just that in mind when he decided to force the issue. For it is clear that the outcome of the battle between the President and the General will be determined in the end, not in Washington, but in Korea.

In dismissing MacArthur, Truman has of course risked his political life. In the most unlikely event that the attempts to reach an acceptable settlement with the Chinese and their Soviet masters now succeed, and the fighting ends, Truman will enjoy a great, historic triumph. If there is no settlement, but the expected Communist offensive is held, the stalemate on the battlefield will be reflected in a stalemate between Truman and MacArthur.

But if the Communists again break through our lines, if this time the breakthrough is successfully exploited, and if our forces are seriously endangered, then disaster in Korea will be disaster also for Truman. For then the demand for attacking targets in China proper, for using Nationalist troops, and for fighting the war in Asia which MacArthur wants will become irresistible.

Still Serious Danger

MacArthur will seem triumphantly vindicated, while Truman will appear the architect of national disaster. And as both Truman and MacArthur are certainly full aware, the danger of a successful Communist offensive in Korea is now as great as it has ever been. The best way to explain why the danger is now considered so serious is, oddly enough, to quote from a report cabled from Korea by this reporter's partner some months ago:

"The recurrent crises in the fighting here always took the form of a great hole being torn in our lines, and then being stopped by our mobile reserves being moved up before the walking enemy could exploit the breakthrough. But even two enemy intruder fighters, attacking the interminable lines of our transport . . . would have been enough to produce a twenty-four-hour tangle. Then the holes in our line could not have been stopped in time. The breakthroughs would then have been fully exploited. And we should have lost our foothold in Korea."

This pattern has held throughout the Korea fighting. Sheer weight of man power has made possible numerous Communist breakthroughs, the most serious being the near-defeat after the Chinese intervention. But the Communist breakthroughs have never in the end been fully exploited, because the Communists have lacked sufficient heavy weapons and mobility, and above all because they have lacked any offensive air power at all.

This is why reports that the Chinese are for the first time receiving important quantities of heavy weapons and transport from Soviet Siberian stocks are taken with deadly seriousness by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But what is taken even more seriously is the report that an offensive Communist air force is now being organized.

Could Prove Devastating

This force is believed to consist of about 500 Russian fighters and light bombers, manned by intensively trained Chinese and North Koreans. Such a force could not seriously challenge American air superiority. But given cloud cover during the Korean rainy season, and given the interdiction against attacking Manchurian bases, our air force cannot possibly prevent strafings and hit-and-run strikes behind our lines. And as the paragraph quoted above suggests, even a few planes strafing the bumper-to-bumper lines of American transport at the climactic moment of a battle could have an absolutely devastating effect.

Gen. Ridgway, who, rather than MacArthur, has actually been in full command of the United Nations forces in Korea for many weeks, is a brilliant field commander, and his troops are more battle-worthy than ever before. Yet the danger of a successful enemy offensive is real, and it is a danger which might all but destroy President Truman, as Truman himself must know.

Infinitely more is of course at stake than the political fortunes of a Truman or a MacArthur. War, even a small war, has a sullen, imperious logic of its own. If an enemy offensive, supported by air power based in Manchuria, endangered our troops, the logic of war would demand the bombing of the Manchurian bases, however much Truman might wish to localize the conflict. This would logically lead in turn to the bombing of Chinese lines of communications, and cities. Then the Soviets would be forced to intervene openly, or accept the equivalent of an intolerable defeat. Thus the logic of a small war leads to a great war. This logical progression toward world disaster cannot now be halted by Truman or MacArthur. It can be halted only if the men in the Kremlin decide to cut their losses in Korea, or if Ridgway and his men smash at the outset of the offensive which is otherwise in prospect.

The Stand We Must Take

MRS. Emily M. Bullitt writes the editor of the "Louisville Courier-Journal" about me as follows:

"The other night Mr. Sokolsky riddled our government with charges of inefficiency, cunning and a program red to the teeth. Not content with attacking the president regime, he encompassed the past 18 years.

"This is a free country. We have chosen our leaders. We have free speech. Just how far one may go in attacking his country in time of danger I do not know. There is such a thing as treason. People have been hanged for it."

Yes, people have been hanged for many things and burned at the stake and tortured. But that never solved anybody's problems. It only meant that one person was hurt, but the question of truth remained.

I did not make World War II nor did I compose the compromises of Teheran and Yalta. At most I can report them and their consequences. But even if I did not report them the consequences would be the same. There are 60,000 casualties in Korea who are witnesses to those consequences.

Someone is to blame for the Korean War. There is a long history of communism in China, at least 30 years of it. I know many of those men, having seen them grow up from schoolboys to fanatical Marxists. The State Department has called them "agrarian reformers," but they were Marxists, their leaders were trained in Russia and whoever says it differently is not telling the truth.

It does no good to try to suppress the truth to save someone's political skin. What we need to save is our country and our civilization.

Our civilization has been developing for some 6,000 years around the hard core of revealed natural law. Really, Mrs. Bullitt, it would matter little if I were hanged; the natural law will survive little folks like us, who may desert the truth to serve our convenience and necessity. No extreme danger faces our country except the danger that our people have departed from our traditions and have deserted their God for a life of ease and softness.

You worry about my speaking of "inefficiency, cunning and a program red to the teeth." This is my business. For instance, I would like to know why we need to have the inflation through which this country is now passing when the government is completely in control of the movement of currency and has the power to control prices and wages.

Look at the slow motion of control. Now, I do not advocate a controlled economy, being a good, old-fashioned 19th Century liberal, but it has been voted that we are to have a controlled economy. Actually what we have is anarchy, an economy controlled neither by the law of supply and demand nor by government fiat, but by compromises which squeeze our people between high cost of living and high taxes.

Would you say, Mrs. Bullitt, that I should not report about these matters or should I revel in all the tantrums of commissions and fixes and deals and trades which give to our era the title of "The Big Fix"?

I hope that partisanship does not blind any of us to the moral nihilism into which we have drifted. This nihilism is marked not only by the acceptance of corruption which would have shamed another generation and stirred anger among our people, but also by a lack of personal dignity and propriety even in high places.

We shall, of course, not live long enough to know whether your judgment is correct, or mine. History has its own curious way of visiting the errors of one generation upon its grandchildren, just as the accumulations of one generation are often enjoyed by another— and are often wasted and destroyed by another.

When a generation shows inadequate respect for natural law, for the laws of God; when adultery becomes a vogue and murder a syndicate, and when children teach their parents, and those who manage the state are not ashamed of corruption —then it is not too courageous to cast aside convenience and to protest and be counted.

You may say that I take myself and my work too seriously. Yet, since I was a boy at college, three generations of youth have been to war. Throughout the world there is a struggle between those who believe in God's natural law and those who believe in Marx's dialectical materialism. In this fight, sides must be chosen.

Walter Lowen, head of a well-known employment agency, expected an important client in his office who was very partial to a special brand of cigars. The one place in the neighborhood that carried this brand was that exclusive habitat of movie stars and social arbiters, "21." Lowen summoned a new office boy and started to explain to him the location of "21" and what he'd have to do to talk his way past Jimmy, the guardian of the entrance gate.

"You don't have to go through all this," said the new boy loftily. "I've had a charge account there for years." (What's happened to that old capitalist system of ours?)

And in the same vein, Jack Smart, who plays "The Fat Man" in radio and pictures, points out one indubitable advantage of weighing three hundred pounds: you always know where your cigar ashes are going to land.

Fighting For The Marines

Sen. Paul H. Douglas testified on Friday when hearings of the Senate Armed Services Committee began on the Senator's bill about the Marine Corps. The bill would boost the ceiling on its personnel to 400,000 and provide for Marine representation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Meanwhile, Rep. McDonough had filed a petition to force a vote on his similar bill in the House.

A flood of almost 60 identical bills to enlarge the Marine Corps went into the hopper of the House in January. Like the Douglas bill, they would provide the Corps four divisions, four full-strength air wings, "such other combat, aviation and other services as may be organic therein."

Sen. Douglas at 50 entered the Marine Corps as a private in World War II, and emerged a wounded, decorated lieutenant-colonel. Rep. McDonough was the recipient of an angry letter from President Truman last August 29, when the Representative first urged Marine representation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. "The Marine Corps is the Navy's police force, and as long as I am President that is what it will remain," Truman wrote. "They have a propaganda machine that is almost equal to Stalin's." Eight days later the President apologized to the Marines for his "unfortunate choice of language."

Senator Douglas points out that the composition of the nation's top defense group inevitably militates against the Marines. The President is an Army veteran. The Secretary of Defense is a General of the Armies. The chairman of the Joint Chiefs is General Bradley. The Army representative is General Collins and the Air Force Chief of Staff, General Vandenberg, is Army-trained. As for the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Sherman, he "does not have a command responsibility for the Marine Corps," except for those Marines assigned to the operating forces of the Navy.

Douglas has charged that the Joint Chiefs of Staff plan at present "for the Marine Corps to start the fiscal year 1952 with a manpower strength of 203,000 and to end the year with only 175,000." The Senator argues that at this time when military manpower is vitally needed, the Marines make more efficient use of personnel than does the Army. "Out of every three men in the Marine Corps, approximately two are in the operating forces . . . Out of the total manpower of the Army it takes approximately five men to keep one man in their combat organization."

The 400,000-man ceiling proposed by Douglas for the Marine Corps would be higher than needed, he says, for four divisions and four air wings. Thus it would enable the corps to squeeze out a fifth division in a pinch.

Traditional Army opposition to an enlarged Marine Corps stems from the fear, as expressed by General Eisenhower when Army Chief of Staff, that "we would have, in effect, two land armies." But the Marines cite statutes, court decisions, rulings of the Attorney General and Comptroller General to attest their rights as a separate service.

Marine Commandant Clifton B. Cates told the House Armed Services Committee in October, 1949, that the Army had tried to "destroy" the Marines: "The Marine Corps is a service. Congress made it a service in 1798 and has consistently recognized it as such. The National Security Act of 1947 definitely reaffirms this view of Congress."

What Price Honor

The citizen who has listened to President Truman's claim that all about him are honorable men must be slightly confused over the meaning of that term when he reflects that Congressional committees currently are conducting at least eight investigations into the Truman Administration.

For example, there is the Kefauver Committee of the Senate which has exposed widespread gambling and crime in the United States, with its overtones of political-criminal tie-ups. Then there is the Senate Fulbright Committee whose revelations of White House influence peddling, fast deals, and mink coats in the operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are, at the very least, eye-opening.

The House Un-American Activities Committee is continuing the Communist inquiry with the current spotlight on Hollywood. And the investigation into the alleged Communist infiltration of the State Department has been resumed by a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee.

An outgrowth of the Kefauver hearings is an inquiry by a House Ways and Means subcommittee into administration of the Internal Revenue laws. It wants to find out particularly how gamblers, racketeers and others outside the law can successfully evade their taxes.

A Senate committee headed by Senator Clyde R. Hoey (D.-N.C.) is resuming its investigation of five percenters and other influence peddlers. The Joint Congressional "watch dog" Committee on Defense Production is looking into reports of tax concessions to big business in the handling of defense contracts.

A House committee headed by Rep. Porter Hardy, Jr., (D.-Va.) has turned its attention to a venture wherein three men put up $600 in cash to get a $7,800,000 loan on a defense plant. Finally, the Senate Commerce Committee wants to look into a deal by which former Democrat Representative Joseph E. Casey of Massachusetts and others invested $100,000 in five surplus government tankers and made a $2,800,000 profit. Stockholders in Casey's firm included the late Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and Admiral William F. Halsey.

Faced with all these storm signals, can the perturbed citizen be reassured by President Truman's word that his associates are men of honor?

Free Only In Name

To those Americans who support socialized medicine because they think it will give them something for nothing we suggest a reading of the British government's financial estimates for the coming year.

In this bulletin they will discover that the system of free medical care is far from free. The adventure in fact is costing Britain more than a billion dollars annually—an amount which has to be raised by taxing the already sorely pressed citizens.

What a similar system would cost this country is anybody's guess. But of one thing we may be certain: The expense here would be infinitely larger than it is there, not only because of the larger population but because our boys in Washington can be counted upon to think up improvements in the way of bigger grants and more extended services.

Unless, therefore, our people have more money than they know what to do with, we had better not fall into the trap which the reformers would set for us.

Hazards Of The Housewife

HOUSEWORK, like other occupations, carries risks and hazards. Low back pain, flat feet, muscular aching, and disorders of the joints may result from heavy lifting, standing long hours, and fatigue; but the conditions are not hopeless and in the medical sense there are possibilities of treatment and prevention.

We appreciate the fact that "woman's work is never done" and that trying to accomplish something about the house with two or three smallfry underfoot often is difficult. But many women do it, and the secret is organization. This requires planning and, by sitting down daily for a half hour with pencil and paper, it may be possible to outline an easier program.

Efficiency may be improved by re-arranging the kitchen and other working areas. Men think nothing of doing this in the workshop and place of business. Furthermore, various modern labor saving devices such as automatic polishers, mops, dishwashing machines, and food mixers are available. They may be cheaper than the physician's fee should the housewife become ill. Muscle training and coordination are helpful to relieve strain on arms, legs, and back. This means learning how to bend and pick up or carry things the easy way. Native women who carry bundles on the head or hip or on yokes are not straining the back or developing bursitis; they are using what nature gave them to the best advantage. Many American women take a wagon or cart to the grocery store rather than carry heavy loads in their arms.

Wear and tear also is saved by alternating heavy and light work, utilizing tables of correct height, and sitting down periodically. The feet suffer less when proper footgear is worn. Most women save their old shoes to use around the house. They stand for hours on hard floors without any support to the arch and with rundown heels. Yet they wear good shoes when they are not on their feet so much as in visiting or playing bridge.

Some young mothers make the mistake of starting to work too soon after delivery. At this time the abdominal muscles are slack and weakened and unless strengthened, throw unusual strain on the lower back and sacroiliac regions. Once hurt, there parts often remain a potential source of trouble in the future. Varicose veins also are common among housewives perhaps because of an inherent weakness of the vascular system and prolonged standing. Obesity which comes from eating too much, particularly during pregnancy, is a hazard; it invites strain and injury and makes the chubby one more susceptible to high blood pressure, diabetes, arthritis, and other disorders.

Falls, cuts, burns, and infections are the most prevalent types of acidents among domestic workers. This problem is best solved by eliminating hazards. For example, knives should be placed in the drawers with the cutting edge down and roller skates and other objects can be kept off the stairs. Many mishaps have psychologic implications. The monotony of housework is depressing to some women; others become dissatisfied or frustrated because of unnecessary work. Long hours and continual demand end in fatigue. Another woman in the household, such as a mother-in-law, may prove annoying. Unless these factors are ironed out, the housekeeper often develops insomnia, anxiety, irritability, or other emotional disturbances.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Real Issue In Truman-MacArthur Controversy Is Civilian Or Military Rule; Taft's Father, When President, Kept Military In Their Place

(Ed. Note—Today's column takes the form of a letter from Drew Pearson to Sen. Robert A. Taft on the MacArthur-Truman controversy.)

Honorable Robert A. Taft
U. S. Senate
Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator Taft:

When your father was President of the United Staets, my late father-in-law, a general and a military man all his life, had about the same opinion of him that Douglas MacArthur has of the present occupant of the White House. In fact, your father, whom history records as having done a fine job as secretary of war, incurred the wrath of military men, because he kept within his budget an kept the military in their place.

He fully grasped the fundamental fact around which our Constitution is written—that ours is a civilian government, in which the military takes orders from civilians. He even carried it out so conscientiously that, when your father was seretary of war and used to come to the White House, Teddy Roosevelt would jokingly tell Mrs. Roosevelt to put away the carving knife for fear by father-in-law, a cousin and aide to T. R., might use it against Taft.

I mention this because you, of all Senate leaders, are in a position to grasp and understand the serious issue which faces the country today in the MacArthur-Truman controversy.

I mention it because the easiest thing in the world today is to j oin the wolfpack and kick Harry Truman in the pants. You, however, have not attained your present position by taking the easy way.

And you, inview of your father's record, in view of your own record as ac hampion of the Constitution, can better understand this fundamenal issue than any other man I know.

Take Off The Uniform

That issue is the Constitution of the United States — which provides that, if a general wants to run the government, he must take off his uniform and become a civilian like the rest of us. He cannot have the perquisites and protection of the uniform and give orders to the White House too.

Furthermore, you cannot have a general who has been running for president and who may still have political ambitions overruling the President of the United States. That also is implicit in the constitution.

As far as President Truman is concerned, my personal feelings toward him are about the same as yours. He has castigated me just as much as he has you. But there is a difference between respect for the office of president and respect for the man. The former is something which mst not be soiled or sullied by unfair Senate debate. And the office of president carries with it not only the power but the obligation, under the Constitution, to remove a general who challenges tha Constitution.

People are easily confused these days, but you can help to prevent their confusion. And while it might be popular and even healthy to impeach Harry Truman, do it on the grounds of corruption in his administration. There you might be on solid grounds. Don't do it on an issue for which your father and every other president has kept the torch of civilian government burning — the principle that no soldier can overrule a civilian elected by the people.

Or, if you will, impeach the President on the ground that his policy is wrong. Impeach him on the issue of failure in China.

It might be healthy if you or Senator Wherry introduced a resolution embodying the exact terms of the MacArthur letter to Joe Martin, and let the Senate debate it — debate the bombing of Chinese bases, the landing of Chiang Kai-shek's troops on them ainland and the full probabilities and objectives of war with China.

This is an important, vital question upon which we should have full debate, upon which the public should be fully informed. I hope such a resolution will be introduced.

But do not, I urge, confuse the isse by challenging the basic principle of our Constitution in regard to civilian rule.

Europe Watches U. S.

I have just returned from a trip through Europe. And I can report that you cannot travel abroad these days without sensing how vital is the issue now before our country. Many of the European nations have been through the struggle between military and civilian rule. They have seen the people — shaken in their confidence of the democratic system, confused by unfair debate —turn to military dictatorship.

It is out of such confusion, when nations have weak civilion leaders and strong military leaders, that dictatorships spring.

In my opinion our country today faces a most dangerous crisis. Tempers are running high. We do not have a strong man in the White House. We do have a strong military man, who has sought to be in the White House.

Now, it is easy to jump on an unpopular president — as your family well remembers. It is easy to jump on him and muddy up public opinion with confusing issues — such as the so-called Ballinger scandals which led to the overwhelming defeat of your father, and which history later proved not to have been scandals after all.

It is also easy to fool the public with a lot of phony flag-waving on an issue which your father and no other president worth his salt would have stool for—namely, permitting a general to thumb his nose at the civilian branch of the government and get away with it.

But the times today are too dangerous. And it is in days such as these, when we do not have the

The Bond Market

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK CITY, April 15 — New issues of corporate bonds bearing the highest interest rates since the late 1930's have just made the financial headlines. Business is paying more for its money, as well as for its wages and materials.

Government Bond Market

Just as the old belled ram leads the rest of the flock, so does the government bond market point the way for corporate bond, prices. About a month ago it was announced that the feud between the U. S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve had been ended. Both parties to the long disagreement had "reached full accord." Now, the thing upon which they had agreed was that a new issue of long-term government bonds should bear 2¾ per cent interest instead of the 2½ per cent figure that had been the going rate for similar issues.

Immediately a tremor ran through the financial world. As it became clear that the Federal Reserve had really "won the argument" over raising interest rates, government bond prices softened. At the same time, corporation bonds began a price decline that is still in progress. Commercial bankers became frightened and have since been casting an increasingly wary eye at all application for loans. Even the stock market has lost its pep. A glance at the course of the popular stock "averages" will show you that, since early March, stocks have been reactionary. That is why I say: Watch government bond prices; they are the bellweather for finance in general and for the bond market in particular.

Possible Effects On Stocks

Going back through the years, you will find that a persistent and drawn-out decline in bond prices is frequently followed by a good-sized slump in stocks. Studies show that the time lag between the fall in bonds and the later descent in stock prices varies widely.

Sometimes stocks follow bonds down only a few weeks later. At other times, close to two years have passed before stocks have taken a tumble. The reasons for this are not hard to find. As bond prices fall, the yield therefrom rises and narrows the gap between the return on bonds and the income from stocks. If the old relationship between the two is to be re-established, stock prices must decline. Only during periods of feverish speculative activity are buyers willing to overlook the need for getting a considerably bigger income from stocks, as compared to bonds, to "pay them back" for the greater risk that stocks carry.

Different This Time

However, some of my friends tell me that it is going to be "different this time!" They point out that the space between stock and bond yields, even after the recent rise in the latter, is much greater than usually exists. Therefore, they say, the return on bonds could rise quite a bit higher without greatly disturbing stock prices. They also cite the fact that very few stocks are being carried on borrowed money and that higher interest rates will not cause any amount of selling on that score.

These objectors may, of course, be right. But, I should like to leave this thought with you: When storm signals are flying, wise skippers heed them. Likewise, when old-time financial warnings appear, wise investors will diversify their funds carefully among sound well-selected common stock, and hold a sizable reserve in cash and highgrade short-term bonds against an "unexpected" shift in the trend.

Advice On Bonds

My father told me years ago, "Never send a boy on a man's errand!" This advice fits today's bond buyer. Whatever you do, don't build an investment reserve of all long-maturity bonds, no matter how high the quality. A one-per-cent rise in interest rates can wipe out a number of years' income in the shape of a price fall in your long-term bonds. That is a risk you should avoid at all costs. In bond buying, stick to short-term governments, good convertible corporation bonds, and tax exempts that you can hold to maturity.

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON.

IT may well be that in choosing this particular time to dismiss Gen. Douglas MacArthur, President Truman has chosen the best possible time — for MacArthur. It may even be that Gen. MacArthur had just that in mind when he decided to force the issue. For it is clear that the outcome of the battle between the President and the General will be determined in the end, not in Washington, but in Korea.

In dismissing MacArthur, Truman has of course risked his political life. In the most unlikely event that the attempts to reach an acceptable settlement with the Chinese and their Soviet masters now succeed, and the fighting ends, Truman will enjoy a great, historic triumph. If there is no settlement, but the expected Communist offensive is held, the stalemate on the battlefield will be reflected in a stalemate between Truman and MacArthur.

But if the Communists again break through our lines, if this time the breakthrough is successfully exploited, and if our forces are seriously endangered, then disaster in Korea will be disaster also for Truman. For then the demand for attacking targets in China proper, for using Nationalist troops, and for fighting the war in Asia which MacArthur wants will become irresistible.

Still Serious Danger

MacArthur will seem triumphantly vindicated, while Truman will appear the architect of national disaster. And as both Truman and MacArthur are certainly full aware, the danger of a successful Communist offensive in Korea is now as great as it has ever been. The best way to explain why the danger is now considered so serious is, oddly enough, to quote from a report cabled from Korea by this reporter's partner some months ago:

"The recurrent crises in the fighting here always took the form of a great hole being torn in our lines, and then being stopped by our mobile reserves being moved up before the walking enemy could exploit the breakthrough. But even two enemy intruder fighters, attacking the interminable lines of our transport... would have been enough to produce a twenty-four-hour tangle. Then the holes in our line could not have been stopped in time. The breakthroughs would then have been fully exploited. And we should have lost our foothold in Korea."

This pattern has held throughout the Korea fighting. Sheer weight of man power has made possible numerous Communist breakthroughs, the most serious being the near-defeat after the Chinese intervention. But the Communis breakthroughs have never in th end been fully exploited, becaus the Communists have lacked suffi cient heavy weapons and mobility and above all because they hav lacked any offensive air power a all.

This is why reports that the Chin ese are for the first time receivin important quantities of heavy weap ons and transport from Soviet Si berian stocks are taken with dead seriousness by the Joint Chiefs o Staff. But what is taken even mor seriously is the report that an of fensive Communist air force is no being organized.

Could Prove Devastating

This force is believed to consis of about 500 Russian fighters an light bombers, manned by inten sively trained Chinese and North Koreans. Such a force could no seriously challenge American ai superiority. But given cloud cove during the Korean rainy season, an given the interdiction against at tacking Manchurian bases, our ai force cannot possibly prevent straf ings and hit-and-run strikes behin our lines. And as the paragrapl quoted above suggests, even a fe planes strafing the bumper-to-bum per lines of American transport a the climactic moment of a battl could have an absolutely devastat ing effect.

Gen. Ridgway, who, rather tha MacArthur, has actually been i full command of the United Nation forces in Korea for many weeks, is brilliant field commander, and hi troops are more battle-worthy tha ever before. Yet the danger of a suc cessful enemy offensive is real, an it is a danger which might all bu destroy President Truman, as Tru man himself must know.

Infinitely more is of course a stake than the political fortunes o a Truman or a MacArthur. War even a small war, has a sullen, im perious logic of its own. If an en emy offensive, supported by air power based in Manchuria, endan gered our troops, the logic of wa would demand the bombing of the Manchurian bases, however much Truman might wish to localize the conflict. This would logically lead in turn to the bombing of Chinese lines of communications, and cities. Then the Soviets would be forced to intervene openly, or accept the equivalent of an intolerable defeat. Thus the logic of a small war leads to a great war. This logical progression toward world disaster cannot now be halted by Truman or MacArthur. It can be halted only if the men in the Kremlin decide to cut their losses in Korea, or if Ridgway and his men smash at the outset of the offensive which is otherwise in prospect.

We shall, of course, not live long enough to know whether your judgment is correct, or mine. History has its own curious way of visiting the errors of one generation upon its grandchildren, just as the accumulations of one generation are often enjoyed by another— and are often wasted and destroyed by another.

When a generation shows inadequate respect for natural law, for the laws of God; when adultery becomes a vogue and murder a syndicate, and when children teach their parents, and those who manage the state are not ashamed of corruption —then it is not too courageous to cast aside convenience and to protest and be counted.

You may say that I take myself and my work too seriously. Yet, since I was a boy at college, three generations of youth have been to war. Throughout the world there is a struggle between those who believe in God's natural law and those who believe in Marx's dialectical materialism. In this fight, sides must be chosen.

Lowen summoned a new office boy and started to explain to him the location of "21" and what he'd have to do to talk his way past Jimmy, the guardian of the entrance gate.

"You don't have to go through all this," said the new boy loftily. "I've had a charge account there for years." (What's happened to that old capitalist system of ours?)

And in the same vein, Jack Smart, who plays "The Fat Man" in radio and pictures, points out one indubitable advantage of weighing three hundred pounds: you always know where your cigar ashes are going to land.

A growing boy should have an adequate diet, decent clothes, better schooling and friends. These needs are governed by economic conditions and hence become a community problem, Dr. Fletcher said. He made an appeal that Rotarians take an interest in the boys from this section who have been sent to the school.

Dr. Fletcher was introduced by Alfred Benna, principal of Barton High School, and a member of the local club.

REV. DOUGLAS A. CLARK

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Dr. Elbert L. Fletcher, superintendent of the Maryland Training School for Boys, was the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Tri-Towns Rotary Club at the Potomac Hotel recently.

A growing boy should have an adequate diet, decent clothes, better schooling and friends. These needs are governed by economic conditions and hence become a community problem, Dr. Fletcher said. He made an appeal that Rotarians take an interest in the boys from this section who have been sent to the school.

Dr. Fletcher was introduced by Alfred Benna, principal of Barton High School, and a member of the local club.

Dr. E. L. Fletcher Talks To Rotary

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Dr. Elbert L. Fletcher, superintendent of the Maryland Training School for Boys, was the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Tri-Towns Rotary Club at the Potomac Hotel recently.

He put much of the blame on the delinquency in youth on the parents and homes. Most of the boys in the Maryland Training School came from where there was friction among the parents and 99 percent of them gave indications that they had not received proper kinds of food, Dr. Fletcher stated.

A growing boy should have an adequate diet, decent clothes, better schooling and friends. These needs are governed by economic conditions and hence become a community problem, Dr. Fletcher said. He made an appeal that Rotarians take an interest in the boys from this section who have been sent to the school.

Dr. Fletcher was introduced by Alfred Benna, principal of Barton High School, and a member of the local club.

Bratton, Gavilan Get Tuneup Bouts

Williams, Minelli Will Be Opponents

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—NBA welterweight king Johnny Bratton and Cuba's Kid Gavilan, who meet in a title bout May 18, warm up for the big event with tuneup fights this week.

Bratton, of Chicago, meets Don Williams of Worchester, Mass., in a non-title ten in Detroit's Olympia Wednesday night. The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast and telecast.

Gavilan faces middleweight Aldo Minelli of Italy in the main ten at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Friday night. Their 10 p. m. (EST) contest also will be broadcast and telecast.

Bratton and Gavilan will collide in Madison Square Garden. The New York Commission has agreed to recognize the winner as world champion. Thus the victor will be hailed as successor to Ray Robinson in most parts of the world where boxing is active.

Irish Bobby Murphy, the San Diego slugger, and Willie Pep, the former featherweight king from Hartford, also throw leather this week.

Murphy, a ranking light heavyweight contender, takes on Joey Rindone of Boston in a ten rounder that may pack the Boston Garden Monday night. Murphy is one of the biggest attractions in the game today.

Bobcats Lose, 6-3

Frostburg State Teachers College dropped its opening game of the baseball season to the University of Maryland Freshmen Saturday at College Park by the score of 6-3. Connie Hemphill let the Bobcats down with four hits and Jack Beck hit a 2-run homer. Bill Buser was the loser, being relieved by John Frank in the 5th.

Mantle Stars, Yanks Lose, 7-6

Brooklyn Dodgers Annex Exhibition

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Mickey Mantle, sensational New York Yankee rookie, celebrated his promotion to the varsity today by banging out a home run and three singles but the Brooklyn Dodgers marred the occasion by nipping the Bombers, 7-6.

Shortly before game time the Yanks said they had bought the contracts of Mantle and pitcher Frank Shea from their Kansas City American Association team. Shea, a 28-year-old righthander, starred for the Yanks 1947 world champions, but had been bothered with a sore arm the past three years.

Mantle and Jackie Jensen drove in all the Yankee runs. Jensen homered and tripled.

Jensen's two-run homer off Chris Van Cuyk broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh and Mantle's round tripper, his ninth of the spring, gave the Yankees a three-run lead in the eighth.

Mantle will open the season tomorrow in rightfield when the world champions clash with the Senators in Washington.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel also said Tom Morgan, another rookie find, will start against the Senators instead of lefty Ed Lopat.

Neither Mantle nor Morgan were on the Yankees' winter roster. The 19-year-old Mantle, who led the Class C Western Association in batting last year with a .383 mark, came to camp as a shortstop. Morgan, a 21-year-old righthander, won 17 and lost 8 at Binghamton in the Eastern League.

Central League Asks $40,000 From Tigers

FLINT, Mich., April 15 (AP) — The Class A Central League is holding up its possible challenge to baseball law on radio rights, pending a conference with Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

The league seeks $40,000 from the Detroit Tigers in return for allowing the Tigers to broadcast in four Michigan cities at the same time as Central League teams there are playing.

A law suit was threatened unless some agreement was worked out by April 13. But Chandler called a conference Friday in Cincinnati between Central League owners and Tiger representatives, and the minor loop has agreed to hold off any legal action until then.

The B.P.O. Elks of the Rocking Chair Softball League will hold a meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Elk's Home.

Starkey Gets Brooklyn Main Bout With Harold Sampson On Thursday

Eastern Parkway Arena Is Scene Of Action

NEW YORK, April 15—(Special to the News)—On Thursday night in the Eastern Parkway Arena, Brooklyn, Promoter Emil Lence is giving a main event chance to one of the most promising youngsters ever to show in the club and Randall (Skeets) Starkey, Cumberland, Md., light-heavyweight, hopes to keep his unbeaten record intact and add Harold Sampson of Cliffside, N. J., to his string of 20 straight wins as a professional.

The spot is a direct result of the impressive hit Starkey made with TV fans when he kayoed Vincent Smith in one round two weeks ago. Promoter Emil Lence received so many requests from TV fans to see Starkey in action again, it resulted in "Skeets" getting a main event spot in the club.

Skeets is six feet, three inches tall. He weighs 170 pounds. His dad is a 220 pounder and 21-year-old "Skeets" may grow to some day fight for the world's heavyweight title.

His opponent, Harold Sampson, is managed by Gus Lesnevich, former light-heavyweight champion of the world. Harold already won an impressive victory in the Brooklyn club, and the match with Starkey looms as one of the best action fights of the season.

An eight rounder on the show will feature Larry Anzalone of Garfield, N. J., against Sammy Thompson of New York.

Derby Hopefuls Run Saturday In Wood Memorial

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Hang on tight folks, here we go again on the Kentucky Derby merry-go-round. Uncle Miltie can be whipped, and the 77th running of the $100,000 classic May 5 at Louisville is as wide open as ever.

Labeled the horse to beat for the three-year-old honors after his impressive race last Monday at Jamaica, Uncle Miltie gave a dull performance yesterday in the $25,000 Experimental Handicap No. 2 J. J. Colando's colt wound up eighth in a field of 10, and even the boys around his barn can't say what happened, let alone the majority in a crowd of 40,351 who backed him down to 35 cents on the dollar then watched King Ranch's Sonic grab the gravy. Uncle Miltie came out of the race sound, despite talk of a weak knee, his stable reported. Nothing could be found to offer a single excuse.

Comparisons Do Fadeout

Had Uncle Miltie won, they would have had to draft a few to oppose him in the 40,000-added Wood Memorial coming up Saturday. Now it looks like 15 or more will turn out for the final eastern Derby test. Gone are the comparisons between Uncle Miltie and Citation and Count Fleet, great three-year-olds of the past.

Conditions for the Wood Memorial call for the horses to carry 126 pounds each, same as the Derby. Sonic had only 105 in the Experimental, Uncle Miltie 126, although the weight wasn't what beat the Colando star.

The result puts George Widener's Battlefield, the 1950 two-year-old champ, back into the Wood Memorial picture. The Wood is the same route as the experimental, a mile and one sixteenth. Battlefield, second to Uncle Miltie a week ago, skipped the Experimental.

"He's still got to prove himself," said Trainer Bert Mulholland of Battlefield. "There's no use kidding ourselves."

Jumbo's Stumble Costly

Over at Belmont Park, one of the hottest topics of conversation was Hal Price Headley's powerful big colt Jumbo, beaten half a length by Sonic after setting the pace all the way. Jumbo stumbled at the start Saturday, recovered quickly, but drifted wide in the stretch run afterwards, it was discovered he had suffered a slight cut in the right front heel.

"It was a common gallop for the big boy if he hadn't stumbled," said Trainer Frank Barnett. "We plan to send him back in the Wood perhaps with a stablemate, Long Bow, although the latter hasn't raced yet this year."

Three others from the Experimental also are ready to try again in the Wood, two with an eye on the derby. They are Jack Amiel's Count Turf, fourth; Cain Hoy Stable's Battle Morn, fifth, both Derby nominees, and Phantom Farm's Nullify. The latter ran third, but isn't a Derby eligible.

Repetoire Wins Chesapeake

A top Derby challenger came out of Maryland's main spring test for three-year-olds when Mrs. Nora Mikell's Repetoire took the Chesapeake Saturday at Laurel. Repetoire, winner of the Experimental No. 1 here April 4, ships this week to Kentucky, although eligible for the Wood.

Clemson Tigers Top Conference

Move Ahead Of Duke, Take Five Straight

RICHMOND, Va., April 15 (AP) — If the Southern Conference decided to pick the year's biggest troublemaker in all sports, that distinction undoubtedly would go to Clemson's Tigers.

First, the Tigers were troublesome in football. They whipped all opponents except South Carolina and settled with the Gamecocks for a tie. Next, Clemson demonstrated its ability to do what everybody said it couldn't do in basketball. The Tigers wound up third over the regular season and kept right on winning while everybody sat around mumbling they'd crack up.

Today, the Tigers came out to haunt the rest of the league in baseball. They led the Southern Division standings with a 5-0 record, taking first place away from Duke's Blue Devils. Clemson has stacked up 51 runs, handcuffed its five foes with 16.

Clemson was anything but impressive as the season got under way. The Tigers lost their first four games, losing twice to Rollins College and twice to Michigan State.

Then the Bengals started clicking. They've grabbed victories in six successive contests. They knocked off the Citadel yesterday in both ends of a twin bill, 15-3 and 5-1.

North Carolina State proved the loop's hottest club the past week. State, winner of only one of its first five outings, edged North Carolina's Tar Heels twice last week in games decided by one run and outscored Duke, 12-10.

Maryland's Old Liners became the surprise of the northern division. The Liners are out front with a 3-0 mark. Maryland downed William and Mary and scored two wins over West Virginia.

Posts 66, Cops $750 In Weathervane Golf

DALLAS, Tex., April 15 (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias played like a champion must play today to come back to victory in the $3,000 Weathervane Golf Tournament with a blazing 66 that equalled an all-time record for women's golf.

Mildred Zaharias

Surging home with a nine-under-par for the 6100-yard Lakewood Country Club course, Mrs. Zaharias made her 36-hole total 149 and captured top money of $750 in the first leg of the 144-hole cross-country Weathervane tournament.

Her 66 today bested men's par by five strokes, broke the women's course record by five and was just one stroke over the men's course record.

Defending champion in the Weathervane, in which she won $7,450 of a possible $8,000 last year, Mrs. Zaharias moves on with the field to Pebble Beach, Calif., May 5-6 for the second 36 holes.

Pittsburgh Hurler's Condition Serious

PITTSBURGH, April 15 (INS)—Pittsburgh Pitcher Bill Pierro was reported to be in serious condition today at Presbyterian Hospital, a possible victim of polio or meningitis.

The 25-year-old righthander had been earmarked for a trade to Indianapolis, but his illness held up the transaction. Pierro returned to Pittsburgh Saturday from Montgomery, Ala., where he was treated for what was thought to be ptomaine poisoning.

GIANTS PUMMEL TRIBE

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) — The New York Giants wound up their spring exhibition series against the Cleveland Indians by pummeling the Tribe, 9-1, today. The Giants took the series, seven games to three, with one tie.

Home runs by third baseman Henry Thompson and centerfielder Bobby Thomson paced a 12-hit New York attack.

Senators Hosts To New York, Pirates Battle Reds Today

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) — Throw out the exhibition standings. They start playing for keeps tomorrow in both major leagues.

Two games tomorrow and a full eight-game schedule Tuesday provide a fidgety nation with a whiff of cheer. Some 300,000 are expected to attend with millions watching or listening on television and radio.

Down the long 154-game stretch to Sept. 30 will come the answers to baseball's jigsaw. How good are the New York Giants? Will the Red Sox finally win? Can Casey Stengel make it three straight? Is Mickey Mantle a new DiMaggio?

You start getting the first hints tomorrow in games at Washington and Cincinnati, designed to get the jubilee season off to a rush.

Yanks Nominate Rookie

Southpaw Harry Truman turns from the military to the sports world to throw out the first ball at Griffith Stadium tomorrow for the New York-Washington opener. After the President gets through Bob Kuzava (9-10), a faster southpaw, will take up the job of facing Yank rookie Tom Morgan, a surprise choice over Ed Lopat. Morgan had a 17-8 record with Binghamton last season.

Clark Griffith expects 33,000 fans to greet the Senators who have first division hopes after their surprise fifth-place finish of last year. The game launches the league's 51st season.

Mantle, the most highly-publicized rookie since Clint Hartung, is expected to be in the Yankee outfield for his first big league start.

Cincinnati, given special dispensation for an early opener in the league's 76th year, beats the gun on the rest of the National by taking on Pittsburgh at Crosley Field. The usual sellout crowd of 32,000 is due.

Blackwell vs. Chambers

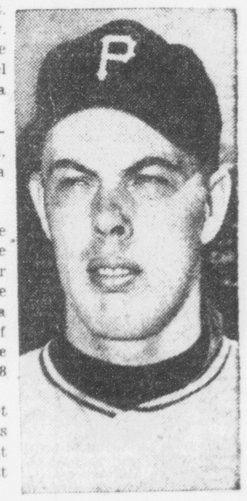

Ewell Blackwell (17-15), back in good health after a siege of ailments, will go for the improved Reds against Cliff Chambers (12-15). Much is expected of the Reds after their fine last half season in '50. Nobody knows what to expect from Branch Rickey at Pittsburgh except Ralph Kiner at first base and maybe a lefthand catcher.

Once the special openers are over, the leagues go into a full schedule Tuesday featured by a Yankee-Boston Red Sox series at Yankee Stadium and a Phillies-Brooklyn series at Ebbets Field.

The Yank-Red Sox clash is significant because the two clubs generally are picked to fight it out for the pennant with Cleveland. Inability to win on the road and failure to beat New York handcuffed the power-laden Red Sox the last three years.

Mel Parnell (18-10) probably will be Steve O'Neill's opener against the Yanks' ace, Vic Raschi (21-8).

The Brooks and Phils pick up where they left off last October on the final day of the season with the same pitchers — Robin Roberts (20-11) for the Phils and Don Newcombe (19-11) for the Dodgers.

Giants Open In Boston

Much interest will be centered on Boston where the Giants face the Braves in their opener with Larry Jansen (19-13) opposing Vern Bickford (19-14). A year ago the big question was "who got the best of the big deal?" Now it's "can the Giants win the pennant?" This is a dizzy new experience for the Giants after many sad seasons.

Marty Marion's St. Louis Cardinals play their opener at Pittsburgh with Gerry Staley (13-13) for the Cards against Murry Dickson (10-15) a former Card. Marion's first day as a big league manager will be spent on the bench, hoping that Solly Hemus can make the grade as his shortstop sub.

Cincinnati hustles from its Monday date at home to Chicago to help the Cubs pry off the lid. It probably will be Frank Hiller (12-5) for the hopeful Cubs against either Howie Fox (11-8) or Ken Raffensberger (14-19).

Next to the Red Sox-Yank game in the American comes the pairing of Cleveland at Detroit where Bob Lemon (23-11) is slated to face Hal Newhouser (15-13). The Indians with a new manager in Al Lopez and fine rookies in Harry Simpson and Orestes Minoso are talking pennant.

Play Night Game

For the first time in American League history an opener will be played at night. The Philadelphia A's break precedent in the American with an 8 p.m. (EST) game against Washington Tuesday.

The Chicago White Sox, exhibition champions of the league, open at St. Louis with Billy Pierce (12-16) the pick of Manager Paul Richards to oppose the Browns' Ace, Ned Garver (13-18).

Five new managers make their bows, Dykes, Lopez and Richards in the American and Marion and Dressen in the National.

Knicks Win, 92-89, Trail Royals 3-2 In N.B.A. Playoffs

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 15 (AP) — The New York Knicks came from behind a 10-point deficit in the second half tonight to beat the Rochester Royals, 92-89, in the fifth game of the final NBA playoffs. The Royals still lead in the best-of-seven game series, three games to two.

Bratton, Gavilan Get Tuneup Bouts

Williams, Minelli Will Be Opponents

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—NBA welterweight king Johnny Bratton and Cuba's Kid Gavilan, who meet in a title bout May 18, warm up for the big event with tuneup fights this week.

Bratton, of Chicago, meets Don Williams of Worchester, Mass., in a non-title ten in Detroit's Olympia Wednesday night. The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast and telecast.

Gavilan faces middleweight Aldo Minelli of Italy in the main ten at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Friday night. Their 10 p. m. (EST) contest also will be broadcast and telecast.

Bratton and Gavilan will collide in Madison Square Garden. The New York Commission has agreed to recognize the winner as world champion. Thus the victor will be hailed as successor to Ray Robinson in most parts of the world where boxing is active.

Irish Bobby Murphy, the San Diego slugger, and Willie Pep, the former featherweight king from Hartford, also throw leather this week.

Murphy, a ranking light heavyweight contender, takes on Joey Rindone of Boston in a ten rounder that may pack the Boston Garden Monday night. Murphy is one of the biggest attractions in the game today.

Bobcats Lose, 6-3

Frostburg State Teachers College dropped its opening game of the baseball season to the University of Maryland Freshmen Saturday at College Park by the score of 6-3. Connie Hemphill let the Bobcats down with four hits and Jack Beck hit a 2-run homer. Bill Buser was the loser, being relieved by John Frank in the 5th.

Mantle Stars, Yanks Lose, 7-6

Brooklyn Dodgers Annex Exhibition

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Mickey Mantle, sensational New York Yankee rookie, celebrated his promotion to the varsity today by banging out a home run and three singles but the Brooklyn Dodgers marred the occasion by nipping the Bombers, 7-6.

Shortly before game time the Yanks said they had bought the contracts of Mantle and pitcher Frank Shea from their Kansas City American Association team. Shea, a 28-year-old righthander, starred for the Yanks 1947 world champions, but had been bothered with a sore arm the past three years.

Mantle and Jackie Jensen drove in all the Yankee runs. Jensen homered and tripled.

Jensen's two-run homer off Chris Van Cuyk broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh and Mantle's round tripper, his ninth of the spring, gave the Yankees a three-run lead in the eighth.

Mantle will open the season tomorrow in rightfield when the world champions clash with the Senators in Washington.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel also said Tom Morgan, another rookie find, will start against the Senators instead of lefty Ed Lopat.

Neither Mantle nor Morgan were on the Yankees' winter roster. The 19-year-old Mantle, who led the Class C Western Association in batting last year with a .383 mark, came to camp as a shortstop. Morgan, a 21-year-old righthander, won 17 and lost 8 at Binghamton in the Eastern League.

Central League Asks $40,000 From Tigers

FLINT, Mich., April 15 (AP) — The Class A Central League is holding up its possible challenge to baseball law on radio rights, pending a conference with Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

The league seeks $40,000 from the Detroit Tigers in return for allowing the Tigers to broadcast in four Michigan cities at the same time as Central League teams there are playing.

A law suit was threatened unless some agreement was worked out by April 13. But Chandler called a conference Friday in Cincinnati between Central League owners and Tiger representatives, and the minor loop has agreed to hold off any legal action until then.

Starkey Gets Brooklyn Main Bout With Harold Sampson On Thursday

Eastern Parkway Arena Is Scene Of Action

NEW YORK, April 15—(Special to the News)—On Thursday night in the Eastern Parkway Arena, Brooklyn, Promoter Emil Lence is giving a main event chance to one of the most promising youngsters ever to show in the club and Randall (Skeets) Starkey, Cumberland, Md., light-heavyweight, hopes to keep his unbeaten record intact and add Harold Sampson of Cliffside, N. J., to his string of 20 straight wins as a professional.

The spot is a direct result of the impressive hit Starkey made with TV fans when he kayoed Vincent Smith in one round two weeks ago. Promoter Emil Lence received so many requests from TV fans to see Starkey in action again, it resulted in "Skeets" getting a main event spot in the club.

Skeets is six feet, three inches tall. He weighs 170 pounds. His dad is a 220 pounder and 21-year-old "Skeets" may grow to some day fight for the world's heavyweight title.

His opponent, Harold Sampson, is managed by Gus Lesnevich, former light-heavyweight champion of the world. Harold already won an impressive victory in the Brooklyn club, and the match with Starkey looms as one of the best action fights of the season.

An eight rounder on the show will feature Larry Anzalone of Garfield, N. J., against Sammy Thompson of New York.

Derby Hopefuls Run Saturday In Wood Memorial

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Hang on tight folks, here we go again on the Kentucky Derby merry-go-round. Uncle Miltie can be whipped, and the 77th running of the $100,000 classic May 5 at Louisville is as wide open as ever.

Labeled the horse to beat for the three-year-old honors after his impressive race last Monday at Jamaica, Uncle Miltie gave a dull performance yesterday in the $25,000 Experimental Handicap No. 2

J. J. Colando's colt wound up eighth in a field of 10, and even the boys around his barn can't say what happened, let alone the majority in a crowd of 40,351 who backed him down to 35 cents on the dollar then watched King Ranch's Sonic grab the gravy. Uncle Miltie came out of the race sound, despite talk of a weak knee, his stable reported. Nothing could be found to offer a single excuse.

Comparisons Do Fadeout

Had Uncle Miltie won, they would have had to draft a few to oppose him in the 40,000-added Wood Memorial coming up Saturday. Now it looks like 15 or more will turn out for the final eastern Derby test. Gone are the comparisons between Uncle Miltie and Citation and Count Fleet, great three-year-olds of the past.

Conditions for the Wood Memorial call for the horses to carry 126 pounds each, same as the Derby. Sonic had only 105 in the Experimental, Uncle Miltie 126, although the weight wasn't what beat the Colando star.

The result puts George Widener's Battlefield, the 1950 two-year-old champ, back into the Wood Memorial picture. The Wood is the same route as the experimental, a mile and one sixteenth. Battlefield, second to Uncle Miltie a week ago, skipped the Experimental.

"He's still got to prove himself," said Trainer Bert Mulholland of Battlefield. "There's no use kidding ourselves."

Jumbo's Stumble Costly

Over at Belmont Park, one of the hottest topics of conversation was Hal Price Headley's powerful big colt Jumbo, beaten half a length by Sonic after setting the pace all the way. Jumbo stumbled at the start Saturday, recovered quickly, but drifted wide in the stretch run afterwards, it was discovered he had suffered a slight cut in the right front heel.

"It was a common gallop for the big boy if he hadn't stumbled," said Trainer Frank Barnett. "We plan to send him back in the Wood, perhaps with a stablemate, Long Bow, although the latter hasn't raced yet this year."

Three others from the Experimental also are ready to try again in the Wood, two with an eye on the derby. They are Jack Amiel's Count Turf, fourth; Cain Hoy Stable's Battle Morn, fifth, both Derby nominees, and Phantom Farm's Nullify. The latter ran third, but isn't a Derby eligible.

Repetoire Wins Chesapeake

A top Derby challenger came out of Maryland's main spring test for three-year-olds when Mrs. Nora Mikell's Repetoire took the Chesapeake Saturday at Laurel. Repetoire, winner of the Experimental No. 1 here April 4, ships this week to Kentucky, although eligible for the Wood.

Clemson Tigers Top Conference

Move Ahead Of Duke, Take Five Straight

RICHMOND, Va., April 15 (AP) — If the Southern Conference decided to pick the year's biggest troublemaker in all sports, that distinction undoubtedly would go to Clemson's Tigers.

First, the Tigers were troublesome in football. They whipped all opponents except South Carolina and setteled with the Gamecocks for a tie. Next, Clemson demonstrated its ability to do what everybody said it couldn't do in basketball. The Tigers wound up third over the regular season and kept right on winning while everybody sat around mumbling they'd crack up.

Today, the Tigers came out to haunt the rest of the league in baseball. They led the Southern Division standings with a 5-0 record, taking first place away from Duke's Blue Devils. Clemson has stacked up 51 runs, handcuffed its five foes with 16.

Clemson was anything but impressive as the season got under way. The Tigers lost their first four games, losing twice to Rollins College and twice to Michigan State.

Then the Bengals started clicking. They've grabbed victories in six successive contests. They knocked off the Citadel yesterday in both ends of a twin bill, 15-3 and 5-1.

North Carolina State proved the loop's hottest club the past week. State, winner of only one of its first five outings, edged North Carolina's Tar Heels twice last week in games decided by one run and outscored Duke, 12-10.

Maryland's Old Liners became the surprise of the northern division. The Liners are out front with a 3-0 mark. Maryland downed William and Mary and scored two wins over West Virginia.

The scoreless nightcap was called because of darkness with one out in the top half of the fourth inning.

The National League Champions regained only some of their prestige by the win, however, since the A's already had wrapped up the city championship with a 7-2 victory on Friday and a 7-6 win yesterday.

Babe Zaharias Equals Record

Posts 66, Cops $750 In Weathervane Golf

DALLAS, Tex., April 15 (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias played like a champion must play today to come back to victory in the $3,000 Weathervane Golf Tournament with a blazing 66 that equalled an all-time record for women's golf.

Mildred Zaharias

Surging home with a nine-under-par for the 6100-yard Lakewood Country Club course, Mrs. Zaharias made her 36-hole total 149 and captured top money of $750 in the first leg of the 144-hole cross-country Weathervane tournament.

Her 66 today bested men's par by five strokes, broke the women's course record by five and was just one stroke over the men's course record.

Defending champion in the Weathervane, in which she won $7,450 of a possible $8,000 last year, Mrs. Zaharias moves on with the field to Pebble Beach, Calif., May 5-6 for the second 36 holes.

Pittsburgh Hurler's Condition Serious

PITTSBURGH, April 15 (INS)—Pittsburgh Pitcher Bill Pierro was reported to be in serious condition today at Presbyterian Hospital, a possible victim of polio or meningitis.

The 25-year-old righthander had been earmarked for a trade to Indianapolis, but his illness held up the transaction. Pierro returned to Pittsburgh Saturday from Montgomery, Ala., where he was treated for what was thought to be ptomaine poisoning.

GIANTS PUMMEL TRIBE

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) — The New York Giants wound up their spring exhibition series against the Cleveland Indians by pummeling the Tribe, 9-1, today. The Giants took the series, seven games to three, with one tie.

Home runs by third baseman Henry Thompson and centerfielder Bobby Thomson paced a 12-hit New York attack.

Senators Hosts To New York, Pirates Battle Reds Today

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) — Throw out the exhibition standings. They start playing for keeps tomorrow in both major leagues.

Two games tomorrow and a full eight-game schedule Tuesday provide a fidgety nation with a whiff of cheer. Some 300,000 are expected to attend with millions watching or listening on television and radio.

CLIFF CHAMBERS
Pittsburgh

Down the long 154-game stretch to Sept. 30 will come the answers to baseball's jigsaw. How good are the New York Giants? Will the Red Sox finally win? Can Casey Stengel make it three straight? Is Mickey Mantle a new DiMaggio?

You start getting the first hints tomorrow in games at Washington and Cincinnati, designed to get the jubilee season off to a rush.

Yanks Nominate Rookie

Southpaw Harry Truman turns from the military to the sports world to throw out the first ball at Griffith Stadium tomorrow for the New York-Washington opener. After the President gets through Bob Kuzava (9-10), a faster southpaw, will take up the job of facing Yank rookie Tom Morgan, a surprise choice over Ed Lopat. Morgan had a 17-8 record with Binghamton last season.

Clark Griffith expects 33,000 fans to greet the Senators who have first division hopes after their surprise fifth-place finish of last year. The game launches the league's 51st season.

Mantle, the most highly-publicized rookie since Clint Hartung, is expected to be in the Yankee outfield for his first big league start.

Cincinnati, given special dispensation for an early opener in the league's 76th year, beats the gun on the rest of the National by taking on Pittsburgh at Crosley Field. The usual sellout crowd of 32,000 is due.

Blackwell vs. Chambers

Ewell Blackwell (17-15), back in good health after a siege of ailments, will go for the improved Reds against Cliff Chambers (12-15). Much is expected of the Reds after their fine last half season in '50. Nobody knows what to expect from Branch Rickey at Pittsburgh except Ralph Kiner at first base and maybe a lefthand catcher.

Once the special openers are over, the leagues go into a full schedule Tuesday featured by a Yankee-Boston Red Sox series at Yankee Stadium and a Phillies-Brooklyn series at Ebbets Field.

The Yank-Red Sox clash is significant because the two clubs generally are picked to fight it out for the pennant with Cleveland. Inability to win on the road and failure to beat New York handcuffed the power-laden Red Sox the last three years.

EWELL BLACKWELL
Cincinnati

Mel Parnell (18-10) probably will be Steve O'Neill's opener against the Yanks' ace, Vic Raschi (21-8).

The Brooks and Phils pick up where they left off last October on the final day of the season with the same pitchers — Robin Roberts (20-11) for the Phils and Don Newcombe (19-11) for the Dodgers.

Giants Open In Boston

Much interest will be centered on Boston where the Giants face the Braves in their opener with Larry Jansen (19-13) opposing Vern Bickford (19-14). A year ago the big question was "who got the best of the big deal?" Now it's "can the Giants win the pennant?" This is a dizzy new experience for the Giants after many sad seasons.

Marty Marion's St. Louis Cardinals play their opener at Pittsburgh with Gerry Staley (13-13) for the Cards against Murry Dickson (10-15) a former Card. Marion's first day as a big league manager will be spent on the bench, hoping that Solly Hemus can make the grade as his shortstop sub.

Cincinnati hustles from its Monday date at home to Chicago to help the Cubs pry off the lid. It probably will be Frank Hiller (12-5) for the hopeful Cubs against either Howie Fox (11-8) or Ken Raffensberger (14-19).

Next to the Red Sox-Yank game in the American comes the pairing of Cleveland at Detroit where Bob Lemon (23-11) is slated to face Hal Newhouser (15-13). The Indians with a new manager in Al Lopez and fine rookies in Harry Simpson and Orestes Minoso are talking pennant.

Play Night Game

For the first time in American League history an opener will be played at night. The Philadelphia A's break precedent in the American with an 8 p.m. (EST) game against Washington Tuesday.

The Chicago White Sox, exhibition champions of the league, open at St. Louis with Billy Pierce (12-16) the pick of Manager Paul Richards to oppose the Browns' Ace, Ned Garver (13-18).

Knicks Win, 92-89, Trail Royals 3-2 In N.B.A. Playoffs

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 15 (AP) — The New York Knicks came from behind a 10-point deficit in the second half tonight to beat the Rochester Royals, 92-89, in the fifth game of the final NBA playoffs. The Royals still lead in the best-of-seven game series, three games to two.

Bratton, Gavilan Get Tuneup Bouts

Williams, Minelli Will Be Opponents

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—NBA welterweight king Johnny Bratton and Cuba's Kid Gavilan, who meet in a title bout May 18, warm up for the big event with tuneup fights this week.

Bratton, of Chicago, meets Don Williams of Worchester, Mass., in a non-title ten in Detroit's Olympia Wednesday night. The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast and telecast.

Gavilan faces middleweight Aldo Minelli of Italy in the main ten at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Friday night. Their 10 p. m. (EST) contest also will be broadcast and telecast.

Bratton and Gavilan will collide in Madison Square Garden. The New York Commission has agreed to recognize the winner as world champion. Thus the victor will be hailed as successor to Ray Robinson in most parts of the world where boxing is active.

Irish Bobby Murphy, the San Diego slugger, and Willie Pep, the former featherweight king from Hartford, also throw leather this week.

Murphy, a ranking light heavyweight contender, takes on Joey Rindone of Boston in a ten rounder that may pack the Boston Garden Monday night. Murphy is one of the biggest attractions in the game today.

Bobcats Lose, 6-3

Frostburg State Teachers College dropped its opening game of the baseball season to the University of Maryland Freshmen Saturday at College Park by the score of 6-3. Connie Hemphill let the Bobcats down with four hits and Jack Beck hit a 2-run homer. Bill Buser was the loser, being relieved by John Frank in the 5th.

Mantle Stars, Yanks Lose, 7-6

Brooklyn Dodgers Annex Exhibition

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—Mickey Mantle, sensational New York Yankee rookie, celebrated his promotion to the varsity today by banging out a home run and three singles but the Brooklyn Dodgers marred the occasion by nipping the Bombers, 7-6.

Shortly before game time the Yanks said they had bought the contracts of Mantle and pitcher Frank Shea from their Kansas City American Association team. Shea, a 28-year-old righthander, starred for the Yanks 1947 world champions, but had been bothered with a sore arm the past three years.

Mantle and Jackie Jensen drove in all the Yankee runs. Jensen homered and tripled.

Jensen's two-run homer off Chris Van Cuyk broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh and Mantle's round tripper, his ninth of the spring, gave the Yankees a three-run lead in the eighth.

Mantle will open the season tomorrow in rightfield when the world champions clash with the Senators in Washington.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel also said Tom Morgan, another rookie find, will start against the Senators instead of lefty Ed Lopat.

Neither Mantle nor Morgan were on the Yankees' winter roster. The 19-year-old Mantle, who led the Class C Western Association in batting last year with a .383 mark, came to camp as a shortstop. Morgan, a 21-year-old righthander, won 17 and lost 8 at Binghamton in the Eastern League.

Central League Asks $40,000 From Tigers

FLINT, Mich., April 15 (AP) — The Class A Central League is holding up its possible challenge to baseball law on radio rights, pending a conference with Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

The league seeks $40,000 from the Detroit Tigers in return for allowing the Tigers to broadcast in four Michigan cities at the same time as Central League teams there are playing.

A law suit was threatened unless some agreement was worked out by April 13. But Chandler called a conference Friday in Cincinnati between Central League owners and Tiger representatives, and the minor loop has agreed to hold off any legal action until then.

Starkey Gets Brooklyn Main Bout With Harold Sampson On Thursday

Eastern Parkway Arena Is Scene Of Action

NEW YORK, April 15—(Special to the News)—On Thursday night in the Eastern Parkway Arena, Brooklyn, Promoter Emil Lence is giving a main event chance to one of the most promising youngsters ever to show in the club and Randall (Skeets) Starkey, Cumberland, Md., light-heavyweight, hopes to keep his unbeaten record intact and add Harold Sampson of Cliffside, N. J., to his string of 20 straight wins as a professional.

The spot is a direct result of the impressive hit Starkey made with TV fans when he kayoed Vincent Smith in one round two weeks ago. Promoter Emil Lence received so many requests from TV fans to see Starkey in action again, it resulted in "Skeets" getting a main event spot in the club.

Skeets is six feet, three inches tall. He weighs 170 pounds. His dad is a 220 pounder and 21-year-old "Skeets" may grow to some day fight for the world's heavyweight title.

His opponent, Harold Sampson, is managed by Gus Lesnevich, former light-heavyweight champion of the world. Harold already won an impressive victory in the Brooklyn club, and the match with Starkey looms as one of the best action fights of the season.

An eight rounder on the show will feature Larry Anzalone of Garfield, N. J., against Sammy Thompson of New York.

Derby Hopefuls Run Saturday In Wood Memorial

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Hang on tight folks, here we go again on the Kentucky Derby merry-go-round. Uncle Miltie can be whipped, and the 77th running of the $100,000 classic May 5 at Louisville is as wide open as ever.

Labeled the horse to beat for the three-year-old honors after his impressive race last Monday at Jamaica, Uncle Miltie gave a dull performance yesterday in the $25,000 Experimental Handicap No. 2 J. J. Colando's colt wound up eighth in a field of 10, and even the boys around his barn can't say what happened, let alone the majority in a crowd of 40,351 who backed him down to 35 cents on the dollar then watched King Ranch's Sonic grab the gravy. Uncle Miltie came out of the race sound, despite talk of a weak knee, his stable reported. Nothing could be found to offer a single excuse.

Comparisons Do Fadeout

Had Uncle Miltie won, they would have had to draft a few to oppose him in the 40,000-added Wood Memorial coming up Saturday. Now it looks like 15 or more will turn out for the final eastern Derby test. Gone are the comparisons between Uncle Miltie and Citation and Count Fleet, great three-year-olds of the past.

Conditions for the Wood Memorial call for the horses to carry 126 pounds each, same as the Derby. Sonic had only 105 in the Experimental, Uncle Miltie 126, although the weight wasn't what beat the Colando star.

The result puts George Widener's Battlefield, the 1950 two-year-old champ, back into the Wood Memorial picture. The Wood is the same route as the experimental, a mile and one sixteenth. Battlefield, second to Uncle Miltie a week ago, skipped the Experimental.

"He's still got to prove himself," said Trainer Bert Mulholland of Battlefield. "There's no use kidding ourselves."

Jumbo's Stumble Costly

Over at Belmont Park, one of the hottest topics of conversation was Hal Price Headley's powerful big colt Jumbo, beaten half a length by Sonic after setting the pace all the way. Jumbo stumbled at the start Saturday, recovered quickly, but drifted wide in the stretch run afterwards, it was discovered he had suffered a slight cut in the right front heel.

"It was a common gallop for the big boy if he hadn't stumbled," said Trainer Frank Barnett. "We plan to send him back in the Wood perhaps with a stablemate, Long Bow, although the latter hasn't raced yet this year."

Three others from the Experimental also are ready to try again in the Wood, two with an eye on the derby. They are Jack Amiel's Count Turf, fourth; Cain Hoy Stable's Battle Morn, fifth, both Derby nominees, and Phantom Farm's Nullify. The latter ran third, but isn't a Derby eligible.

Repetoire Wins Chesapeake

A top Derby challenger came out of Maryland's main spring test for three-year-olds when Mrs. Nora Mikell's Repetoire took the Chesapeake Saturday at Laurel. Repetoire, winner of the Experimental No. 1 here April 4, ships this week to Kentucky, although eligible for the Wood.

Clemson Tigers Top Conference

Move Ahead Of Duke, Take Five Straight

RICHMOND, Va., April 15 (AP) — If the Southern Conference decided to pick the year's biggest troublemaker in all sports, that distinction undoubtedly would go to Clemson's Tigers.

First, the Tigers were troublesome in football. They whipped all opponents except South Carolina and setteled with the Gamecocks for a tie. Next, Clemson demonstrated its ability to do what everybody said it couldn't do in basketball. The Tigers wound up third over the regular season and kept right on winning while everybody sat around mumbling they'd crack up.

Today, the Tigers came out to haunt the rest of the league in baseball. They led the Southern Division standings with a 5-0 record, taking first place away from Duke's Blue Devils. Clemson has stacked up 51 runs, handcuffed its five foes with 16.

Clemson was anything but impressive as the season got under way. The Tigers lost their first four games, losing twice to Rollins College and twice to Michigan State.

Then the Bengals started clicking. They've grabbed victories in six successive contests. They knocked off the Citadel yesterday in both ends of a twin bill, 15-3 and 5-1.

North Carolina State proved the loop's hottest club the past week. State, winner of only one of its first five outings, edged North Carolina's Tar Heels twice last week in games decided by one run and outscored Duke, 12-10.

Maryland's Old Liners became the surprise of the northern division. The Liners are out front with a 3-0 mark. Maryland downed William and Mary and scored two wins over West Virginia.

Babe Zaharias Equals Record

Posts 66, Cops $750 In Weathervane Golf

DALLAS, Tex., April 15 (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias played like a champion must play today to come back to victory in the $3,000 Weathervane Golf Tournament with a blazing 66 that equalled an all-time record for women's golf.

Mildred Zaharias

Surging home with a nine-under-par for the 6100-yard Lakewood Country Club course, Mrs. Zaharias made her 36-hole total 149 and captured top money of $750 in the first leg of the 144-hole cross-country Weathervane tournament.

Her 66 today bested men's par by five strokes, broke the women's course record by five and was just one stroke over the men's course record.

Defending champion in the Weathervane, in which she won $7,450 of a possible $8,000 last year, Mrs. Zaharias moves on with the field to Pebble Beach, Calif., May 5-6 for the second 36 holes.

Pittsburgh Hurler's Condition Serious

PITTSBURGH, April 15 (INS)—Pittsburgh Pitcher Bill Pierro was reported to be in serious condition today at Presbyterian Hospital, a possible victim of polio or meningitis.

The 25-year-old righthander had been earmarked for a trade to Indianapolis, but his illness held up the transaction. Pierro returned to Pittsburgh Saturday from Montgomery, Ala., where he was treated for what was thought to be ptomaine poisoning.

GIANTS PUMMEL TRIBE

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) — The New York Giants wound up their spring exhibition series against the Cleveland Indians by pummeling the Tribe, 9-1, today. The Giants took the series, seven games to three, with one tie.

Home runs by third baseman Henry Thompson and centerfielder Bobby Thomson paced a 12-hit New York attack.

Senators Hosts To New York, Pirates Battle Reds Today

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) — Throw out the exhibition standings. They start playing for keeps tomorrow in both major leagues.

Two games tomorrow and a full eight-game schedule Tuesday provide a fidgety nation with a whiff of cheer. Some 300,000 are expected to attend with millions watching or listening on television and radio.

Down the long 154-game stretch to Sept. 30 will come the answers to baseball's jigsaw. How good are the New York Giants? Will the Red Sox finally win? Can Casey Stengel make it three straight? Is Mickey Mantle a new DiMaggio?

You start getting the first hints tomorrow in games at Washington and Cincinnati, designed to get the jubilee season off to a rush.

Yanks Nominate Rookie

Southpaw Harry Truman turns from the military to the sports world to throw out the first ball at Griffith Stadium tomorrow for the New York-Washington opener. After the President gets through Bob Kuzava (9-10), a faster southpaw, will take up the job of facing Yank rookie Tom Morgan, a surprise choice over Ed Lopat. Morgan had a 17-8 record with Binghamton last season.

Clark Griffith expects 33,000 fans to greet the Senators who have first division hopes after their surprise fifth-place finish of last year. The game launches the league's 51st season.

Mantle, the most highly-publicized rookie since Clint Hartung, is expected to be in the Yankee outfield for his first big league start.

Cincinnati, given special dispensation for an early opener in the league's 76th year, beats the gun on the rest of the National by taking on Pittsburgh at Crosley Field. The usual sellout crowd of 32,000 is due.

Blackwell vs. Chambers

Ewell Blackwell (17-15), back in good health after a siege of ailments, will go for the improved Reds against Cliff Chambers (12-15). Much is expected of the Reds after their fine last half season in '50. Nobody knows what to expect from Branch Rickey at Pittsburgh except Ralph Kiner at first base and maybe a lefthand catcher.

Once the special openers are over, the leagues go into a full schedule Tuesday featured by a Yankee-Boston Red Sox series at Yankee Stadium and a Phillies-Brooklyn series at Ebbets Field.

The Yank-Red Sox clash is significant because the two clubs generally are picked to fight it out for the pennant with Cleveland. Inability to win on the road and failure to beat New York handcuffed the power-laden Red Sox the last three years.

Mel Parnell (18-10) probably will be Steve O'Neill's opener against the Yanks' ace, Vic Raschi (21-8).

The Brooks and Phils pick up where they left off last October on the final day of the season with the same pitchers — Robin Roberts (20-11) for the Phils and Don Newcombe (19-11) for the Dodgers.

Giants Open In Boston

Much interest will be centered on Boston where the Giants face the Braves in their opener with Larry Jansen (19-13) opposing Vern Bickford (19-14). A year ago the big question was "who got the best of the big deal?" Now it's "can the Giants win the pennant?" This is a dizzy new experience for the Giants after many sad seasons.

Marty Marion's St. Louis Cardinals play their opener at Pittsburgh with Gerry Staley (13-13) for the Cards against Murry Dickson (10-15) a former Card. Marion's first day as a big league manager will be spent on the bench, hoping that Solly Hemus can make the grade as his shortstop sub.

Cincinnati hustles from its Monday date at home to Chicago to help the Cubs pry off the lid. It probably will be Frank Hiller (12-5) for the hopeful Cubs against either Howie Fox (11-8) or Ken Raffensberger (14-19).

Next to the Red Sox-Yank game in the American comes the pairing of Cleveland at Detroit where Bob Lemon (23-11) is slated to face Hal Newhouser (15-13). The Indians with a new manager in Al Lopez and fine rookies in Harry Simpson and Orestes Minoso are talking pennant.

Play Night Game

For the first time in American League history an opener will be played at night. The Philadelphia A's break precedent in the American with an 8 p.m. (EST) game against Washington Tuesday.

The Chicago White Sox, exhibition champions of the league, open at St. Louis with Billy Pierce (12-16) the pick of Manager Paul Richards to oppose the Browns' Ace, Ned Garver (13-18).

Knicks Win, 92-89, Trail Royals 3-2 In N.B.A. Playoffs

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 15 (AP) — The New York Knicks came from behind a 10-point deficit in the second half tonight to beat the Rochester Royals, 92-89, in the fifth game of the final NBA playoffs. The Royals still lead in the best-of-seven game series, three games to two.

State Soft Coal Employment And Production Off

Garrett County's Output Is Down

Maryland's soft coal production and coal mine employment for 1950 dropped below 1949 figures, according to statistics released by the Maryland Bureau of Mines at Westernport today.

Only two Maryland counties produce coal, Allegany and Garrett, in the extreme Western end of the state. Total production for 1950 was 646,240 tons, with 1,495 miners employed. In 1949, production totaled 713,879 tons with 1,628 persons employed.

Garrett County produced 323,646 tons in 1950 and 467,367 in 1949. Employment in Garrett soft coal production was 787 in 1949 and 761 in 1950.

Allegany Output Up

Allegany County showed increased production with 322,593 tons mined in 1950 and 246,512 mined in 1949. Employment figures show 841 working in 1949 and 734 in 1950.

There were five mine fatalities in the state in 1949, three in Garrett County and two in Allegany. However, in the year just past there was only one fatality in state mines, this occurring in Garrett County.

A breakdown of miners gainfully employed in the state shows 840 miners, 140 drivers (including motormen and brakemen), 282 inside laborers and 233 outside laborers.

While Garrett County employs more people in the mining industry, it has 318 men actually mining coal, compared to 522 miners in Allegany County. The difference is found in the number of laborers and drivers required in the Garrett mines, compared to Allegany operations.

Garrett Employs More

Garrett employs 96 drivers, 224 inside laborers and 133 outside laborers, while Allegany County has 54 drivers, 58 inside laborers and 100 outside laborers.

The year 1950 saw a number of the state's coal mines cease operations completely and the closing of the offices of the Upper Potomac and Georges Creek Coal Operators Association, as the industry reached an all time low point.

Garrett produced 88,409 tons pick mined coal, 167,000 tons machine mined coal, and 68,237 strip mined coal.

No Fatalities Listed

Fire clay production in the state increased in 1950. For 1949 total production was 121,527 tons with Garrett producing 49,379 tons and Allegany 71,971 tons. For 1950, state total was 143,527, with Garrett totaling 75,527 tons, all strip mined, and Allegany producing 68,000 tons of which 22,085 was strip mined, 18,807 machine mined and 27,108 tons pick mined.

There were no fatalities in the state's fire clay industry.

New Yorkers Are 89 Per Cent Honest

NEW YORK, April 13 (AP)—New Yorkers are 89 per cent honest.

That was the final report today of a negro educational organization, which scattered 2,000 shiny 50-cent pieces in public places with letters asking return of the coins or a $1 contribution.

Death Of Bevin Sharpens Fight In Labor Party

LONDON, April 15 (AP) — Ernest Bevin's death sharpened today the undercover struggle for power within the ranks of Britain's Labor Party. Some informants thought the clash might hasten a general election.

A quiet realignment of forces within Prime Minister Attlee's cabinet began last month when ill health forced Bevin's retirement as foreign secretary. Now the maneuvering has been stepped up.

Persons in touch with the party's workings stressed this point: Bevin's death yesterday placed Attlee in a lonely postion. The two were old friends and inseparable political allies. With Herbert Morrison, the present foreign secretary, they formed a controlling triumvirate within the party that gave the government its relatively moderate tone.

Working together, the three of them were able to withstand any serious challenge from a more extreme wing of the party led by Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan.

Basically the two factions differs on this point: The Attlee-Bevin-Morrison group extended socialism in Britain in a slow, methodical way. Bevin's followers, on the other hand, kept insisting that the country be moved more rapidly toward all-out socialism.

General Given

He appeared in a hurry to leave. As he walked the 100-yards to his plane, a military band played "The General's March."

Mrs. MacArthur preceded him to the plane. Her progress was so rapid that she outdistanced him.

MacArthur Stern Faced

Somebody in the crowd yelled, "Job well done." Mrs. MacArthur waved again.

State Soft Coal Employment And Production Off

Garrett County's Output Is Down

Maryland's soft coal production and coal mine employment for 1950 dropped below 1949 figures, according to statistics released by the Maryland Bureau of Mines at Westernport today.

Only two Maryland counties produce coal, Allegany and Garrett, in the extreme Western end of the state. Total production for 1950 was 646,240 tons, with 1,495 miners employed. In 1949, production totaled 713,879 tons with 1,628 persons employed.

Garrett County produced 323,646 tons in 1950 and 467,367 in 1949. Employment in Garrett soft coal production was 787 in 1949 and 761 in 1950.

Allegany Output Up

Allegany County showed increased production with 322,593 tons mined in 1950 and 246,512 mined in 1949. Employment figures show 841 working in 1949 and 734 in 1950.

There were five mine fatalities in the state in 1949, three in Garrett County and two in Allegany. However, in the year just past there was only one fatality in state mines, this occurring in Garrett County.

A breakdown of miners gainfully employed in the state shows 840 miners, 140 drivers (including mormen and brakemen), 282 inside laborers and 233 outside laborers.

While Garrett County employs more people in the mining industry, it has 318 men actually mining coal, compared to 522 miners in Allegany County. The difference is found in the number of laborers and drivers required in the Garrett mines, compared to Allegany operations.

Garrett Employs More

Garrett employs 96 drivers, 224 inside laborers and 133 outside laborers, while Allegany County has 54 drivers, 58 inside laborers and 100 outside laborers.

The year 1950 saw a number of the state's coal mines cease operations completely and the closing of the offices of the Upper Potomac and Georges Creek Coal Operators Association, as the industry reached an all time low point.

Maryland mines at one time employed more than 6,000 men.

No Fatalities Listed

Fire clay production in the state increased in 1950. For 1949 total production was 121,527 tons with Garrett producing 49,379 tons and Allegany 71,971 tons. For 1950, state total was 143,527, wih Garrett totaling 75,527 tons, all strip mined, and Allegany producing 68,000 tons of which 22,085 was strip mined, 18,807 machine mined and 27,108 tons pick mined.

There were no fatalities in the state's fire clay industry.

Death Of Bevin Sharpens Fight In Labor Party

LONDON, April 15 (AP) — Ernest Bevin's death sharpened today the undercover struggle for power within the ranks of Britain's Labor Party. Some informants thought the clash might hasten a general election.

A quiet realignment of forces within Prime Minister Attlee's cabinet began last month when ill health forced Bevin's retirement as foreign secretary. Now the maneuvering has been stepped up.

Persons in touch with the party's workings stressed this point: Bevin's death yesterday placed Attlee in a lonely postion. The two were old friends and inseparable political allies. With Herbert Morrison, the present foreign secretary, they formed a controlling triumvirate within the party that gave the government its relatively moderate tone.

Working together, the three of them were able to withstand any serious challenge from a more extreme wing of the party led by Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan.

Basically the two factions differs on this point: The Attlee-Bevin-Morrison group extended socialism in Britain in a slow, methodical way. Bevin's followers, on the other hand, kept insisting that the country be moved more rapidly toward all-out socialism.

General Given

as the General strode onto the airfield.

He appeared in a hurry to leave.

As he walked the 100-yards to his plane, a military band played "The General's March."

Mrs. MacArthur preceded him to the plane. Her progress was so rapid that she outdistanced him.

MacArthur Stern Faced

At the top of the plane ramp Mrs. MacArthur bowed, choking back tears. The General followed. He was stern faced, a pose he uses to hide emotion.

Somebody in the crowd yelled, "Job well done." Mrs. MacArthur waved again.

There was loud applause from the great crowd. And the band played Old Lang Syne.

The roof of the airport terminal was jammed with people. They stood on terminal counters and on every height.

MacArthur acknowledged their cheers with a smile and lifted his famous old "scrambled eggs" campaign cap as the Bataan started taxiing down the runway at 7:15 a. m.

Overhead, jet fighters swooped in an aerial salute.

At 7:21 a. m. the Bataan roared off the runway and was airborne. It quickly disappeared in the eastern sky.

State Soft Coal Employment And Production Off

Garrett County's Output Is Down

Maryland's soft coal production and coal mine employment for 1950 dropped below 1949 figures, according to statistics released by the Maryland Bureau of Mines at Westernport today.

Only two Maryland counties produce coal, Allegany and Garrett, in the extreme Western end of the state. Total production for 1950 was 646,240 tons, with 1,495 miners employed. In 1949, production totaled 713,879 tons with 1,628 persons employed.

Garrett County produced 323,646 tons in 1950 and 467,367 in 1949. Employment in Garrett soft coal production was 787 in 1949 and 761 in 1950.

Allegany Output Up

Allegany County showed increased production with 322,593 tons mined in 1950 and 246,512 mined in 1949. Employment figures show 841 working in 1949 and 734 in 1950.

There were five mine fatalities in the state in 1949, three in Garrett County and two in Allegany. However, in the year just past there was only one fatality in state mines, this occurring in Garrett County.

A breakdown of miners gainfully employed in the state shows 840 miners, 140 drivers (including motormen and brakemen), 282 inside laborers and 233 outside laborers.

While Garrett County employs more people in the mining industry, it has 318 men actually mining coal, compared to 522 miners in Allegany County. The difference is found in the number of laborers and drivers required in the Garrett mines, compared to Allegany operations.

Garrett Employs More

Garrett employs 96 drivers, 224 inside laborers and 133 outside laborers, while Allegany County has 54 drivers, 58 inside laborers and 100 outside laborers.

The year 1950 saw a number of the state's coal mines cease operations completely and the closing of the offices of the Upper Potomac and Georges Creek Coal Operators Association, as the industry reached an all time low point.

Maryland mines at one time employed more than 6,000 men.

Allegany figures show 178,629 tons pick, 57,732 tons machine mined, and 86,231 strip mined coal produced in 1950.

Garrett produced 88,409 tons pick mined coal, 167,000 tons machine mined coal, and 68,237 strip mined coal.

No Fatalities Listed

Fire clay production in the state increased in 1950. For 1949 total production was 121,527 tons with Garrett producing 49,379 tons and Allegany 71,971 tons. For 1950, state total was 143,527, wih Garrett totaling 75,527 tons, all strip mined, and Allegany producing 68,000 tons of which 22,085 was strip mined, 18,807 machine mined and 27,108 tons pick mined.

There were no fatalities in the state's fire clay industry.

Death Of Bevin Sharpens Fight In Labor Party

LONDON, April 15 (AP) — Ernest Bevin's death sharpened today the undercover struggle for power within the ranks of Britain's Labor Party. Some informants thought the clash might hasten a general election.

A quiet realignment of forces within Prime Minister Attlee's cabinet began last month when ill health forced Bevin's retirement as foreign secretary. Now the maneuvering has been stepped up.

Persons in touch with the party's workings stressed this point: Bevin's death yesterday placed Attlee in a lonely postion. The two were old friends and inseparable political allies. With Herbert Morrison, the present foreign secretary, they formed a controlling triumvirate within the party that gave the government its relatively moderate tone.

Working together, the three of them were able to withstand any serious challenge from a more extreme wing of the party led by Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan.

Basically the two factions differs on this point: The Attlee-Bevin-Morrison group extended socialism in Britain in a slow, methodical way. Bevin's followers, on the other hand, kept insisting that the country be moved more rapidly toward all-out socialism.

Van Fleet In Tokyo

General Given

as the General strode onto the airfield.

He appeared in a hurry to leave.

As he walked the 100-yards to his plane, a military band played "The General's March."

Mrs. MacArthur preceded him to the plane. Her progress was so rapid that she outdistanced him.

MacArthur Stern Faced

At the top of the plane ramp Mrs. MacArthur bowed, choking back tears. The General followed. He was stern faced, a pose he uses to hide emotion.

Somebody in the crowd yelled, "Job well done." Mrs. MacArthur waved again.

There was loud applause from the great crowd. And the band played Old Lang Syne.

The roof of the airport terminal was jammed with people. They stood on terminal counters and on every height.

MacArthur acknowledged their cheers with a smile and lifted his famous old "scrambled eggs" campaign cap as the Bataan started taxiing down the runway at 7:15 a. m.

Overhead, jet fighters swooped in an aerial salute.

At 7:21 a. m. the Bataan roared off the runway and was airborne. It quickly disappeared in the eastern sky.

A Bit More Discrimination, Please

"HAWKINS Falls has the civic pride of Brooklyn, the booster spirit of Miami, the cultural love of Linsburg, Kan., the comfort of Rosendale, Wis., and the adjustment to change of Las Vegas," it says here in a prospectus of Lever Brothers' new No Rinse opera. (They used to be soap operas but, let's get up to date, kids. Great advances have been made in the cleansing field since our day. They're either No Rinse or Detergent operas now.)

John Crosby

Now, "Hawkins Falls (pop. 6,200)," which is a television show (Mon. through Fri. NBC-TV 5 p.m. EST), was a wonderful idea for a program and a very fine little program when it started last summer. But that prospectus worries me. I don't know that "Hawkins Falls, pop. 6,200" is not a misleading title. It seems to my occasionally befuddled mind that Lever Brothers is now trying to work in a little too much for one small town.

I can't quite adjust myself to a community with the booster spirit of Miami, the cultural love of Linsburg, Kan., the comfort of Rosendale, Wis., and the adjustment to change, which is easily the most delicate phrase for it of our times, of Las Vegas. Not all in one small town (pop. 6,200). Apart from Linsburg, Kan., I've been in all those places. Even Rosendale, Wis., has a number of grave faults. It seems to me that in trying to encompass such wildly divergent attitudes as Las Vegas and — well — Linsburg, Kan., the Lever people are exceeding the bounds of my credulity. (My credulity was boundless, just like outer space, until Einstein's formula E-MC2 exploded all that.)

I just don't see how the Brooklyn people, a suspicious bunch, are going to adjust themselves to all that adjustment in Las Vegas. And besides I don't think they can afford it. If I were a Hawkins Falls boy, I'd be the first to fight the booster spirit of Miami which is all right in Miami but all wrong in Hawkins Falls. I don't know about this cultural uprising in Linsburg, Kan., but I don't think it will sit well with the peculiarities and special distinctions of Las Vegas and Rosendale, Wis.

A small town is a very special place with its own attitudes, its own people and its own fierce prides. It's not right to force down its throat the attitudes and fierce prides of other places, especially bigger places. In my original essay on this program, I said that it had "captured the small town with the irreducible minimum of malarkey." I don't know that this situation will continue long, though, if they try to get a little bit of Brooklyn, a little bit of Miami, into Hawkins Falls.

I don't know why Hawkins Falls can't just be Hawkins Falls, an entity of its own. The creative spirit borrows necessarily from living sources but it shouldn't borrow quite so indiscriminately as all that. Also, the creative man, while borrowing, adds a little essence of his own and pretty soon—there is Hawkins Falls (Pop. 6,200), a community with its own civic prides and cultural distastes and local discomforts. And its own people, too. And pretty soon, Miami and Las Vegas, which are essentially derivative towns, start copying Hawkins Falls, rather than the other way around.

After which petulant remarks, I should like to point out that "Hawkins Falls (pop. 6,200)" has so far pretty well lived up to its billing as a television novel rather than a soap opera. There are a few elements of soapland in it which can hardly be avoided, I suppose. Already, somebody is bedridden and, I must admit, there is a bit of cliff-hanging at the end of each episode. Still, as daytime television goes, "Hawkins Falls" is fairly earnest, respectable and honest for daytime television programming. It emanates, incidentally, from Chicago, the home town of a lot of respectable television programming, and I hope they keep it out there.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"My wife oughta be on that investigating committee . . . THEN I'd like to see them witnesses stand on their Constitutional rights and refuse to answer . . ."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

QUESTIONING YOURSELF

YOU ARE permitted under the Laws to ask an opponent if he holds the ace of a particular suit. But what's the use? Certainly you don't expect him to be truthful. In fact, he may not even admire your nerve. But you can always get a truthful answer from yourself. So, if the other side's ace has failed to appear on the first trick of the suit, let your questions go something like this: "Would I have played the ace if I had it and sat in the West?" and "Would I have played it if I had it in the East?"

	♠ K 8 6 4 ♥ 5 3 ♦ A Q 7 3 ♣ Q 6 2
♠ A 10 5 ♥ Q J 9 8 7 ♦ 10 6 4 ♣ A 5	N W E S	♠ Q 7 2 ♥ 10 4 2 ♦ J 9 8 5 ♣ J 10 9
	♠ J 9 3 ♥ A K 6 ♦ K 2 ♣ K 8 7 4 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT

South held up his two tops on the lead of the heart Q and then came in with the K when West led the J, East being smart enough to unblock the suit by playing his 10 because he could tell West's holding might be topped by the Q-J-9. West played low when the club 3 was led to the Q, which won the third trick. Next the club 2 was led from the dummy and, after East played the 10, South stopped and puzzled. Deciding that he had better "cover an honor with an honor," he put on the K, which the A won.

Now West returned the heart 8 to the A. A club then was given up to the J, whereupon East returned the spade 2 to the A and West cashed the heart 9 and 7 for his side's fifth and sixth tricks, setting the contract two.

If South had been possessed of the very good habit of talking to himself — that is silently — he should have made that contract. His first question, "Would I have played the ace of clubs on the lead of the 3 if I held it and sat in West?" would have brought a prompt answer of "Certainly not; I'd wait for bigger game." His second question, "Would I have played the A on the Q if I had it and sat in the East?" should have been answered by "Absolutely, without batting an eye." Following that answer, he could hardly help playing low on the second club lead, hoping the A would have to play, as it would. Just follow the play through and you'll see that game would have resulted then, with two tricks in hearts, three in diamonds and four in clubs.

A Bit More Discrimination, Please

"HAWKINS Falls has the civic pride of Brooklyn, the booster spirit of Miami, the cultural love of Linsburg, Kan., the comfort of Rosendale, Wis., and the adjustment to change of Las Vegas," it says here in a prospectus of Lever Brothers' new No Rinse opera. (They used to be soap operas but, let's get up to date, kids. Great advances have been made in the cleansing field since our day. They're either No Rinse or Detergent operas now.)

John Crosby

Now, "Hawkins Falls (pop. 6,200)," which is a television show (Mon. through Fri. NBC-TV 5 p.m. EST), was a wonderful idea for a program and a very fine little program when it started last summer. But that prospectus worries me. I don't know that "Hawkins Falls, pop. 6,200" is not a misleading title. It seems to my occasionally befuddled mind that Lever Brothers is now trying to work in a little too much for one small town.

I can't quite adjust myself to a community with the booster spirit of Miami, the cultural love of Linsburg, Kan., the comfort of Rosendale, Wis., and the adjustment to change, which is easily the most delicate phrase for it of our times, of Las Vegas. Not all in one small town (pop. 6,200). Apart from Linsburg, Kan., I've been in all those places. Even Rosendale, Wis., has a number of grave faults. It seems to me that in trying to encompass such wildly divergent attitudes as Las Vegas and — well — Linsburg, Kan., the Lever people are exceeding the bounds of my credulity. (My credulity was boundless, just like outer space, until Einstein's formula E-MC2 exploded all that.)

I just don't see how the Brooklyn people, a suspicious bunch, are going to adjust themselves to all that adjustment in Las Vegas. And besides I don't think they can afford it. If I were a Hawkins Falls boy, I'd be the first to fight the booster spirit of Miami which is all right in Miami but all wrong in Hawkins Falls. I don't know about this cultural uprising in Linsburg, Kan., but I don't think it will sit well with the peculiarities and special distinctions of Las Vegas and Rosendale, Wis.

A small town is a very special place with its own attitudes, its own people and its own fierce prides. It's not right to force down its throat the attitudes and fierce prides of other places, especially bigger places. In my original essay on this program, I said that it had "captured the small town with the irreducible minimum of malarkey." I don't know that this situation will continue long, though, if they try to get a little bit of Brooklyn, a little bit of Miami, into Hawkins Falls.

I don't know why Hawkins Falls can't just be Hawkins Falls, an entity of its own. The creative spirit borrows necessarily from living sources but it shouldn't borrow quite so indiscriminately as all that. Also, the creative man, while borrowing, adds a little essence of his own and pretty soon—there is Hawkins Falls (Pop. 6,200), a community with its own civic prides and cultural distastes and local discomforts. And its own people, too. And pretty soon, Miami and Las Vegas, which are essentially derivative towns, start copying Hawkins Falls, rather than the other way around.

After which petulant remarks, I should like to point out that "Hawkins Falls (pop. 6,200)" has so far pretty well lived up to its billing as a television novel rather than a soap opera. There are a few elements of soapland in it which can hardly be avoided, I suppose. Already, somebody is bedridden and, I must admit, there is a bit of cliff-hanging at the end of each episode. Still, as daytime television goes, "Hawkins Falls" is fairly earnest, respectable and honest for daytime television programming. It emanates, incidentally, from Chicago, the home town of a lot of respectable television programming, and I hope they keep it out there.

"The Authority on Authorities"

QUESTIONING YOURSELF

YOU ARE permitted under the Laws to ask an opponent if he holds the ace of a particular suit. But what's the use? Certainly you don't expect him to be truthful. In fact, he may not even admire your nerve. But you can always get a truthful answer from yourself. So, if the other side's ace has failed to appear on the first trick of the suit, let your questions go something like this: "Would I have played the ace if I had it and sat in the West?" and "Would I have played it if I had it in the East?"

	♠ K 8 6 4 ♥ 5 3 ♦ A Q 7 3 ♣ Q 6 2
♠ A 10 5 ♥ Q J 9 8 7 ♦ 10 6 4 ♣ A 5	N W E S	♠ Q 7 2 ♥ 10 4 2 ♦ J 9 8 5 ♣ J 10 9
	♠ J 9 3 ♥ A K 6 ♦ K 2 ♣ K 8 7 4 3

(Dealer: South. North - South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT

South held up his two tops on the lead of the heart Q and then came in with the K when West led the J, East being smart enough to unblock the suit by playing his 10 because he could tell West's holding might be topped by the Q-J-9. West played low when the club 3 was led to the Q, which won the third trick. Next the club 2 was led from the dummy and, after East played the 10, South stopped and puzzled. Deciding that he had better "cover an honor with an honor," he put on the K, which the A won.

Now West returned the heart 8 to the A. A club then was given up to the J, whereupon East returned the spade 2 to the A and West cashed the heart 9 and 7 for his side's fifth and sixth tricks, setting the contract two.

If South had been possessed of the very good habit of talking to himself — that is silently — he should have made that contract. His first question, "Would I have played the ace of clubs on the lead of the 3 if I held it and sat in West?" would have brought a prompt answer of "Certainly not; I'd wait for bigger game." His second question, "Would I have played the A on the Q if I had it and sat in the East?" should have been answered by "Absolutely, without batting an eye." Following that answer, he could hardly help playing low on the second club lead, hoping the A would have to play, as it would. Just follow the play through and you'll see that game would have resulted then, with two tricks in hearts, three in diamonds and four in clubs.

Still, as daytime television goes, "Hawkins Falls" is fairly earnest, respectable and honest for daytime television programming. It emanates, incidentally, from Chicago, the home town of a lot of respectable television programming, and I hope they keep it out there.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By Lichty

"My wife oughta be on that investigating committee . . . THEN I'd like to see them witnesses stand on their Constitutional rights and refuse to answer . . ."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

QUESTIONING YOURSELF

YOU ARE permitted under the Laws to ask an opponent if he holds the ace of a particular suit. But what's the use? Certainly you don't expect him to be truthful. In fact, he may not even admire your nerve. But you can always get a truthful answer from yourself. So, if the other side's ace has failed to appear on the first trick of the suit, let your questions go something like this: "Would I have played the ace if I had it and sat in the West?" and "Would I have played it if I had it in the East?"

	♠ K 8 5 4 ♥ 5 3 ♦ A Q 7 3 ♣ Q 6 2
♠ A 10 5 ♥ Q J 9 8 7 ♦ 10 6 4 ♣ A 5	N W E S	♠ Q 7 2 ♥ 10 4 2 ♦ J 9 8 5 ♣ J 10 9
	♠ J 9 3 ♥ A K 6 ♦ K 2 ♣ K 8 7 4 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT

South held up his two tops on the lead of the heart Q and then came in with the K when West led the J, East being smart enough to unblock the suit by playing his 10 because he could tell West's holding might be topped by the Q-J-9. West played low when the club 3 was led to the Q, which won the third trick. Next the club 2 was led from the dummy and, after East played the 10, South stopped and puzzled. Deciding that he had better "cover an honor with an honor," he put on the K, which the A won.

Now West returned the heart 8 to the A. A club then was given up to the J, whereupon East returned the spade 2 to the A and West cashed the heart 9 and 7 for his side's fifth and sixth tricks, setting the contract two.

If South had been possessed of the very good habit of talking to himself — that is silently — he should have made that contract. His first question, "Would I have played the ace of clubs on the lead of the 3 if I held it and sat in West?" would have brought a prompt answer of "Certainly not; I'd wait for bigger game." His second question, "Would I have played the A on the Q if I had it and sat in the East?" should have been answered by "Absolutely, without batting an eye." Following that answer, he could hardly help playing low on the second club lead, hoping the A would have to play, as it would. Just follow the play through and you'll see that game would have resulted then, with two tricks in hearts, three in diamonds and four in clubs.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 8 6 ♥ K 5 ♦ A J 10 7 5 ♣ A J 10 9
♠ A Q 10 7 5 ♥ A Q 8 ♦ 9 4 ♣ 8 6 2	N W E S	♠ 3 2 ♥ J 9 7 3 2 ♦ 6 3 2 ♣ 5 4 3
	♠ K J 9 4 ♥ 10 6 4 ♦ K Q 8 ♣ K Q 7

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If West bids 1-Spade, North 2-Diamonds and East passes, what should South bid?

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

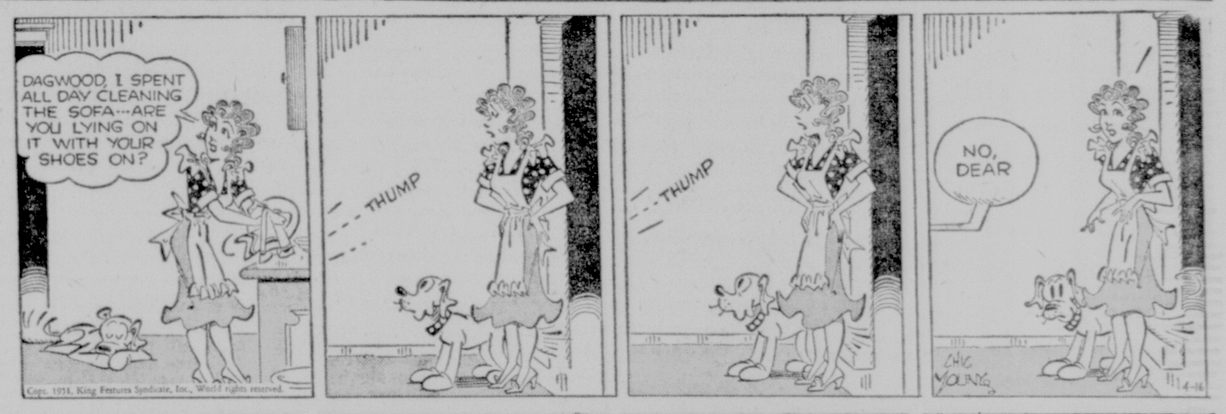

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

SUSIE Q. SMITH By Linda and Jerry Walter

"Careful, Susie . . . that's my pitching arm!"

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should a man say, "My wife won't let me?"

Answer: If he says it seriously, he is not a man so far as his emotions are concerned—indeed, you might say that he does not really have a wife; he has a mother substitute and the vital question is why he would rather have someone to "boss" him than a partner and mate. A man who allows his wife to give him orders either does not dare take the responsibility for his own life or is unconsciously seeking excuses for self-pity. In a normal marriage differences are settled by mutual agreement, not at the dictate of either wife or husband.

Does malnutrition affect the mind?

Answer: Yes, says an official report of the Government of Holland, confirming the findings of experiments made in the United States. People whose World War II diet regularly contained insufficient calories were obsessed with thoughts of food, became easily fatigued, felt cold, had little or no interest in sex, could not concentrate or remember normally, were lacking in initiative and were depressed and emotionally unstable. A nation whose citizens are half-starved cannot help being mentally as well as physically inferior to one whose people are well-fed.

Is there a "psychology" of debt collecting?

Answer: There is a psychological approach to every activity that involves human beings and in many cases the successful worker doubtless knows this better by experience than does the professional psychologist. The rule which would probably apply best in the present instance is that people usually—though not always — act as they think you expect them to act. If I wished to collect a debt I should give the impression of assuming that the debtor wanted to fulfill his obligations and that I was only trying to help him find a way to do so. Not unless this method failed should I put pressure on him.

SUSIE Q. SMITH — By Linda and Jerry Walter

"Careful, Susie . . . that's my pitching arm!"

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should a man say, "My wife won't let me?"

Answer: If he says it seriously, he is not a man so far as his emotions are concerned—indeed, you might say that he does not really have a wife; he has a mother substitute and the vital question is why he would rather have someone to "boss" him than a partner and mate. A man who allows his wife to give him orders either does not dare take the responsibility for his own life or is unconsciously seeking excuses for self-pity. In a normal marriage differences are settled by mutual agreement, not at the dictate of either wife or husband.

Does malnutrition affect the mind?

Answer: Yes, says an official report of the Government of Holland, confirming the findings of experiments made in the United States. People whose World War II diet regularly contained insufficient calories were obsessed with thoughts of food, became easily fatigued, felt cold, had little or no interest in sex, could not concentrate or remember normally, were lacking in initiative and were depressed and emotionally unstable. A nation whose citizens are half-starved cannot help being mentally as well as physically inferior to one whose people are well-fed.

Is there a "psychology" of debt collecting?

Answer: There is a psychological approach to every activity that involves human beings and in many cases the successful worker doubtless knows this better by experience than does the professional psychologist. The rule which would probably apply best in the present instance is that people usually—though not always — act as they think you expect them to act. If I wished to collect a debt I should give the impression of assuming that the debtor wanted to fulfill his obligations and that I was only trying to help him find a way to do so. Not unless this method failed should I put pressure on him.

SUSIE Q. SMITH — By Linda and Jerry Walter

"Careful, Susie . . . that's my pitching arm!"

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should a man say, "My wife won't let me?"

Answer: If he says it seriously, he is not a man so far as his emotions are concerned—indeed, you might say that he does not really have a wife; he has a mother substitute and the vital question is why he would rather have someone to "boss" him than a partner and mate. A man who allows his wife to give him orders either does not dare take the responsibility for his own life or is unconsciously seeking excuses for self-pity. In a normal marriage differences are settled by mutual agreement, not at the dictate of either wife or husband.

Does malnutrition affect the mind?

Answer: Yes, says an official report of the Government of Holland, confirming the findings of experiments made in the United States. People whose World War II diet regularly contained insufficient calories were obsessed with thoughts of food, became easily fatigued, felt cold, had little or no interest in sex, could not concentrate or remember normally, were lacking in initiative and were depressed and emotionally unstable. A nation whose citizens are half-starved cannot help being mentally as well as physically inferior to one whose people are well-fed.

Is there a "psychology" of debt collecting?

Answer: There is a psychological approach to every activity that involves human beings and in many cases the successful worker doubtless knows this better by experience than does the professional psychologist. The rule which would probably apply best in the present instance is that people usually—though not always — act as they think you expect them to act. If I wished to collect a debt I should give the impression of assuming that the debtor wanted to fulfill his obligations and that I was only trying to help him find a way to do so. Not unless this method failed should I put pressure on him.

11 Defendants Scheduled For Trials Today

Criminal Cases Will Be Heard

Eleven defendants are scheduled for trials in Allegany County Circuit Court today as the week set aside for criminal cases in the current term of court begins.

William David Taylor, 17, Kolberg Hill, Westernport, will be tried on one arson charge and two other cases of attempted arson. The youth was indicted on a charge of setting fire to the Harris Powder Company magazine on Franklin Road, one mile from Westernport last December 28. He also is accused of attempting to set fire to the Acme Furniture Company and the Sanitary Market, both in Westernport.

In another case, Gerald E. Broadwater, Moscow, is set for trial on a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods in the theft of $70 from a store operated by Anna B. Jones in Barton. Raymond T. Gallagher, 25, and Mrs. Anna May Boore, 32, Midland, charged with burglarizing the Midland Elementary School February 25 also are listed for trial today.

Two other trials on today's docket involve charges against representatives of two veterans' posts in Frostburg. In one, William A. Shuck, Earl R. Miller and William H. Festerman, Jr., are charged with allowing operation of slot machines in the Post Home of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion. In the other, Kenneth E. Pollack and Charles Walsh are accused of allowing operation of slot machines at 113 East Main Street, Frostburg, the home of John R. Fairgrieve Post No. 2462, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Tuesday has been set aside for one trial, that of Raymond H. Goss, charged in a 15-count indictment with operating a bookie establishment in premises known as the Potomac News Company, 23 North Mechanic Street. Detective Lt. Edwin R. Lilya conducted a raid on the place March 17.

A manslaughter trial is on the court's docket for Wednesday. This involves Samuel B. Lyons, 44, Paw Paw, W. Va., restaurant operator. He was indicted in January, but the trial has been delayed because of injury to witnesses. The manslaughter charge was placed against Lyons in the death of Asa Stuckey Sams, postmaster at Manns Choice, Pa., in a traffic accident on Route 51, one mile east of Oldtown, last October 15. Lyons' truck was involved in a head-on collision with an automobile in which Sams was a passenger.

All criminal appeals from lower courts are docketed for trial Thursday.

It's Ability That Counts

Miss Doris Messman, (seated), is shown here in the office of the Associated Charities with the executive secretary, Miss Jeanette A. Bonig. Miss Messman, who was a victim of polio and lost the use of her left arm, is proof that ability counts more than disability. Miss Bonig says she is just as efficient as a stenographer with the use of both hands, and has overcome her unfortunate handicap completely.

Tuberculosis Group To Elect Heads Tomorrow

Annual Report Will Be Given At Meeting

Election of officers of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. in the association office, County Building, Union Street.

The meeting of the executive committee will also include the report for the year's work for the group, Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary said.

The report compiled by the executive secretary for the year ending April 1, points out that the county TB group is one of 2,987 voluntary associations affiliated with the National Tuberculosis Association.

Miss Reinhard states that the association was able to reduce the administrative expenses and the cost of promoting the seal sale approximately 20 per cent, giving an additional amount for rehabilitation and social adjustment of tuberculosis patients of the county at home or in the sanatorium.

In all, during the year approximately 3,000 students were shown films on TB and received pamphlets on the disease. Every school in the county received copies of the association's monthly health bulletin.

In the past year, Miss Reinhard reported, the chest clinic conducted by the Health Department and financed by Christmas seal money has X-rayed about 1,500 people.

In case finding work, the county-wide X-ray survey was conducted by the association and the health department. The association in preparation for the survey purchased 15,893 schedules and helped to enlist volunteers in registering people for X-rays.

In August, 8,837 persons were X-rayed in the county as compared to approximately 7,000 for 1949.

For rehabilitation, in cooperation with J. Leo Delaney, state rehabilitation counselor for this county, four TB patients were given individual instructions in handicraft work.

About 3,000 new contributers were added to the Christmas Seal sale this year. A total of 8,250 persons of the 23,000 receiving the sales mailed in donations.

The Seal Sale goal was $15,000 and the association succeeded in raising $12,410.80. The amount received in 1949 from 5,090 contributors was $9,402.08.

The 1950 Seal Sale was $2,000 over the highest amount received in any year since 1942.

Disbursements totaled $12,770.90; the cash balance on April 1, 1950 was $13,743.31; total receipts were $12,553.97. The seal sale percentage was $2,606.27.

Mrs. Harry Barton is president of the executive committee and William J. Edwards is honorary chairman.

Other officers are Mrs. Julius Abramson, first vice president; Mrs. Aurelia Becker, second vice president; J. Leo Delaney, secretary, and Joseph M. Naughton, treasurer.

Circle No. 5 WSCS, Centre Street Methodist Church, will hold a rummage sale tomorrow at 7 p. m. in the church basement. Mrs. John L. Ort is leader.

Stenographer Proves Ability Counts More Than Disability

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Visitors to the office of Associated Charities on the second floor of City Hall see a good illustration of the argument that abilities count more than disabilities.

The reason is an attractive dark-haired young lady, Miss Doris Messman, 103 South George Street. She is the 20-year old daughter of Mrs. Pearl Messman.

Office Secretary

Since February Miss Messman has been the secretary for Miss Jeanette A. Bonig, executive secretary of Associated Charities, one of the Red Feather services of the Community Chest.

The young office worker was a victim of polio when she was only two years old and that dread disease left her with no use of her completely disabled left arm.

J. Leo Delaney, vocational rehabilitation counselor in Allegany County, helped Miss Messman get the training to fit her for her job with Associated Charities. He is one of some 16 counselors employed by the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the State Department of Education. There are eight of these counselors in Baltimore and the rest are scattered around Maryland. Delaney's territory includes both Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Allegany Graduate

A 1949 graduate of Allegany High School Doris had received some training there for secretarial work. Delaney gave Doris a number of tests which showed that she had aptitude for secretarial work in addition to her keen interest in such work.

In March, 1950, Miss Messman enrolled for additional training at Catherman's Business School under Delaney's guidance. In February she finished her studies in typing, which she does effectively with one hand, filing, shorthand and other related subjects.

Soon after she left Catherman's Doris was placed in the Associated Charities job which Miss Bonig believes she fills quite effectively and efficiently.

"Doris' story illustrates the fact that most handicapped persons can be placed in jobs that they can do as well as anyone else," Delaney asserts. He emphasizes that the placement must be directed so that these persons are guided in jobs to which they are fitted.

Since last July, Delaney has placed 46 other persons with some physical disability in jobs. Forty of them were residents of this county.

Enrolled At Ohio U

Miss Elnora Jane Troxell, 223 Fayette Street, is enrolled at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. The school has 4,726 students who represent all 88 counties of Ohio and 30 of the 48 states.

John P. Dolphin UMW Official Dies Suddenly

John P. Dolphin, 55, well known international representative for District 16 of the United Mine Workers of America, died suddenly yesterday at Shenandoah, Pa., where he had gone to convalesce from a lengthy illness. He had suffered from a heart condition for some time.

Dolphin resided at 321 Greene Street here, and had been in Cumberland since about 1933. He was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, a member of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion and veteran of World War I.

Mr. Dolphin, who spent most of his lifetime as a miner and a labor leader, was a native of Shenandoah, Pa., born there in 1895 a son of the late James and Elizabeth Gallagher Dolphin.

He had testified in Circuit Court here last week in the manslaughter trial of William J. Hughes, Midland, who was accused of running down pickets in the Georges Creek Region, with his truck, one of whom was fatally injured.

Before coming to Cumberland as International Representative for the United Mine Workers, he was a board member of District 9, at Shamokin, Pa., for eight years and prior to that time he had been a miner at Maple Hill mines in Shenandoah.

Surviving besides his widow, Mary E. Dolphin, are two sons, John J. Dolphin and Edward J. Dolphin, 321 Greene Street; a daughter, Mrs. J. R. Grabill, Baltimore; and one grandchild.

A brother, Dr. William Dolphin, died about six months ago in Philadelphia. Another brother, James Dolphin, died at Youngstown, O., about 1933.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. C. HERMAN BAILEY

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached at Southminster Presbyterian Church yesterday by the pastor, Rev. C. Herman Bailey. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Lord, Teach Us To Pray

WE are so familiar with these words that they may have lost their meaning for us. They are a part of every religious service. Their being so familiar ought to challenge us to seek their length and breadth, and depth and heighth.

Rev. Bailey

As with prayer, we take a great many things for granted. The air we breathe, the sunshine, the earth on which we walk, the water we drink, the sky above us. We have learned a few of the earth's secrets, but there are many we have not yet mastered. We walk the earth with no thought of what lies beneath our feet. But let one discover hidden in the heart of the earth the riches that may be hidden there, and man at once comes awake, and spends every ounce of his energy to be first to reap the first fruits of faithful labor.

But when we pray, do we realize that we are invoking the greatest force yet put within the reach of man? If we used as much energy in prayer as we use in other labors, we would see results that would match those manifest on the Day of Pentecost, in power and glory to God. We ought to pray with the same energy we would use in building a house, or fighting a fire. We have to put ourselves into our praying.

Now what is prayer? Someone defines prayer thus, "Prayer is the effort, conscious or unconscious, to relate ourselves to the Living Heart of the universe." That is, to God our Heavenly Father.

Some would seek to define God. God can no more be defined than can air, or the ether, or electricity, or the atom, or even light. As we do not reject things in nature we do not fully understand, we should in no wise reject the God who made it all. He bids us pray to Him. He teaches us how to pray.

There are many aspects that go to make up life, and the simplest and most fundamental of these are work, play, thought, love, and prayer. These work together like the fingers on the hand, each supplementing and complementing the other. Work, play, thought, love, the fingers, and prayer the thumb. As a finger missing from the hand would impair the work of the hand, so any one of the above mentioned parts of life that might be missing would also impair our fulfilling to the highest degree our mission in life.

Work and prayer go hand in hand. Work is a blessing. The hands are made to do work. Jesus once said, "Except ye become as little children, ye shall in no wise enter the Kingdom of Heaven." There comes the picture of a little child, hardly out of the cradle, pulling at mother's apron and begging to be let help in the work going on in the kitchen. Wise mothers put some object in the little hands so it may indeed share in the work. A child-like spirit ought to fill us in our desire to do our work . . . as unto God.

Play and prayer go hand in hand. Many of our fine college men before entering into combat on the field of sport, circle their arms around one another's shoulders and pray, not for victory, but that they may be men of honor in their game that day. Prayer lifts play to its proper level.

Thought and prayer unite in bringing the soul into the presence of God. . . "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." One, when in the act of prayer, cannot harbor thoughts that are sinful. Prayer lifts our thought life up, and helps us to maintain our thinking on a much higher level than if we never prayed.

Love is also linked with prayer if the life is to be lived at its fullest capacity. Love casts out hate. Love enables us to see with the eyes of Him who loved us so much He gave Himself for us. And seeing with His eyes, we begin to love as He loved. This makes us disciples indeed. And we long for His kingdom on earth, His kingdom of love to all people. And we pray for it.

Thus as the hand, thumb and fingers work together to fulfill the purpose for which they were made, so prayer united to our everyday experiences, brings life to focus on God and in God. From a cup of cold water given with a prayer, to man's mightiest deeds, prayer sanctifies the gift and the giver. As Jesus lived, He bids us live, And pray.

The youth was indicted on a charge of setting fire to the Harris Powder Company magazine on Franklin Road, one mile from Westernport last December 28. Tuberculosis Group To Elect Heads Tomorrow

Annual Report Will Be Given At Meeting

Election of officers of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. in the association office, County Building, Union Street.

The meeting of the executive committee will also include the report for the year's work for the group, Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary said.

The report compiled by the executive secretary for the year ending April 1, points out that the county TB group is one of 2,987 voluntary associations affiliated with the National Tuberculosis Association.

Miss Reinhard states that the association was able to reduce the administrative expenses and the cost of promoting the seal sale approximately 20 per cent, giving an additional amount for rehabilitation and social adjustment of tuberculosis patients of the county at home or in the sanatorium.

In all, during the year approximately 3,000 students were shown films on TB and received pamphlets on the disease. Every school in the county received copies of the association's monthly health bulletin.

In the past year, Miss Reinhard reported, the chest clinic conducted by the Health Department and financed by Christmas seal money has X-rayed about 1,500 people.

In case finding work, the county-wide X-ray survey was conducted by the association and the health department. The association in preparation for the survey purchased 15,893 schedules and helped to enlist volunteers in registering people for X-rays.

In August, 8,837 persons were X-rayed in the county as compared to approximately 7,000 for 1949.

For rehabilitation, in cooperation with J. Leo Delaney, state rehabilitation counselor for this county, four TB patients were given individual instructions in handicraft work.

About 3,000 new contributers were added to the Christmas Seal sale this year. A total of 8,250 persons of the 23,000 receiving the sales mailed in donations.

The Seal Sale goal was $15,000 and the association succeeded in raising $12,410.80. The amount received in 1949 from 5,090 contributors was $9,402.08.

The 1950 Seal Sale was $2,000 over the highest amount received in any year since 1942.

The financial statement shows the association beginning this year with a balance of $10,920.11 in the bank.

Disbursements totaled $12,770.90; the cash balance on April 1, 1950 was $13,743.31; total receipts were $12,553.97. The seal sale percentage was $2,606.27.

Mrs. Harry Barton is president of the executive committee and William J. Edwards is honorary chairman.

Other officers are Mrs. Julius Abramson, first vice president; Mrs. Aurelia Becker, second vice president; J. Leo Delaney, secretary, and Joseph M. Naughton, treasurer.

Circle No. 5 WSCS, Centre Street Methodist Church, will hold a rummage sale tomorrow at 7 p. m. in the church basement. Mrs. John L. Ort is leader.

Stenographer Proves Ability Counts More Than Disability

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Visitors to the office of Associated Charities on the second floor of City Hall see a good illustration of the argument that abilities count more than disabilities.

The reason is an attractive dark-haired young lady, Miss Doris Messman, 103 South George Street. She is the 20-year old daughter of Mrs. Pearl Messman.

Office Secretary

Since February Miss Messman has been the secretary for Miss Jeanette A. Bonig, executive secretary of Associated Charities, one of the Red Feather services of the Community Chest.

The young office worker was a victim of polio when she was only two years old and that dread disease left her with no use of her completely disabled left arm.

J. Leo Delaney, vocational rehabilitation counselor in Allegany County, helped Miss Messman get the training to fit her for her job with Associated Charities. He is one of some 16 counselors employed by the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the State Department of Education. There are eight of these counselors in Baltimore and the rest are scattered around Maryland. Delaney's territory includes both Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Allegany Graduate

A 1949 graduate of Allegany High School Doris had received some training there for secretarial work. Delaney gave Doris a number of tests which showed that she had aptitude for secretarial work in addition to her keen interest in such work.

In March, 1950, Miss Messman enrolled for additional training at Catherman's Business School under Delaney's guidance. In February she finished her studies in typing, which she does effectively with one hand, filing, shorthand and other related subjects.

Soon after she left Catherman's Doris was placed in the Associated Charities job which Miss Bonig believes she fills quite effectively and efficiently.

"Doris' story illustrates the fact that most handicapped persons can be placed in jobs that they can do as well as anyone else," Delaney asserts. He emphasizes that the placement must be directed so that these persons are guided in jobs to which they are fitted.

Since last July, Delaney has placed 46 other persons with some physical disability in jobs. Forty of them were residents of this county.

Enrolled At Ohio U

Miss Elnora Jane Troxell, 223 Fayette Street, is enrolled at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. The school has 4,726 students who represent all 88 counties of Ohio and 30 of the 48 states.

11 Defendants Scheduled For Trials Today

Criminal Cases Will Be Heard

Eleven defendants are scheduled for trials in Allegany County Circuit Court today as the week set aside for criminal cases in the current term of court begins.

William David Taylor, 17, Kolberg Hill, Westernport, will be tried on one arson charge and two other cases of attempted arson. The youth was indicted on a charge of setting fire to the Harris Powder Company magazine on Franklin Road, one mile from Westernport last December 28. He also is accused of attempting to set fire to the Acme Furniture Company and the Sanitary Market, both in Westernport.

In another case, Gerald E. Broadwater, Moscow, is set for trial on a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods in the theft of $70 from a store operated by Anna B. Jones in Barton. Raymond T. Gallagher, 25, and Mrs. Anna May Boore, 32, Midland, charged with burglarizing the Midland Elementary School February 25 also are listed for trial today.

Two other trials on today's docket involve charges against representatives of two veterans' posts in Frostburg. In one, William A. Shuck, Earl R. Miller and William H. Festerman, Jr., are charged with allowing operation of slot machines in the Post Home of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion. In the other, Kenneth E. Pollack and Charles Walsh are accused of allowing operation of slot machines at 113 East Main Street, Frostburg, the home of John R. Fairgrieve Post No. 2462, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

It's Ability That Counts

Miss Doris Messman, (seated), is shown here in the office of the Associated Charities with the executive secretary, Miss Jeanette A. Bonig. Miss Messman, who was a victim of polio and lost the use of her left arm, is proof that ability counts more than disability. Miss Bonig says she is just as efficient as a stenographer with the use of both hands, and has overcome her unfortunate handicap completely.

Tuberculosis Group To Elect Heads Tomorrow

Annual Report Will Be Given At Meeting

Election of officers of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. in the association office, County Building, Union Street.

The meeting of the executive committee will also include the report for the year's work for the group, Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary said.

The report compiled by the executive secretary for the year ending April 1, points out that the county TB group is one of 2,987 voluntary associations affiliated with the National Tuberculosis Association.

Miss Reinhard states that the association was able to reduce the administrative expenses and the cost of promoting the seal sale approximately 20 per cent, giving an additional amount for rehabilitation and social adjustment of tuberculosis patients of the county at home or in the sanatorium.

In all, during the year approximately 3,000 students were shown films on TB and received pamphlets on the disease. Every school in the county received copies of the association's monthly health bulletin.

In the past year, Miss Reinhard reported, the chest clinic conducted by the Health Department and financed by Christmas seal money has X-rayed about 1,500 people.

In case finding work, the county-wide X-ray survey was conducted by the association and the health department. The association in preparation for the survey purchased 15,893 schedules and helped to enlist volunteers in registering people for X-rays.

In August, 8,837 persons were X-rayed in the county as compared to approximately 7,000 for 1949.

For rehabilitation, in cooperation with J. Leo Delaney, state rehabilitation counselor for this county, four TB patients were given individual instructions in handicraft work.

About 3,000 new contributers were added to the Christmas Seal sale this year. A total of 8,250 persons of the 23,000 receiving the sales mailed in donations.

The Seal Sale goal was $15,000 and the association succeeded in raising $12,410.80. The amount received in 1949 from 5,090 contributors was $9,402.08.

The 1950 Seal Sale was $2,000 over the highest amount received in any year since 1942.

The financial statement shows the association beginning this year with a balance of $10,920.11 in the bank.

Disbursements totaled $12,770.90; the cash balance on April 1, 1950 was $13,743.31; total receipts were $12,553.97. The seal sale percentage was $2,606.27.

Mrs. Harry Barton is president of the executive committee and William J. Edwards is honorary chairman.

Other officers are Mrs. Julius Abramson, first vice president; Mrs. Aurelia Becker, second vice president; J. Leo Delaney, secretary, and Joseph M. Naughton, treasurer.

Circle No. 5 WSCS, Centre Street Methodist Church, will hold a rummage sale tomorrow at 7 p. m. in the church basement. Mrs. John L. Ort is leader.

Stenographer Proves Ability Counts More Than Disability

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Visitors to the office of Associated Charities on the second floor of City Hall see a good illustration of the argument that abilities count more than disabilities.

The reason is an attractive dark-haired young lady, Miss Doris Messman, 103 South George Street. She is the 20-year old daughter of Mrs. Pearl Messman.

Office Secretary

Since February Miss Messman has been the secretary for Miss Jeanette A. Bonig, executive secretary of Associated Charities, one of the Red Feather services of the Community Chest.

The young office worker was a victim of polio when she was only two years old and that dread disease left her with no use of her completely disabled left arm.

J. Leo Delaney, vocational rehabilitation counselor in Allegany County, helped Miss Messman get the training to fit her for her job with Associated Charities. He is one of some 16 counselors employed by the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the State Department of Education. There are eight of these counselors in Baltimore and the rest are scattered around Maryland. Delaney's territory includes both Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Allegany Graduate

A 1949 graduate of Allegany High School Doris had received some training there for secretarial work. Delaney gave Doris a number of tests which showed that she had aptitude for secretarial work in addition to her keen interest in such work.

In March, 1950, Miss Messman enrolled for additional training at Catherman's Business School under Delaney's guidance. In February she finished her studies in typing, which she does effectively with one hand, filing, shorthand and other related subjects.

Soon after she left Catherman's Doris was placed in the Associated Charities job which Miss Bonig believes she fills quite effectively and efficiently.

"Doris' story illustrates the fact that most handicapped persons can be placed in jobs that they can do as well as anyone else," Delaney asserts. He emphasizes that the placement must be directed so that these persons are guided in jobs to which they are fitted.

Since last July, Delaney has placed 46 other persons with some physical disability in jobs. Forty of them were residents of this county.

Enrolled At Ohio U

Miss Elnora Jane Troxell, 223 Fayette Street, is enrolled at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. The school has 4,726 students who represent all 88 counties of Ohio and 30 of the 48 states.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. C. HERMAN BAILEY

Lord, Teach Us To Pray

WE are so familiar with these words that they may have lost their meaning for us. They are a part of every religious service. Their being so familiar ought to challenge us to seek their length and breadth, and depth and heighth.

Rev. Bailey

As with prayer, we take a great many things for granted. The air we breathe, the sunshine, the earth on which we walk, the water we drink, the sky above us. We have learned a few of the earth's secrets, but there are many we have not yet mastered. We walk the earth with no thought of what lies beneath our feet. But let one discover hidden in the heart of the earth the riches that may be hidden there, and man at once comes awake, and spends every ounce of his energy to be first to reap the first fruits of faithful labor.

But when we pray, do we realize that we are invoking the greatest force yet put within the reach of man? If we used as much energy in prayer as we use in other labors, we would see results that would match those manifest on the Day of Pentecost, in power and glory to God. We ought to pray with the same energy we would use in building a house, or fighting a fire. We have to put ourselves into our praying.

Now what is prayer? Someone defines prayer thus, "Prayer is the effort, conscious or unconscious, to relate ourselves to the Living Heart of the universe." That is, to God our Heavenly Father.

Some would seek to define God. God can no more be defined than can air, or the ether, or electricity, or the atom, or even light. As we do not reject things in nature we do not fully understand, we should in no wise reject the God who made it all. He bids us pray to Him. He teaches us how to pray.

There are many aspects that go to make up life, and the simplest and most fundamental of these are work, play, thought, love, and prayer. These work together like the fingers on the hand, each supplementing and complementing the other. Work, play, thought, love, the fingers, and prayer the thumb. As a finger missing from the hand would impair the work of the hand, so any one of the above mentioned parts of life that might be missing would also impair our fulfilling to the highest degree our mission in life.

Work and prayer go hand in hand. Work is a blessing. The hands are made to do work. Jesus once said, "Except ye become as little children, ye shall in no wise enter the Kingdom of Heaven." There comes the picture of a little child, hardly out of the cradle, pulling at mother's apron and begging to be let help in the work going on in the kitchen. Wise mothers put some object in the little hands so it may indeed share in the work. A child-like spirit ought to fill us in our desire to do our work . . . as unto God.

Play and prayer go hand in hand. Many of our fine college men before entering into combat on the field of sport, circle their arms around one another's shoulders and pray, not for victory, but that they may be men of honor in their game that day. Prayer lifts play to its proper level.

Thought and prayer unite in bringing the soul into the presence of God. . . "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." One, when in the act of prayer, cannot harbor thoughts that are sinful. Prayer lifts our thought life up, and helps us to maintain our thinking on a much higher level than if we never prayed.

Love is also linked with prayer if the life is to be lived at its fullest capacity. Love casts out hate. Love enables us to see with the eyes of Him who loved us so much He gave Himself for us. And seeing with His eyes, we begin to love as He loved. This makes us disciples indeed. And we long for His kingdom on earth, His kingdom of love to all people. And we pray for it.

Thus as the hand, thumb and fingers work together to fulfill the purpose for which they were made, so prayer united to our everyday experiences, brings life to focus on God and in God. From a cup of cold water given with a prayer, to man's mightiest deeds, prayer sanctifies the gift and the giver. As Jesus lived, He bids us live, And pray.
